U.S. AGAIN SAYS "FREE JENKINS"

MAN PLANTS TIME BOMB FOR WORKERS

Deadly Device is Left in Bundle at Headquarters of Non-Union Stevedores in S. F.; Dozen Lives Are Menaced

Ticking of Concealed Clock Betrays Plot and the Police Find Four Pounds of Giant Powder With Fuse and Cap

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Boldly entering the headquarters of the non-union stevedores' employment bureau at 447 Montgomery street this morning, a man planted there a deadly time bomb which contained sufficient high explosive to wreck the entire offices, and probably would have resulted in the death of a dozen or more men, had it exploded at the scheduled time.

Police have a good description of the man and are combing the city for him. The bomb was planted during the middle of the morning by a man who walked into the outer office with a bundle under his arm. The would-be murderer placed his bundle on the floor in the corner of the room and mingled freely with the crowd for a short time.

Then he left the office as quietly as he entered, leaving the package where he had placed it.

TICKING OF CLOCK HEARD IN BUNDLE

Soon one of the men with whom the bomb planter had been talking, noticed that he had forgotten his [illegible] Another picked up the bundle and the men crowding around overheard the ticking of a clock within the package.

The conviction that the package was a bomb and that a deliberate attempt was being made to blow up the offices spread, and police were summoned.

Detective Sergeant Richard Tathem responded and removed the infernal machine to the police headquarters. There it was opened.

It was found to contain practically four pounds of giant powder. The powder was connected by a fuse to a cap placed under the alarm bell of a household alarm clock. The [illegible] and clock were banked with [illegible]s and the whole thing wrapped [illegible] cloth.

The clock was set for 8 o'clock and it was planted in the middle of the morning, would not have exploded until this evening.

OFFICE OPERATED BY EMPLOYERS' UNION

The employment office is operated by the Waterfront Employers' Union and is the place where men are hired to do the work of the longshoremen who have been on strike here for the past two months. The office keeps open evenings, and it is said that at 8 o'clock is the time when the office is most crowded.

At the time the bomb was planted there were approximately fifteen men in the office. The place is in two rooms, an outer and an inner office. The outer, where the bomb was planted, is where the men wait their turn in making inquiries regarding employment. The inner office is occupied by the employing representatives of the dock operators and is connected with the other by a small window.

A larger number of men have usually been in the office in the evenings, police state, and that is said to account for the timing of the bomb for 8 o'clock. On the other hand, police believe that in planting the bomb so long before the time set for it to explode greatly lessened the probability that it would not be discovered before the time for explosion.

S.F. PHONE MEN VOTE DOWN NEWLY MADE WAGE SCALE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—(United Press).—Electrical workers of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, by a small majority, have voted to reject the recent wage agreement effected by their international officers and voting for a strike, according to an announcement today by T. C. Vickers, representing the international. The vote was by only about 20 per cent of the membership and it is believed Vickers said, that a strike will not result.

Employees in Washington, Oregon and Nevada voted against the agreement, and also against the strike. California voted against the agreement but favored the strike.

Eighteen of the thirty-two locals sent in votes. Two local unions' votes arrived too late to be counted. Vickers explained that because of the lack of interest shown in the matter he had laid the whole question before International President [illegible]an at Springfield, Ill.

Viscountess Astor Nervous as She Enters Commons

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Viscountess Nancy Astor was sworn in as a member of the House of Commons this afternoon. She was the first woman to take a seat in that historic lawmaking body.

The viscountess was slightly nervous as she entered the House of Commons and saw the tremendous crowd that had gathered to welcome her. She advanced between Premier Lloyd George and former Foreign Secretary A. J. Balfour, who sponsored her.

The cheering started even before the viscountess appeared. Most of the spectators in the galleries were women. The doorways were besieged with crowds that failed to gain admission.

COURT CALENDAR IS CLEARED OF MOONEY'S CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—With the dismissal of two indictments against Thomas J. Mooney by Superior Judge Lewis Ward, San Francisco court calendars are clear [illegible] the first time since the original indictments were returned. The two remaining indictments against Mrs. Rena Mooney came up for trial in Judge Ward's court this morning and were set over until tomorrow on request of the district attorney's office.

"In setting over the cases against Rena Mooney until tomorrow, I have set them over for the last time," said Judge Ward. "Six weeks ago I told the district attorney's office that I wanted to clear my calendar of all old cases and unless they are willing to start the trial against Mooney's wife tomorrow I shall probably dismiss the indictments against her."

DISMISSAL NOT AT REQUEST OF DEFENSE

Before Judge Ward issued the dismissal of the two remaining indictments against Mooney, Maxwell McNutt, Mooney's attorney, explained that dismissal would not be on request of the defense and that Mooney had written to him saying that he preferred to come to trial on the remaining indictments. It is understood that if an acquittal could have been gained in further trials, it would have been used by Mooney forces as a basis for another appeal to the governor for a pardon for Mooney.

A plea for dismissal of the indictments against Rena Mooney will be entered on the basis of her having been formally acquitted in the trial of charges against her by a previous indictment. McNutt feels confident that the district attorney's office will not proceed to the second prosecution of Mooney's wife and that the indictments against her will be dismissed tomorrow.

GOVERNOR'S LETTER TO GO TO GOMPERS

Governor William D. Stephens' letter refusing to grant further executive clemency to Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, who are serving life sentences in San Quentin prison for participation in the Preparations Day bomb explosion in San Francisco, will be forwarded upon receipt to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, for comment or action, said Paul Scharrenburg, secretary of the State Federation of Labor, last night.

Scharrenburg stated that he and the four other California labor leaders appointed by the American Federation of Labor as committee to ask Governor Stephens for pardons for the two men, merely acted as agents for the national organization in the matter, and therefore had no comment to make on the governor's reply.

The committee drew up a letter which was signed by Scharrenburg, and Governor Stephens announced Saturday that he had sent a reply to Scharrenberg in which he urged that "organized labor should purge itself of Mooneyism." Scharrenburg said the governor's reply had not yet reached him.

Auctioneers at L. A. Abandon Red Flag

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—No more will the red flag wave in Los Angeles as the symbol of the auctioneer's profession. It has become too unpopular, and the Los Angeles Auctioneers' Association announced today the adoption of resolutions abandoning the flag of sinister hue for a blue one with white lettering.

Los Angeles auctioneers are 100 per cent American, the resolutions asserted, and therefore have decided to abandon a flag which had come to be regarded everywhere as the symbol of radicalism.

INNER HARBOR WORK HERE IS NATION'S PLAN

Development at Oakland is Believed Included in Sum of $234,000 Asked Among Estimates Made by Glass

Secretary of Treasury Urges Congress to Appropriate Nearly $5,000,000,000 to Run the Govt. Next Year

Work in the inner harbor and other portions of the existing government developments at Oakland are contemplated by Secretary of the Treasury Glass, it is supposed here, in his recommendation today that an appropriation of $234,000 be made. Members of the rivers and harbors committee of the Chamber of Commerce, who were holding a meeting at the Hotel Oakland when informed of the proposed appropriation, stated that it would go to the carrying out of routine work.

It was explained that the asking of the amount by Secretary Glass followed upon the report of a district engineer who had investigated the maintenance needs of the government project here. Such appropriations have been made from time to time by Congress for completing or sustaining works which the government has instituted in the East-bay harbor district.

MORE THAN MILLION FOR NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

The total northern California request which Secretary Glass makes is $1,226,400. The most considerable appropriation asked is that for Humboldt county. Approaches to Eureka and other government works there are to be improved as a result of requests which have been currently renewed by Eureka and Arcata interests for some time.

Estimates for rivers and harbors appropriations included:

San Francisco, $8000; Oakland harbor, $234,000; Richmond, $200,000; San Pablo, $103,400; Humboldt harbor and bay, $706,000; Sacramento River, $75,000.

The record billion dollars Congresses of ordinary peace times faded into the past today when Secretary Glass, presenting the annual estimates, proposed appropriations of practically five billion dollars for conducting the peace time activities of the government during the fiscal year 1921.

FIVE TIMES AS MUCH AS USUAL

According to these figures it will cost more than five times as much to conduct the peace time affairs of government as it did in the year immediately preceding the war. The greatest individual estimates for expenditures, of course, go to the army and the navy. The yearly interest on the war debt, however, is $1,107,500,000, which sum alone is greater than all the appropriations for all purposes, whatsoever of any peace time congresses. The estimated appropriations for the government departments were presented as follows:

Foreign intercourse, $1,324,350.91.

The total of all estimates, including some comparatively minor items, not included in the foregoing, is $4,865,410,031.62, the greatest sum ever asked of any Congress when the country was not actually at war.

BILLION DOLLARS FOR ARMY AND GUARDS

The billion dollar estimate for the army includes some $85,000,000 for the national guard. The normal peace time estimate for the army before the war was between ten and fifteen millions.

The $542,000,000 estimate for the navy includes provision for the program of increase and is comparable to an annual estimate of some fifteen millions before the war.

RICHMOND IMPROVEMENT WORK WILL PROCEED

RICHMOND, Dec. 1. — Secretary Glass' recommendation to Congress today for an appropriation of $200,000 for Richmond harbor is taken here to be merely an estimate of cash that will be necessary for Richmond harbor work under an appropriation of $428,000 made in 1918. Of this $100,000 has already been expended. The work contemplated is the building of new channels, bulkheads and deepening of the harbor.

The condition of the appropriation was that Richmond match the government's coin with $400,000 provided locally. A bond issue for this amount was defeated last month, but a new effort to float that amount of bonds is being made. The recommendation of Glass is believed to indicate that the government is proceeding upon the theory that Richmond will provide the $400,000 in due time, and that the government contemplates no halt in its improvement work here.

The recommendation of $166,400 for San Pablo harbor work is also under the terms of a former appropriation.

CONGRESS IS CONVENED FOR BIG PROBLEMS

Session is Opened While Chief Executive is Still Ill, and is Expected to Continue Until Elections in the Fall

Cummins Tries to Force the Senate to Remain in Session to Consider Railroad Bill, But Adjournment is Taken

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. — The sixty-sixth Congress met today in its first regular session, which was expected to continue until just before the presidential election next fall. There was a large attendance both in the Senate and House when the gravels of Vice-President Marshall and Speaker Gillett fell promptly at noon.

In accord with an agreement reached between Republican and Democratic leaders before the session opened, the usual formality of appointing a committee to notify the President that Congress was in session was dispensed with because of the President's illness. A formal communication of notification was drafted and despatched instead.

Fifty-five Senators answered to their names while approximately 300 members of the House were present. The crowds in the Senate and House galleries, however, were smaller than usual at an opening session.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, presented the customary resolutions, which were adopted without discussion, authorizing a committee to notify the speaker of the House of the reassembling of the Senate and fixing its daily meeting hour at noon.

PRAYS FOR SOCIAL AND POLITICAL FREEDOM

In his prayer at the opening of the Senate session the chaplain expressed the hope that "social justice, political freedom and universal brotherhood" might be the principles upon which the legislative program will be founded.

Following the prayer, Marshall gave the usual notice that the constitutional time for assembling of Congress had arrived and ordered the calling of the roll. Senator Newberry of Michigan, indicted Saturday by a federal grand jury at Grand Rapids in connection with alleged irregularities in his election, was in his seat and answered "present." Fifty-four of the ninety-six Senators answered the roll call.

Senator Lodge then offered a resolution providing for appointment of two senators to join a similar committee from the House to notify the President of the convening of Congress.

Lodge and Senator Hitchcock were named by the chair. Another resolution notifying the House of the assembling of the Senate was adopted.

Lodge then moved that the Senate adjourn until word has been received in the White House in response to the committee.

SENATE STICKS TO TIME-HONORED CUSTOM.

Senator Cummins, joined by Thomas, Colorado, and Curtis, Kansas, urged that the Senate remain in session to consider the railroad bill.

"It would not be disrespectful to the President," Cummins said. "This legislation is so important that I do not think we should delay in any way."

Lodge explained that he had made the motion to adjourn in accordance with the Senate's traditions, and again urged his motion. Thomas, Democrat, called a roll on the motion. The motion to adjourn was carried, 44 to 13. Cummins gave notice he will insist on beginning discussion of the bill tomorrow.

The House met with only about one-third of the members on the floor. Galleries were more than half-filled.

The chaplain, Rev. Henry N. Couden, opened the session after Speaker Gillett sounded his gavel, with a prayer that Congress "may be given strength and guidance to meet the great problems of the future."

The next forty-five minutes were given over, according to custom, to a calling of roll by states.

Total estimates of appropriations for the expense of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, are $4,473,696,358.62, as submitted to Congress today.

Total estimates including sinking fund, except in appropriations for 1920, are $4,865,410,031.62.

Mexico's Reasons Styled 'Mere Excuses'; Immediate Release Of Consular Agent Demanded

NOTE AGAIN ASKS JENKINS' RELEASE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Secretary Lansing has sent the following note to the Mexican government:

"I have not failed to transmit to my government the note of the Mexican government dated November 26, 1919, with reference to the case of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, and I am in receipt of a reply from the government of the United States which I am instructed to transmit to you.

"The government of the United States declines to be drawn into a juridical decision or irrelevant matters or unimportant incidents, brought forward in connection with this case. The Mexican government cannot be misled as it intimates by the citation by the United States of no principle or precedent of international law and not even the 'reason' for Jenkins' release, for obviously such citation is necessary for the enlightenment of a government of the present day. The Mexican government believes and rightly so, that the American request for Jenkins' release is not based on 'the strength of the country which makes it'; for it knows the request is founded on the justice of the right of an American citizen and United States consular officer to fair treatment while residing and discharging his duties within Mexican jurisdiction of the knowledge of the Mexican government. The Mexican government may contend that the imprisonment of the victim is necessary for the investigation by a judge under the constant vigilance of public opinion is the truth regarding his abduction, and that a right of release on bail is a palliative for such wrongful imprisonment, but the United States is constrained to the opinion that such arguments are mere excuses. The government of the United States invites and desires the fullest possible examination and investigation of this case, but it cannot admit that it is necessary that Mr. Jenkins should be retained in prison even with the privilege of applying for bail. My government will not, and is satisfied that Mr. Jenkins will not place any obstacles in the way of a complete and full examination of himself or his witnesses, or of the events leading up to and connected with his abduction."

SAYS MEXICO KNOWS REASON FOR DEMAND.

The Mexican government prefers to attribute the American note to an imperfect knowledge of the Mexican penal laws, and proceeds to explain with refinement the intricacies of Mexican penal proceedings, but the government of the United States fails to discern in their application to this case at the hands of Mexican authorities an approximation to partial treatment of Jenkins, and the Mexican government knows the absence of such treatment is the reason for the American request.

"The Mexican government maintains that it cannot grant the request of the United States for Jenkins' release for the reason that under international law no intervention is appropriate unless a denial of justice has occurred and because the Mexican government is not in a position to demand Jenkins' release in view of the separation of the executive and judicial powers under the Mexican form of government and the independence of the state courts by one of which Jenkins is held. The succinct answer to this contention is, as everyone knows, that a trial of justice has already taken place and because the American constitution specifically gives the federal tribunals jurisdiction of all cases concerning diplomatic agents and consular officers.

NOT TO BE DRIVEN BY SUBTLE ARGUMENTS

"The United States is not to be driven by such subtle arguments into a defense of its request for the release of Mr. Jenkins. It is for Mexico to show cause for his detention, not for the United States to plead for his liberation. Stripped of extraneous matter with which the Mexican note of November 26 endeavors to clothe it, the naked case of Jenkins' stands [illegible] Jenkins, a United States consular agent, accredited to the government of Mexico, is imprisoned for 'rendering false judicial testimony' in connection with abduction of which he was the victim. This is the substance of the Mexican note.

"My government is pleased to learn that the imprisonment of Jenkins stands on this single and well defined ground and that the recorded statements that Mexican authorities had caused the imprisonment of Jenkins because of collusion with his abductors and rebellion against the state are not seriously regarded by your government.

"In whose interests then is the charge of false swearing brought against Jenkins? His abductors? He is in equity the complainant in the case of his abduction, not the defendant, the Mexican government now makes him out to be. The Mexican government is prosecuting the victim instead of the perpetrators of the crime. While the outlaws who endangered his life and work away a large part of his fortune enjoy their freedom, the Mexican authorities now deprive Jenkins of his liberty. Moreover, the ground expressed for the imprisonment of Jenkins, namely, that he is supposed 'to be responsible for the crime of rendering false judicial testimony,' must be taken—and my government directs special attention to this point—as merely an expression of opinion on the part of the Mexican government, as it is entirely unsupported by evidence. There is not produced any of the testimony

Street Fighting in Rome Report by Paris Press

ITALIAN KING IS HOOTED FOLLOWING LOUD APPLAUSE

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

ROME, Dec. 1.—When King Victor Emmanuel entered the Parliament today to deliver the speech from the throne he was received with loud cheers.

Premier Nitti requested the audience to be seated. Upon this the extreme Socialists shouted "Viva Socialism," and left the chamber. Their seats were immediately taken by other deputies.

King Emmanuel and Queen Helena were given an enthusiastic reception while proceeding from the Quirinal to the Parliament buildings today to participate in the opening session of Parliament.

Bells were rung, there were salutes from many guns and cheers from the crowds. Houses along the streets were decorated with flags.

The king in his speech from the throne said that the confidence and sympathy of the nation was indispensable to Parliament, as was its collaboration in all movements for the good of the people. Italy, he said, after her great victory must direct all her efforts to the works of peace.

The king began by greeting the heroes of the army and the navy. The virtues and energies they had displayed during the war would serve to hasten the economic reconstruction, he said.

Italy, through the war, continued the king, had gained her natural frontiers, but not all of her aspirations, he declared, were considered everywhere in a spirit of justice. The aspirations of Italy in the Adriatic, he asserted, did not cloak any military designs and for the most part possessed no economic value. They were confined, he said, to the defense of native ideas. The protection of Italian populations was the duty and right of Italy.

"We have no imperialistic views," he continued, "and intend in no way that the peace of Europe shall be disturbed."

Italy regarded with the liveliest sympathy the rise of the popular classes, he said, and the movement should produce in the interior of the country a program of intensive work and production and in connection with foreign policies an increasingly democratic cooperation among nations.

Charge of Collusion Against Jenkins is Entirely Unsupported by Evidence; Officials Accused of 3d Degree

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—"The State Department means business this time," declared Representative Porter, chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, today after an hour's conference with Secretary Lansing on the Mexican situation.

BY UNITED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Characterizing as "mere excuses" Mexico's reasons for not releasing William O. Jenkins, American consular agent, the United States Government, a note made public today again asked for his "immediate release from further imprisonment."

Secretary Lansing's communication to Carranza brushes aside the Mexican reply to the first note, declaring "the United States is not to be driven by such subtle arguments into defense of its request for the release of Jenkins. It is for Mexico to show cause for his detention, not for the United States to plead for his liberation."

PROSECUTE VICTIM INSTEAD OF CRIMINALS

Mexico is accused of trying to becloud the issue. The American note asks whether the charge of perjury was brought against Jenkins in the interests of his abductors, and charges the Mexican government is "prosecuting the victim instead of the perpetrators of the crime."

The charge against Jenkins "is entirely unsupported by evidence," Lansing's note declared. An investigation of the case by American agents "fails utterly" to support the charges against him, it is stated. Mexican officials are accused of using third degree methods on Jenkins, in that they harassed him, trying to get him to give false testimony when he was weak and sick in the hospital. To get evidence against him witnesses were intimidated, the American government charges.

AMERICANS AROUSED TO INDIGNATION POINT

The American people are aroused to "the point of indignation" by the Jenkins note. Mexican authorities are also accused of failing to carry out the duty incumbent on them to apprehend Jenkins' kidnapers.

The State Department had no confirmation of a border report that Jenkins already had been released.

Chairman Porter of the House foreign affairs committee will confer with Secretary Lansing on the Mexican situation this afternoon. He will ask the Secretary of State to outline the government negotiations and stated that he would assure the department of the House's support in any action that may be taken to safeguard American rights in Mexico.

DECLARE JENKINS CONSENTED TO KIDNAPING

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 1.—Four Mexicans probably will be charged with treason in connection with the case of W. O. Jenkins, the United States consular agent at Puebla, who is now in jail, according to a statement made by Minister of Finance Luis Cabrera, a brother of the governor of Puebla.

Minister Cabrera declared that the Puebla authorities already had gathered enough evidence to indicate that Jenkins had voluntarily consented to be being kidnaped by Mexican rebels. The investigation, according to the finance minister, has implicated four Mexicans, among them Eduardo Mestre, attorney for Jenkins.

Cabrera claims that Frederick Cordoba, the rebel chieftain, who abducted the consular agent, had been friendly with Jenkins before the Puebla revolt.

Jenkins Declares Charge Of Collusion Is Childish; Ready to Prove Innocence

BY RALPH H. TURNER,
(Copyright 1919 by United Press.)

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 1.—International developments today intensify the importance of the complete declaration of innocence made by William O. Jenkins, American consular agent, in an exclusive statement given the United Press in Puebla on Friday.

"My innocence will be proven," said Jenkins. "My friends know it and Washington knows it. The books of my business show that I was prosperous and did not need the ransom money."

Jenkins stated that his attorney was seeking to transfer the case to the federal courts where, he said, it belonged.

"If necessary, I will remain in prison and fight it out," he declared. "I hope that I will not be the cause of international complications, but I am determined to establish my innocence as quickly as possible.

"I understand the charge of false declaration made against me is based upon my denial of testimony by peons that I was seen on a ranch with bandits during the period of my abduction. I have evidence to disprove my presence there, but have not been given an opportunity to present it in court. Some peons said later that they gave their testimony through fear."

COLLUSION CHARGE DECLARED CHILDISH.

Jenkins greeted me cordially in a large room formerly an office on the second floor of the old penitentiary at Puebla. He said he was glad to see me as I was the first American correspondent he had seen since his abduction Oct. 19. He seemed quite comfortably located and had no complaint of the treatment he had sustained by Mexican officials. His wife sees him daily and is permitted to take hot meals to him from their home.

"The charges of collusion were simply cooked up on fabricated allegations which are childish, absurd and without foundation," said Jenkins. "There is no explanation for them from a basis of law."

Correspondent Turner's interview with William O. Jenkins, as telegraphed from Puebla on Friday quoted Jenkins as follows:

"I wish also to deny vigorously the local insinuation that my alleged action was aimed to promote intervention. I do not favor intervention. For one reason, it would damage my business here. I will not provide bail until the American state department orders me to, because that would mean protraction, with possibly no definite settlement.

Jenkins had recovered from the attack of rheumatism he suffered while in the hands of the bandits.

"Thursday I had turkey and cranberries from home," Jenkins said.

Turner described Jenkins as a muscular, outdoor type of man, a former football player at Vanderbilt university, where he and his wife went to school. He formerly lived in Los Angeles where he now is building a home and expects to move as soon as his affairs in Mexico are settled.

During the interview, Mrs. Jenkins and her three-year-old daughter, Jane came on a visit. The child did not realize her father was a prisoner. She thought the prison was a hotel. The child leaped into her father's lap and greeted him in Spanish. She speaks English only brokenly.

Jenkins is 40 years old, and has lived in Mexico eighteen years. Fourteen years of this time have been spent in Puebla, where the consular agent has extensive business interests, including a stocking factory.

He seemed to take his imprisonment of ten days calmly and with a cheerful philosophy though he was plainly resentful of what he termed the "annoyance" from the authorities.

ASKS FOR FAIRNESS.

"Surely fairness ought to justify my stating my side of the case," Jenkins said. "The other side has been told often enough."

Relating the details of his abduction, Jenkins said he left his home at 9 o'clock in the night of Oct. 19 to inspect his factory, which is in the same block.

Five bandits hidden in the factory surprised him and demanded him to open the safe. He complied and gave the bandits the contents of the strong box—more than 50,000 pesos.

"I supposed they were through with me then," Jenkins said, "and was surprised when they demanded that I go with them. I argued unavailingly, but finally they consented to call my wife, who also pleaded for my release.

Finally, I was allowed to get my overcoat and bid farewell to my wife. Then I started into the hills with three of the bandits. Two of them already had departed with the money from the safe.

"We stayed in the hills until I was ransomed on the 26th. I was blindfolded and moved about occasionally, but the bandits treated me as well as they could. I was unused to sleeping outdoors and the three nights we spent in the rain caused me to go down with rheumatism."

STOCKTON GETS FORTY PER CENT BOOST IN MILK

STOCKTON, Dec. 1.—Milk consumers in Stockton were given a jolt today when the dairymen passed out slips to consumers notifying them that beginning today, a 40 per cent increase was effective. The new scale calls for 8 cents a pint or 14 cents a quart. A clear explanation was not given but it is believed the shipment of a considerable quantity of milk to San Francisco has a direct bearing on the local situation.

Prince of Wales Arrives in England

PORTSMOUTH, England, Dec. 1.—The Prince of Wales arrived here on board the British warship Renown at 9 o'clock this morning, following a visit to Canada and the United States. His vessel left this port on July 5. The entry of the Renown to the harbor brought a twenty-one gun salute from the flag bedecked ships, decorated in honor of the birthday of Queen Mother Alexandra.

60 RED ALIENS DEPORTED BY UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Sixty radical aliens have been deported from the United States in the last two years, the department of labor reported to Congress. Deportation of 88 others has been ordered, the department said. Total arrests on deportation warrants numbered 697 during the same period. The figures do not include those caught in the recent Red raids, the report indicated.

Short Line Railroads' Meeting Thursday

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—A special meeting of the Western Association of Short Line Railroads has been called for December 4 in San Francisco, to arrange a working agreement under which the American Short Line Association can represent the western organization at Washington. Division of returns with the big railroads where freight and passengers are hauled over more than one line and remuneration from the government for carrying mail are to be taken up also. More than forty representatives of steam roads in the territory from Denver west, and some interurban electric officials are expected to be present.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 1.—Fire destroyed the municipal golf clubhouse at the Jefferson Park links early today. Origin of the blaze is unknown. Dozens of golfers lost their collection of clubs and golfing clothes when the lockers were burned. The building also housed pumping apparatus for the Beacon Hill water reservoir. Damage will exceed $50,000.

U.S. IN NOTE AGAIN ASKS FOR JENKINS

CANNOT ACCEPT MEXICO'S EXCUSES

"The Mexican government cannot expect the United States to accept in the grave circumstances of this case such a bare, unsupported statement as a valid excuse for the imprisonment of an American consular officer, particularly in view of the fact that the investigation of the case by the representative of the United States in Mexico so far as it has proceeded, fails utterly to support this opinion of your government.

"On the contrary, the investigation gives the government of the United States every reason to believe that Mr. Jenkins has not knowingly given any false testimony in respect to vital points in his case, although he has been harassed by Mexican authorities to give such testimony, even while lying in the hospital too weak and exhausted to make them, as a result of his treatment by the abductors and while he knew evidence was being obtained against him through intimidation of witnesses. So stands the single, unsupported—and my government believes utterly unfounded—grounds alleged for Jenkins' imprisonment.

"What conclusion is to be drawn from such a reply as the Mexican government other than there has been a studied effort on the part of Mexican authorities to ensnare Jenkins in the intricacies of legal proceedings by alleging the commission of technical offenses and by bringing unsupported charges against him for a purpose.

In the first place, to divert the attention of the American public and the American government and, indeed, the Mexicans themselves, from the actual situation, namely that Puebla, the capital of the state of Puebla and perhaps the second largest city in Mexico, is without adequate protection from outlaws who infest the immediate neighborhood and who were accustomed openly and freely to visit the city without hindrance, that by the failure to furnish adequate protection in this district the Mexican authorities have, through their negligence, made possible the abduction of Jenkins and that in harmony with such an attitude on the part of the Mexican authorities they have failed to carry out the duty and obligation incumbent upon them to apprehend and punish the bandits concerned in the crime of which Jenkins was the victim. And in the second place, it appears to have been the purpose of the Mexican government to assume a wilful indifference to the feeling of the American people that has been aroused to the point of indignation by the exposure, hardships and physical suffering endured by Jenkins during his abduction and his subsequent treatment at the hands of Mexican authorities.

In view of the considerations which have been set forth and in view particularly of the belief of my government that the charge against Jenkins of deliberate false swearing is unfounded, the government of the United States must renew its request for the immediate release of Consular Agent Jenkins from further imprisonment."

Leaky Gas Toaster Nearly Causes Death

BERKELEY, Dec. 1.—A leaky gas toaster almost cost James Boise, 1017 University avenue, his life yesterday. Boise was taking his usual Sunday nap yesterday, unmindful of the fact that the toaster had been turned on. Fumes from the leaky pipe attached to the toaster filled the house. Neighbors, smelling gas, investigated and found Boise in an unconscious state. He was taken to Roosevelt hospital, where it is said he will recover.

U. S. Demands Jenkins' Release Mexican Equivocation Is Shown and rabid interventionists here admitted that the first time since the Pershing expedition after Villa, the American army is not prepared for the job in Mexico.

Except for ordnance, of which there is enough along the border now to supply five divisions, the army is unprepared. Not over 3000 men are at Fort Bliss today. Regular cavalry companies are down to fifty-five men, compared to a full complement of 100. Infantry units and other branches have been similarly skeletonized by demobilization since the armistice ending the world war.

Warehouses along and near the border, however, are bursting with munitions and enough railroad supplies are within easy reach to girdle Mexico. The lack of personnel could be overcome by a call for volunteers "for border service," which army men said could be taken to mean intervention. The regulars do not expect such a call, although the Texas militia is being recruited to full strength.

Interest here has turned from the frequently disappointing intervention scare to the forthcoming report of Senator Fall, who has been investigating the Mexican situation. Fall left El Paso recently primed to "bust the Mexican situation wide open." Fall is expected to make a preliminary statement to Congress within a few days following delivery of the President's message.

Intimations were that Fall would attack Carranza, submit documentary evidence of Carranza's alleged connection with German plots against the United States and would excoriate the Wilson administration's handling of the Mexican situation.

Growing pressure from Great Britain and France for relief from the present Mexican status was intimated as another feature in the Fall report. Intervention was to be defended by America's course in Cuba.

Carranza was being attacked by all factions on the border today, but even if he squirms out of the present "crisis," he will soon be eliminated by the presidential election in Mexico, according to belief here.

EL PASO, Texas, Dec. 1.—A report that William O. Jenkins had been released from Puebla jail was given currency here today by Mexican Consul Garcia and Vice-Consul Sandoval, but was not vouched for by them. They said they heard it in Juarez and traced it back to a Chihuahua City newspaper, but were unable to confirm it. At United States army headquarters here the report was not believed.

Residents Protest Against Plant Sites

Continuation of the hearing of protests of property owners against the operation of the Alumnium Products Company, East Tenth street and Third avenue, was postponed this morning by the City Council and will be held Monday of next week, when the case is expected to be settled. The protestants claim that the company has violated its agreement, made when they secured the exclusion of the block from the residence zone, to erect only sightly buildings and cause no annoyance to residents.

Protest against the proposed plant to be erected by the Parker Dyeing and Cleaning Works on land adjoining her home, was filed with the Council today by Mrs. A. E. Monnts, 3435 Fruitvale avenue.

Application for a permit to construct a spur track to run into their property from the Southern Pacific line was made to the Council this morning by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

DARING YAQUIS GIVE CARRANZA TROOPS DRUBBING

NOGALES, Ariz., Dec. 1.—Mexican federal troops, in the form of reinforcements for the remnants of a party of 400 federals, are in the vicinity of Guavri, twenty miles south of San Xavier, Sonora, today, seeking a band of Yaqui Indians who last Tuesday practically annihilated General Monce's command of Carranzista soldiers.

Monce was wounded in the battle, which was bloody and which reports here show was the worst defeat Yaquis have administered Carranzistas for ten years.

Details of the battle are only trickling in here from Hermosillo, where stragglers from Monce's force began arriving the last of last week. Saturday night a special train was sent out to pick up those of the wounded who had survived exposure on the battlefield. Many were brought to Ortiz, according to word received here.

The attacking Yaquis numbered several hundred and entirely surrounded General Monce's command, killing many before the Carranzistas were able to fight their way out in scattered groups.

Law's Meshes Tie Poor Cupid in Bow Knot

Marry in haste and then maybe you won't need a divorce; for maybe it won't be necessary."

This is the advice of Viola Dana, [illegible] screen comedienne, backed by actual visible proof of how marriage law and romance can run afoul. How one may think oneself married and still not be; and Viola's experiences hilarious for anyone not mixed up in such a tangle, are, she says, at least a warning for some other girl!

Anyway, Viola got married—or rather she thought she did, but the license was in one county and the preacher in another, with dire results! Of course, however, it was all right—for those things never matter in a play.

"Please Get Married," the hilarious Morosco comedy, done into film, is the play wherein the fair Viola has all these troubles. It is now playing at the American theater, with a laugh to every foot of celluloid.

Another big feature at the American, where a big double bill is playing, is the eminent star Pauline Frederick, in Arthur Wing Pinero's greatest play, "The Ladies of Letty," taken from [illegible]'s world-celebrated stage success.

WAITED THREE YEARS, SHE SAYS

Message From Texas Brother Told Mrs. Walsh What To Do.

"Since taking Tanlac I feel as well as I ever did in my life," said Mrs. N. Walsh, wife of R. Walsh, who lives at 512 East Thirty-fourth street, Tacoma, Wash., recently.

"For eleven years I suffered with my stomach, kidneys and also had rheumatism very bad. I had a very poor appetite and could hardly eat a thing I liked, and that little I did manage to force down would cause me intense pain after. Food would sour and ferment and I would bloat terribly with gas. This gas would press against my lungs, making it awful hard for me to breathe, and I suffered from shortness of breath. I also was bothered with constipation, and would have the worst sort of headaches, which would nearly drive me wild, and I would often have to go to bed and spend the day. I used to get awful dizzy and when I would reach up to turn off a light I would have to hold on to something to keep from falling. My kidneys troubled me a great deal and I had the worst sort of pains across the small of my back that hurt me so I could hardly stoop over. I had rheumatism in my hands, arms and shoulders so bad I could scarcely use them. They pained me all the time and my joints would swell and become very sore, and it was all I could do to raise my hands to comb my hair. I became badly run down, lost weight and could hardly do my housework, and when I got through I would be so worn out I would have to lie down. I was so weak I could not walk any distance without having to stop and rest. I was extremely nervous and it was an effort for me to stay in bed at night. I was so restless and I would just roll and toss from one side of the bed to the other all night long and when morning came I would feel worse than when I went to bed.

"I wrote my brother who lives in Texas how I felt and he sent me a clipping from a newspaper about Tanlac. That was three years ago and I could get any but I kept looking for it until one day I saw in a paper where Tanlac was being sold in Tacoma, and sent my son after a bottle, and of all the medicines I had taken it was the only one that ever did me any good. I began to get relief at once and in hardly no time I was in such fine condition I could eat anything I wanted and never suffer any bad after effects. The pains and gas all left me and I could breathe freely and was entirely free of headache and those dizzy spells and my kidneys were in fine condition and the pains in my back were all gone. The rheumatism has completely gone and I never have a pain of any kind. I now do all my housework and can get around fine. I have gained eight pounds in weight and feel like a different person. I am in such good health. I give Tanlac all the credit for my present good condition and am only too glad to tell others about it."

NAMES OF 100 U. C. STUDENTS ON BLACKLIST

BERKELEY, Dec. 1.—Over the protests of students unable to pay the necessary six dollars for their junior assessment a "black list," the first of its kind in the history of the University of California, will be published tomorrow morning in the Daily Californian, student paper on the campus.

George C. Tenny, editor of the college paper, announced today that the names of approximately 100 members of the junior class will be made public providing the necessary fee is not paid before this evening.

PAYS $6 FOR PUBLICITY.

The "junior assessment," levied annually on members of the third-year class, covers expenses for publishing the "Blue and Gold" year book issued on the campus with photographs of junior students and a record of college activities. Payment of the assessment entitles each collegian to a copy of the book blazoning forth his prominence to the world.

Protests from students working their way through college that the payment of a six-dollar fee means a hardship to them, have reached the office of the Daily Californian. Appeals have also been made to the administrative board of the university to avert the publication of the "black list." Students unable to pay the assessment declare that their published photographs mean nothing to them when a college education is at stake.

NAMES TO BE PUBLISHED.

Threats to publish the "black list" have been made throughout the present college term by Editor Tenney, and tomorrow he declares the names of the students failing to deposit the necessary six dollars will be made public in the college paper. The list has been prepared by the Blue and Gold management. Students desiring to avert the "disgrace" of being black-listed have until 5 o'clock tonight to pay their assessments.

Despite appeals made to the heads of the state university, members of the administrative board will leave the publication of the "black list" entirely in the hands of the students under regulations of "student control" as in operation on the campus.

CITY AND STATE AT GRIPS OVER STREET

Work of widening Seventeenth [illegible] ed this morning, has been postponed one week by the street department at the suggestion of United States Attorney Annette A. Adams, it was announced this morning at the office of the shuperintendent of streets. According to the superintendent of streets the postponement was granted as a courtesy to Mrs. Adams.

Several days ago, when the improvement started, Postmaster Joseph J. Rosborough, who is custodian for the United States treasury department of the federal building occupied as a postoffice, made a protest against the widening of Seventeenth street by the cutting of a strip approximately four feet in width from the sidewalk on the north side of the postoffice, holding that the treasury department should be advised before work was started.

The postmaster accordingly filed a written protest with the city council and was advised that the government had no control over the streets of this city and that work would proceed today.

United States Attorney Adams was called up by Rosborough Saturday in regard to the matter and she in turn got in touch with the street department. Mrs. Adams requested that the proposed improvement be held in abeyance until the treasury department could be communicated with and the street department acquiesced.

In the interim Rosborough will advise the treasury department in regard to the matter, and upon the reply will depend the action of the government.

PETITION GRANTED FOR FIRE DISTRICT

As a result of a recent disastrous fire at Centerville, when a fine church edifice was burned, a fire district has been formed there. The Board of Supervisors today granted a petition for the formation of the district and appointed a Board of Fire Commissioners numbering three, to hold office until the second Monday in April, 1920, when commissioners to be elected by the people of the district will take office.

Fire apparatus will be purchased through a tax levied on the property of the district. The petition asking for the district's formation contained fifty-seven names. The law requires at least fifty. The commissioners appointed were F. F. Bentelho, P. C. Hanson and J. C. Newry.

Two officials for the recently established public health center were appointed. Miss Marguerite Spiere was named as head of the social service department at $150 a month and Miss Lillian McKinnon was made librarian at $100 a month.

Bates & Borland, contractors, were granted an extension of thirty days for the completion of the Alvarado-Centerville highway. The time mentioned in the contract will be up December 12. The contractors stated they expected to finish the work by that time, but merely wished the extension as a safeguard.

American Schooner and Steamer Collide

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—An unidentified steamship was reported in collision with the American schooner Elizabeth in a storm 100 miles off the coast early today. Radiograms were sent out by the steamer, but could not be entirely deciphered because of static conditions. The steamship was believed to be on route to Norfolk.

Stockholders Seek to Get Back Value of Stock Put Into Controlling Company

A stipulation citing the affairs of the United Properties company in two new suits involving $67,000 were today filed against the company by D. Knabbe and Mrs. E. Egenger-gher.

According to the stipulation, the United Properties company by action of the board of directors on February 24, 1911, purchased from F. M. Smith, shares of stock in numerous corporations and public utilities to the value of $145,346,730. In exchange the United Properties company gave shares of stock in its own company.

According to the record of this transaction Smith represented that the stock acquired amounted to seventy-five per cent of each of these corporations with the exception of the Bay Cities Water company which amounted to seventy-three per cent. The other corporations over which the United Properties company obtained control were: East Shore and Suburban Railway company, The Union Water company, United Light and Power company, Sierra Water and Supply company, The Sacramento Short Line, The San Jose Short Line, Pacific Terminal company, Santa Clara Land and Water company, Consolidated California Land company.

The present suits charge that after selling stock to the value of $[illegible] to the complainants the United Properties company refused to issue bonds to secure the stock and that later all the securities of the numerous corporations were again withdrawn by F. M. Smith, leaving the investors only valueless stock. In the present suits begun before Judge Dudley Kinsell, Mrs. Egenbergher is suing for $47,000 and D. Knabbe $20,000. The complainants are represented by Attorneys Charles E. Snook and Theodore Wittschen, and Attorney R. P. Henshall represents the defendant company.

CO-EDS REVIVE PASTIMES JINKS

BERKELEY, Dec. 1.—Reviving another old campus tradition dropped during the war, co-eds at the University of California will hold their annual Women's Sports and Pastime jinks on Saturday evening in Hearst hall following women's field day activities on the campus.

Fancy costumes and sports clothes will be worn by the co-eds, with a program of stunts planned for entertainment. "Jazz" music will also be furnished for dancing.

Miss Grace Bliss, member of the '21 class, is in charge of the evening's program. Proceeds from the jinks will go toward installing a heating system for the women's swimming pool on the campus.

Saturday will mark the close of the women's athletic season on the campus, when the biggest field day ever held by the co-eds will take place on the women's athletic field. A silver cup will be awarded to the class winning the greatest number of events. The program of athletics will start at 10 o'clock in the morning with an intermission for luncheon and a continuation of the events at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Miss Dorothy Allen, junior student, is in charge of plans for the field day.

New Jersey Property Trade Causes Suit

Affidavits to prove that the New Jersey property traded by Henry P. Dalton, former county assessor, to Mrs. Edith M. Rahn for a ranch in Sacramento county was only worth $10,000 and not over $27,000 as represented, were introduced today in the trial before Judge T. W. Harris by Attorney Roscoe D. Jones for Mrs. Rahn, the plaintiff, who is suing for $20,000 damages and a clear title to the New Jersey property.

In rebuttal the defendant is seeking to show that the ranch in Sacramento county is not worth any more than the New Jersey property. The damages sued for are to cover the lack of improvements on the New Jersey property which it is alleged were represented by Dalton to be on the property.

Kolchak's Army in Desperate Plight

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The forces of Admiral Kolchak, head of the All-Russian government, are retreating with such rapidity that they are unable to construct defensive works, of which there is none west of Irkusk, says a wireless despatch from the Soviet government at Moscow today.

Partisan bands continually harass Kolchak, who has formed a body guard of 3000 to protect himself, the despatch adds.

YOUTH KILLED IN ACCIDENT ON BAY

ALAMEDA, Dec. 1.—Morris Loupy, 15-year-old Alameda boy, is dead today, the victim of the accidental discharge of a shotgun in a rowboat off Bay Farm Island yesterday while the boy, with two boy companions, were hunting ducks. Frightened and weeping from the tragic end of their duck hunt, the two surviving boys towed the boat with the body of their friend to the Mecartney home on the island, from whence the police were notified and Dr. H. C. Crum summoned. The boy was dead when Dr. Crum reached the island and the physician says that undoubtedly death was instantaneous.

The shotgun was lying loaded across one of the seats in the boat beside Thomas Hall, age 14, who was rowing toward some ducks in the distance. Hall had just fired at some other birds, reloaded the gun and took the oars. It is believed that one of the oars struck the gun lock and discharged it.

Loupy was the only son of Mrs. Madeline Loupy of 1715 Park street. The Hall boy is a neighbor and playmate. With them was Louis Beuille of 228 Laussant street, San Francisco, a cousin of Loupy. The three boys walked from the Loupy and Hall homes to the Aeolian Yacht Club headquarters on San Leandro bay yesterday morning, armed with a gun in the hands of Hall. Hall's father declares that he told the boys to stay ashore and not to go out in the boat. The Hall boy says that after they started out in the boat with Loupy rowing, it developed that Loupy could not row, so Hall took the oars, and also retained charge of the gun. The latter shot a couple of times at a couple of flying birds and then took the oars from Loupy to go after other birds.

Loupy served as a pallbearer Saturday at the funeral of his boy friend, George Vergez, a victim of sleeping sickness. His mother is a widow and is prostrated by the tragedy. The Beuille boy was to have returned to [illegible] San Francisco last night after spending several days at the Loupy home. The body of the dead boy is at the Alameda branch morgue. The charge of shot tore through Loupy's breast as the boy, with Beuille, was seated in the bow of the boat.

Va., Dec. 1.—A demand for troops was made by Prosecutor Parriott of Marshall county, following rioting in Benwood early today when one man was killed, another believed fatally hurt and several others sustained minor hurts in a revolver battle between steel strikers and a force of deputy sheriffs.

Officers said the strikers precipitated the battle when they tried to stop other steel workers from returning to their jobs in the National Tube Company plant. Heavily armed officers and citizens are patrolling the town.

Sheriff W. E. Clayton was shot in the abdomen and may die. Deputy Sheriff McCardle was slightly wounded. Matto Baron, said to have been a leader among the strikers, was shot dead.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 1.—A detachment of state police is being hurriedly mobilized for strike duty at Benwood, where rioting broke out this morning, according to an announcement by Governor Cornwell, who received a call for troops from Sheriff Clayton of Marshall county.

Heavy Storms and Volcanoes Due This Month; Professor Porta Does Not Predict Cataclysm

Disturbances Caused by the League of Planets Cannot Occur Contemporaneously: Catastrophe Idea is Wrong

Earthquakes in November All Due to Same Set of Sunspots Which Were Generated by Mars-Neptune Conjuncture

By PROF. ALBERT PORTA.

The earthquake and the hurricane, respectively, occurred on November 24 and 25, 26, 27, in Central California, can be considered as a preluding announcement of the formation, on December 17, of the league of planets forecasted by me in this great paper on August 17.

Those who read it must be convinced that it will not be December 17 the date in which, according to some gross exaggeration, of certain Eastern newspapers, an hypothetical cataclysm is to occur on earth!

The date of December 17, which has aroused so great an excitement all over the country, will simply signal the day in which the planetary sector, shown by the accompanying diagram, will attain its maximum restraining; so that the planets Mercury (1), Venus (2), the Earth (3), Mars (4), Jupiter (5) and Neptune (8) being very near one another will constitute an imposing group which I called the league of the planets.

And again, although this peculiar fact may be considered as a very important planetary event, it does not imply, in itself, any direct disastrous consequence.

It is true that these six planets constituting the league, and its opposing Uranus (7), on the other side of the sun (as I have stated in this paper on August 17) will produce on the solar photosphere a certain number of sunspots and faculae, some of which will be formed a few days before December 17 and some others a few days after it.

It is true that any sunspot or facula always produces some atmospherical or seismic disturbances on Earth, thus, beyond any doubt, from December to February some "unusual" series of terrestrial disturbances will occur in different parts of our globe.

But, beside that, these disturbances cannot occur contemporaneously, nor in a unique region of the Earth, we must drive away from our mind the idea of an impending world catastrophe!

Now, returning back to the aforesaid earthquake and hurricane of November 24, 25, 26, 27, I want to say that both of them were specially due to a same set of sunspots which, according to my calculations, were generated by the conjunctions of Mars with Neptune, on October 22, while Mars was on its way to enter the aforesaid planetary sector, the mansion of the league.

Another advertisement of the league of the planets will be an earthquake shock which, probably, will occur along the Pacific coast on December 2 or 3. It will be produced by the conjunction of Mercury with the Earth, on December 2-3, while Mercury, at a great rate, will tend to reach its place into the planetary conclave.

GENERAL FORECAST FOR DECEMBER.

To fully analyze, in a proper way, what will be the probable effects produced on Earth by such an exceptional agglomeration of planets during next December, we want to start in enumerating all their conjunctions and oppositions occurring not only in December, but also in the preceding months of October and November and those which will occur in January, 1920.

By means of the position of the planets given by the "American Ephemeris," and by careful astronomical interpolations, we will deduce that the planetary phenomena will be as follows:

A—October 1, opposition of Venus with Mercury.

B—October 8, conjunction of Jupiter with Mars.

E—December 3, conjunction of Mercury with the Earth.

G—December 9, conjunction of Venus with Neptune.

I—December 12, conjunction of Mercury with Jupiter.

J—December 13, conjunction of Mercury with Neptune.

K—December 14, conjunction of Mercury with Venus.

L—December 16, opposition of Uranus with Mercury.

T—January 21, conjunction of Neptune with the Earth.

Casting a glance on this list, we will immediately remark that the most stirring meetings of the league will be celebrated as follows:

First—On December 8-9, on which the conjunction of Venus with Jupiter and Neptune and the opposition of Mars with Uranus will take place.

Second—On December 12-14, on which the triple conjunction of Mercury with Jupiter, Neptune and Venus will occur.

Third—On December 16-17-18, on which the opposition of Mercury with Uranus and the conjunction of Mercury with Mars and Saturn will happen.

Fourth—On December 20-21-22, on which the conjunction of Mars with Saturn and the opposition of Venus with Uranus will occur.

Fifth—On December 25-26-27, on which will take place the conjunction of Jupiter with Neptune, and Venus with Saturn and Mars.

Afterwards the hypothetic league will start its disintegration; the far, little by little, will reopen its hypothetical sucks, because the planets will, little by little, distribute themselves more uniformly into the celestial sphere and consequently the Solar System will be restored to its ordinary state.

From the same list we can also infer that, discarding the phenomena A, B and C on account that their corresponding sunspots will probably be at wane in December, the fifteen planetary events occurring in that month will be enclosed between the singles conjunctions of Mercury with Uranus, and Neptune with the Earth, respectively occurring on November 13, 1919, and January 31, 1920.

And because any conjunction or opposition of two planets always produces at least two distinct solar disturbances, the Earth (in December, 1919, and January, 1920) will be affected by almost two scores of sunspots, whose potentiality will vary according to the intensity of the electro-magnetic energy possessed by the planets which will generate them.

Calling 1 (one) the intensity of the electro-magnetic energy of Neptune (the farthest planet from the sun), the intensity of such energies for the other planets can be scaled as follows:

Jupiter 700, Saturn and Venus 100, Earth 70, Mars and Mercury 30, Uranus 10 and Neptune 1.

Severe Storms to Be Formed West of Vancouver Island; Strong Winds and Rains; December, Quake, Volcano reach the Atlantic coast of America from December 30 to January 3 and afterward, escaping through the St. Lawrence valley, will start to cross the Atlantic ocean, severely standing upon Newfoundland.

Meantime, another huge storm, descending from the Iceland Island (which will be produced by the same planetary causes) will meet it at a middle way and integrated into a very powerful unity they will conjointly strike the westerly coast of Europe on or about January 3-10, 1920, and those of the Mediterranean-Adriatic seas on, nearly, January 5-12.

The westerly shores of the North Sea, Ireland, England, the Bay of Biscay, Portugal and Italy, will be hardly trayed by suffering.

EARTHQUAKES IN DECEMBER, 1919.

Referring us again to the foregoing list of planetary conjunctions and oppositions occurring from November, 1919, to February, 1920, and applying the principles outlined above, concerning the advent of the seismic occurrences on Earth, we must now calculate:

First—The heliographic position which the solar disturbances, produced by the aforesaid celestial phenomena, will occupy in the very instant of their birth.

Second—The dates in which these solar disturbances (sunspots or faculae) will cross the Central Solar Meridian, or will be very near to it.

Third—The anticipation or the postponement of the seismic advents, according to the position of the moon.

This being accurately done, we will find that, very often, two or three or more of the calculated dates will be nearly coincident, a thing which will guide us to group them into periods within which a seismic will occur.

Consequently the earthquake periods for December, 1919, will be as follows:

Period 1—(December 2-6) chiefly produced by the conjunctions of Mercury with the Earth, which will occur on December 3. Light.

Period 2 — (December 16-20) chiefly produced by the conjunctions of Mercury with the Earth (December 3), Venus with Jupiter (December 9), Venus with Neptune (December 9) and the opposition of Mars with Uranus (December 9. Severe.

Period 3—(December 22-26) principally due to the conjunctions of Mercury with Jupiter (December 12), Mercury with Neptune (December 13), Mercury with Venus (December 14), Mercury with Mars (December 17), Mercury with Saturn (December 18) and the opposition of Mercury with Uranus (December 17). Very severe.

Period 4—(December 28-31) specially produced by the conjunctions of Mercury with the Earth (December 3), Venus with Jupiter (December 9), Venus with Neptune (December 9), Mars with Saturn (December 21), Mercury with Uranus (November 13) and the opposition of Uranus with Mars (December 9) and with Venus (December 22). Severe.

NOTE.

All the aforesaid seismic periods for December, 1919, give the approximate dates in which the earthquake shocks are to occur.

The location of these seismic occurrences depends on the Epicenter, which calculation implicates the transformation of the planets heliocentric coordinate into geocentrics and geographics, a very sturdy mathematical work.

According to my investigations, the countries affected by these earthquake periods will be approximately included between 10 to 40 and between 70 to 125 degrees of longitude west of Greenwich.

And the most intense ones will occur on the terrestrial belt comprehended between 15 degrees of latitude north and 30 degrees south latitude, with a marked probability of greater severity in the Antilles, along the Mediterranean-Adriatic shores, Sumatra, Philippines, Japan or along the Pacific coast between California and Chile.

VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS IN DECEMBER.

According to my discovery, any volcanic eruption occurs when a solar disturbance crossing the Central Solar Meridian may have been generated by a conjunction or an opposition of Venus with any other planet of the solar system.

The most severe will be those due to conjunctions or opposition of Venus with Jupiter, or Saturn or Uranus.

Therefore, here are the eruptions for December, 1919:

Period 1—(December 18-24) chiefly produced by the conjunctions of Venus with Jupiter (December 9), Venus with Neptune (December 9) and Venus with Mercury (December 14). Very severe.

Period 2—(December 27-31) due to aforesaid conjunction of Venus with Jupiter and Neptune, and the opposition of Venus with Uranus (December 22). Severe.

These eruptive periods for December will affect the Mediterranean sea as well as the Pacific ocean, so that, very probably, some Italian or Grecian volcanoes will violently erupt during the periods 1 and 2, and some of the volcanoes situated on both sides of the Pacific (Asiatic and American coasts) will perform some eruption in December which, probably, will go down into history among the most severe on record. And the highest probability stands for Japan, Java, Alaska, California, Hawaii and Central America.

These will be the sad records which the aforesaid league of planets will deeply stamp on Earth in December, 1919.

SILVER THAW BREAKS WIRES.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 1.—The telephone systems of Oregon and Washington are disabled this morning as the result of snowstorms and a "silver thaw" that has fallen over the northwest. Especially at Walla Walla, Wash., La Grande, Pendleton, Oregon, is wire communication hampered by broken lines as a result of ice clinging to the wires. The freezing weather came close to the heels of a snowstorm. Communication with this city from Baker and Canon City, Ore., is cut off, as well as the points in Southern Washington. Snow has fallen to a four-inch depth at Baker, Ore., and nearby points.

ROBBER ALARM CAUSES LEE TO TAKE DAY OFF

The American Syncopated Orchestra, playing in Oakland last evening, was a vastly different organization from what it was when it played in San Francisco in the afternoon, and that was because it had got back its first violinist, Clarence Lee. With Lee's return the "pep" that was missing in the afternoon was restored.

According to the way the managers of the orchestra have it, the private car in which the members of the negro organization move from city to city has been parked in the West Oakland yards and some one, either lightly or seriously inclined, told Lee that robbers were numerous in the yards.

Immediately he bought himself a revolver and almost as immediately he was seen with it and the Oakland police informed. They took him into custody. Some hours later, too late in fact to get him to the San Francisco performance, friends discovered his predicament and secured his release with an explanation to the police.

Last evening the orchestra celebrated his return. Lee celebrated, too, for his violin performed jazz contortions that never were known to Paganini or Joachim.

PICTURE BRIDES, JAPANESE ISSUE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The subject of Japanese "picture brides" has stirred the several scores of delegates in attendance at the conference of the Japanese Association of America, now in session in the Buddist Temple on Pine street, to the highest pitch. Each side of the controversy had stanch supporters and debate waxed warm.

Failing to agree on the subject after an all-day session, a committee was appointed to investigate and report back to the conference today. It is thought probable that the conference will reach a vote today.

K. Kanzaki, secretary of the association, represented the board of directors in the discussion and urged the support of the delegates to the resolution passed by the directors advocating a discontinuance of the "picture bride" custom.

Kanzaki's argument was based on the statement that the custom was not in accordance with American ideals nor those of the Japanese who had come into the fullest understanding of the country of their adoption.

Good Health Life's Greatest Blessing

Happiness and Success Within Easy Reach of Red-Blooded Men and Women

Anemic Condition Unnecessary

Pepto-Mangan Makes Rich, Red Blood—Builds Up Pale, Thin Anemic Men and Women

Good health is the most important asset of life. Without a vigorous, strong body and a keen, clear mind, true happiness and enjoyment are impossible.

And yet so many women, and men too, whose misfortune it is to be pale, thin and anemic, hopelessly accept this condition in the belief that robust health and real happiness are not for them.

Thousands of men and women have been restored to vigorous health and lasting happiness by Gude's Pepto-Mangan. This beneficial blood tonic contains the very properties so vitally needed to improve the blood. Pepto-Mangan, if taken for a few weeks, will enrich the blood and create thousands of the tiny red blood cells that are so necessary to carry nourishment and strength to every part of the body.

Pepto-Mangan is safe, beneficial and pleasant to the taste. For convenience it is prepared in liquid and tablet form, both possessing exactly the same medicinal properties.

New Standard Retail Price List of Nemo CORSETS

Effective December 1, 1919

This increase is due to the unprecedented cost of manufacturing, and our desire to maintain the high standard of quality and service of Nemo Corsets.

To accomplish this it is imperative to use only first class and perfect materials, and all but expert operators must be eliminated.

Nemo Corsets represent a genuine economic investment, and any advance in prices is based solely on the increased cost of production. They still remain what they always have been—the cheapest in the long run, as they wear twice as long as corsets of any other make.

CITY DEMANDS FUNDS BACK FROM COUNTY

A demand for reimbursement to the city of funds alleged to be due from the county treasury, similar to the claim of the Board of Education for reimbursement to the Oakland School District for loss through the withdrawal for state taxation of operative property in the county, is being prepared by Commissioner of Streets William J. Baccus.

In behalf of the street department, Baccus will lay claim to Oakland's share of one-half of the money collected by the state for automobile licenses. The demand, according to Commissioner Baccus, may run as far back as four years ago, as during the past four years none of the money has been paid from the county treasury.

According to Baccus, of all the money collected by the state for automobile licenses, one-half is turned back to the various counties, for road improvements, and Oakland is entitled to a large share of this money.

"The county has been taking this money and putting it into the county road funds for the improvements of roads in the lower part of the county," said Baccus today, "while the greatest portion of the money comes from Oakland. I am preparing a demand for the money due under this ruling this year, and if possible I shall make a claim for the uncollected funds due during the past four years."

Unless the claim is outlawed, the sum sued for will amount to several hundred thousand dollars. The money is to be used, Baccus announced, for the improvement of East Fourteenth street and Foothill Boulevard, as under the state law the money so refunded can only be used for main highways.

Brewster, Director in Salvation Army

Lieutenant-Colonel Arthur T. Brewster, recently returned from service with the Salvation Army overseas, was installed this afternoon as director of Salvation Army activities for California and Nevada at the annual meeting of the Northern California Conference of the Salvation Army.

Presiding at the convention which will also be in session all day tomorrow, following a special public service at the army citadel at 533 Ninth street tonight, is Commissioner Thomas Estill, head of the Salvation Army in the western states. Estill will make a tour of inspection of California Salvation Army activities.

This morning Estill and Colonel Brewster attended a meeting of the directors of the California Salvation Army as incorporated in order to confer on him legal powers for administration of the army business.

Preparations for the drive for funds for the annual Salvation Army Christmas dinner in Oakland are being made, according to Comrade Talbot of the local citadel. This year no solicitation of funds will be made by house to house canvassers, in either residential or business districts.

"We rely entirely on receiving subscriptions by mail and on what is received by means of our kettles on the street," he said. "We are making this change because of the great number of unauthorized solicitors who have made away with donations in the past."

S. F. ENGINEER TO TALK

COUNTY BODY TO ENFORCE LAW IS GRANGERS' PLAN

SAN JOSE, Dec. 1.—A county organization patterned after the Civic Welfare League formed in the city for the purposes of law enforcement was advocated by F. H. Babb, chairman of the legislation committee of the San Jose grange in an address before that body. He thought that more pressure could be brought in obtaining action by county officials entrusted with enforcing laws.

Turning to national affairs he declared that Congress is showing too much partisanship and not enough patriotism at the present time.

FIVE MORE HELD IN S. F. ROBBERY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Two women and three men, believed to be the remaining members of a sextette that has been staging a series of robberies in San Francisco, were arrested this morning.

The arrest follows capture of Frank J. Desmond, who was discovered by the police shotgun squad in the alleged act of robbing Schumates' Pharmacy last night.

Police questioned Desmond, and from him discovered the headquarters of his friends. Detectives Jackson and McGrath went to a room at the Continental Hotel. There they found Mabel Hedgeberg and Lillian Spencer. While in the room the telephone rang.

HAMMOND IS SOUGHT.

"Has Hammond returned?" asked a voice.

"All right; we will be right over," came the response.

The detectives met the men in the hotel lobby with drawn guns. They searched the men and found two .45 caliber revolvers strapped around their bodies.

ALL BELIEVED IMPLICATED.

Police believe them implicated in searched the men and found two

The girls told the police that they lived in Seattle. They went to Los Angeles to become movie actresses, they said, but were not able to get work. They met the four men, who took them to San Luis Obiso in a stolen Ford. The car was deserted there and the party came to San Francisco.

Two Alleged Coat Thieves Are Caught

BERKELEY, Dec. 1. — Two alleged overcoat thieves were caught on the University of California campus today, and in their arrest the police believe they have the perpetrators of many similar thefts. The pair gave the names of Joe E. Elston, age 28, and Charles L. Baender, age 43. They had in their possession an overcoat belonging to Charles F. Pine, 1036 Euclid, a student, and which they are alleged to have stolen from the university library. The men were trailed to the library by Officers Frank Waterbury and H. P. Lee.

The three named are out on $2000 bond each.

WARRANT OUT FOR ARREST OF SEN. NEWBERRY

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 1.—United States attorneys announced this afternoon that United States Senator Newberry would appear here next Monday for arraignment on charges of conspiracy and perjury. Twenty-one other indicted men also will appear on that date, it was announced.

BY UNITED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 1.—A bench warrant charging conspiracy and perjury has been issued by District Judge Clarence against Senator Truman H. Newberry following his indictment here Saturday by a federal grand jury that investigated his campaign expenses in the primary and general election campaigns last year.

This became known shortly before noon, when it was announced that 135 warrants had been issued. This is the number of persons mentioned in the indictments. It was announced that the Newberry warrant would be sent to Maurice Splain, United States marshal in the District of Columbia. It was pointed out by government officials that Newberry, although a Senator, is eligible to service because the offense charged against him is a felony.

Four Grand Rapids men were arrested and arraigned on charges of conspiracy shortly before noon. They were W. E. Rice, manager of the West Michigan Printing Co.; George E. Rogers, former alderman; Roman Glouchcskey, attorney, and state representative George W. Welsh. All were Newberry workers. All pleaded not guilty when arraigned, with the exception of Rice. Bonds of from $1000 to $2500 were furnished in each case.

Countess Markievicz Appears in London

LONDON, Dec. 1. — Countess Georgina Markievicz, elected member of Parliament from Dublin last year, but who refused to take her seat owing to her Sinn Fein affiliations, was in London over the week end and her presence created curiosity as to whether she meant to forestall Lady Astor in taking a seat in the House of Commons by making a dramatic appearance there.

The countess, however, went today to Manchester and it is understood she has no intention of returning to divide attention with Lady Astor. The latter spent Saturday night at her country home at Cliveden and returned to London today to make her debut in the House of Commons.

The Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, of New York, who intends to become a candidate for the first suitable vacancy in Parliament has, since her election to the London City Council last year, concerned herself largely with the question of housing the poorer people. She is reputed to be remarkably popular among her constituents, who inhabit one of the dingiest neighborhoods of South London.

HELD FOR EMBEZZLEMENT.

John T. Singleton, who was arrested in Oakland on a San Francisco warrant charging embezzlement by bailee, today was held for San Francisco officers.

SAN FRANCISCO NEWS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Three members of the police shotgun squad captured one of two robbers last night after they witnessed a spectacular attempt to hold up Shumate's Pharmacy, 508 Valencia street. The second man escaped from a rear entrance while the police were covering the other robber with their shotguns.

The arrested youth told the police his name is Frank J. Desmond, 18 years old, and said he arrived three days ago from Los Angeles with Harry Walters. Walters, according to Desmond, was with him last night when the attempt was made to hold up Shumate's Pharmacy.

Detective Peter Hughes, Charles Dullea and Philip Lindecker, armed with shotguns, were patroling the Mission district in a police automobile shortly after 11 o'clock.

At Seventeenth and Valencia streets, the detectives were attracted by an automobile standing in front of the drug store. Two men were standing near the machine. The lights on the automobile were not lit.

The detectives circled the block and then parked their machine on the opposite side of the street just as the two men entered the drug store. Running to the other side of the street, the police saw the two men draw revolvers, cover Henry Dernback, the clerk, and march Dernback to the rear of the store. In the meantime one of the men, later identified as Desmond, returned to the front of the store and began to fill his pockets with costly perfumes and then open the cash register.

Hughes, Dullea and Lindecker, with shotguns, entered the store. Lindecker, covering Desmond, whose revolver was lying on the counter, commanded: "Throw up your hands!" Desmond complied.

Hearing a commotion in the rear of the store, Dullea and Hughes ran there, only to learn from the clerk that the other robber, witnessing the capture of his partner, ran out the side entrance on Seventeenth street. Search for the fugitive proved futile.

MOTHER IS ARRESTED FOR DRAWING REVOLVER.

For drawing a gun on her husband, Maurice Davies, to enforce a demand for money which had been denied earlier in the evening, Mrs. Gladys Davies, 18, mother of two children and prospective mother of a third, was arrested last night in the garage at 1641 Jackson street, where Davies works.

The girl mother told Detectives Toowig and Manning that she was penniless; that her landlady at the Barnard Hotel on Jones street had threatened to throw her out for non-payment of rent, and that her husband left her two weeks ago and had not contributed to the support of herself and the children.

Mrs. Davies insisted that she did not intend to shoot her husband, but that she thought the pistol would frighten him into giving her some money, or at least giving her a proper hearing.

BETRAYER OF ROSE WHITE NOW HUNTED

Private funeral services for Miss Rose M. White, Vallejo stenographer, who died last Friday night in the office of Dr. Frank Thomas, 445 Franklin street, San Francisco, will be held tomorrow at Vallejo, while the police of San Francisco continue the search for the man who was responsible for her condition.

The mysterious "Billy," from whom a letter to Miss White was received at the Westminster apartments, 634 Powell street, where Miss White was visiting, has been identified as William Kirtzner, law clerk with the firm of Bennett, Werner & Kaye, 2 Rector street, New York. But it is stated by Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson of San Francisco that he is not the man whose act brought about Miss White's death.

Miss White was Kirtzner's sweetheart when they worked together in New York, Matheson said. His letter to her pleaded with her to tell her mother about her condition and also offered her money if she needed help.

MOTHER ALMOST PROSTRATED

According to the girl's stepfather, G. A. Campbell of Vallejo, the girl has not seen Kirtzner since last February, when Miss White left New York for Los Angeles, where she hoped to enter the movies. Mrs. Campbell, the girl's mother, is in a high state of nervous tension. She was told of the circumstances of her daughter's death by Mrs. Blanche Stratton, with whom the girl had been visiting. In a conference with the police and Mrs. Stratton, the mother broke down.

Captain Matheson fully absolves Kirtzner. "The man responsible," he says, "is some one she associated with in Vallejo or San Francisco."

Yesterday the girl's stepfather said that he knew of no one in California with whom Miss White was well acquainted.

Dr. Thomas, in whose office Miss White died, and his landlady, Miss Monia Foller, are out of jail on $2000 cash bail each.

POLICE CASE OUTLINED

Other minor details in the framework of the case have been told by Captain Matheson. He says police have absolute evidence that she went directly to Dr. Thomas' office on arriving in San Francisco from Vallejo. Adam Miller, manager of the apartment where the girl was visiting, told police that he had seen a cripple come from the apartment with Miss White several times. Policewoman Kate O'Connor yesterday said that a witness who could testify to having seen a girl answering Miss White's description enter Dr. Thomas' office late Thursday, the day before death was reported.

Only close members of the family will be present at the funeral tomorrow. Interment will be in the Masons' and Odd Fellows' cemetery. The body was removed to Vallejo yesterday.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED

Fred N. Peterson, a shipfitter, instituted suit for $3888 damages against the San Joaquin Agricultural company today alleging a fracture of the left leg received on July 3 when his motorcycle was struck by an automobile belonging to the company at Thirteenth and Harrison streets.

I. W. W. Chief Defines Aims Of Organization at Trial Of Alleged Syndicalist

A. S. Embree, head of the Metal Mine Workers' Industrial Union, second largest of the twenty groups that compose the I. W. W., brought here from Butte, Mont., went on the stand in Judge James G. Quinn's court today as the first witness for the defense in the criminal syndicalism trial of James McHugo. He told of the origin, structure, purposes and methods of the I. W. W. in answer to the questions of William B. Cleary, counsel for the defense.

He denied that the I. W. W. believed in or upheld violence or destruction. He defined "direct action" as efforts to settle industrial troubles "on the job," rather than through legislative action. Sabotage, he said, was a necessary precaution which the laborer must take to conserve his own efficiency.

The mine workers, 45,000 strong, were second largest among the industrial unions, he said, "the largest being the lumber workers of the northwest, and following the miners come the agricultural laborers and construction workers in that order. He said the government reports in 1917 showed the total membership of the Industrial Workers of the World in 1917 to be 200,000, but claimed the membership had grown considerably since that time.

EXTRACTS READ FROM LITERATURE OF I. W. W.

Preceding Embree's testimony Cleary read further extensive extracts from I. W. W. literature, particularly from the testimony of William D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the national organiaztion, in the Chicago trials. Deputy District Attorney A. A. Rogers made strenuous objections to this reading, leveling a fierce attack at Cleary whom he accused of exercising sabotage by introducing irrelevant matter and prolonging the trial. Later he declared Cleary was "juggling with the truth." Cleary replied, adddressing the court, that he had made it a rule not to reply to personal attacks, but that he believed the matter he was reading was not irrelevant. The Haywood testimony had to do with strikes which the I. W. W. had waged and with the attitude of the I. W. W. toward war.

Embrey declared he had been a member of the I. W. W. since 1905, when he joined it with 27,000 other members of the Western Federation of Miners. Some of these withdrew later, but he remained. He explained that the Industrial Workers were organized in industrial unions, of which there were about twenty. Among them he listed the following:

Lumber workers, metal mine workers, agricultural laborers, construction employees, marine transport workers, bakery workers, metal and machinery men, shipbuilders, fishermen, furniture makers, oil field laborers, rubber workers, railroad employees and shoe workers.

He declared that all of the I. W. W.'s he knew were either busy on the job or looking for work." He denied that any considerable portion of them were idlers.

LIFE OF MINER'S USEFULNESS ESTIMATED

Embree told at some length of the Bisbee strike in 1917 when employees of the Copper queen company went out and when 1186 men were deported from Bisbee by officials and citizens. He said that the I. W. W. had made every effort to conduct the strike peacefully and that none of the members had been arrested for disorderly conduct. He told the demands of the strikers. He stated that a miner's work was difficult but that he was good for from seven to fifteen years in a mine unless he came in contact with copper dust or lime dust, which materially shortened his efficiency and, possibly, his life.

He said he joined the I. W. W. because he believed it to be the only form of labor unionism that would actually "work." He denied that the organization believed in overthrowing the government by force, or in any government that was sustained by force or was not controlled by the wishes of a majority of its citizens. He stated the chief purposes of the I. W. W. to be organization and education.

The members had set before themselves, he said, the task of learning how to manage the industries as well as work in them. They believed that the "capitalistic system was doomed by its own waste" and wanted to be ready to take over industry "when it should collapse."

DENIES DESTRUCTION IS I. W. W. WEAPON

Witness said that neither destruction nor violence was included in the program of the I. W. W. and that both were taught to be destructive of their perpetrators' objectives. He said that sabotage was never directed against the consumer. He denied that violence or intimidation was used to force men into the organization. He knew of no men who had joined the organization as a result of such intimidation. The organization, he claimed, would not be benefitted by men thus forced to join.

"Our only hope is in education," he said in answer to a question by Cleary. "We even hope that some day the gunmen employed to beat us up when we go on strike will be educated to see the light."

Embree admitted that many of the views he had expressed, so far as they referred to details, were personal opinion. Every I. W. W., however, adhere to the principles set down in the preamble. This was changed in 1908, he explained, by omitting reference to political action in order to keep the organization from being made an appendage to a Socialist political party controlled by one of the men prominent in its convention. He said the I. W. W. was non-political, not anti-political, and that it took no cognizance of a member's politics or of his religion.

'MYSTERY WOMAN' HIDES HER NAME

Because she continues to defy efforts of police inspectors to clear her identity, the "mystery woman" was returned to her cell in the city prison this morning after being arraigned in Police Judge George Samuels' court on charges of issuing fictitious checks. The woman, who gives her name as "Mrs. A. G. Davis," but denies it is her real name, will come up for examination in police court, December 6.

That she has a son "somewhere in California," whom she intimates is a public official, is the reason for the woman's protracted silence since last Saturday afternoon.

The "mystery woman" was brought to Oakland from Redwood City by Police Inspectors Richard McSorley and Frank Rossick, after [illegible] for passing checks.

Three specific complaints are lodged against her name, involving amounts from $5 to $15 and made out to College avenue merchants.

"Do whatever you want with me; keep me in jail for life," said the woman this morning to Inspector McSorley. "I will never tell who I am. My son holds a responsible office. It is myself that is charged with the crime, not he. Why should he bear the burden of any disgrace?"

Attorney Thomas B. Dozier of San Francisco is representing the "mystery woman." An attempt was made to prevail upon Police Judge George Samuels to have the case quashed, but met with no success this morning.

I. W. W.'S RAIDED.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—Detectives today were engaged in reading a half-ton of alleged radical literature seized last night in a raid by American Legion and police department members on I. W. W. headquarters. No arrests were made.

THREE YOUTHS ARRESTED FOR BOLD HOLDUPS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Three youths believed to have participated in the hold-up of Shaumate's pharmacy, 508 Valencia street, and also to have been responsible for several other hold-ups which occurred in San Francisco Saturday night, were taken into custody by the police today in a room in the Continental Hotel on Ellis street. Two young married women, Mrs. Mabel Hedberg and Mrs. Lillian Spencer, both of Seattle, also were found in the room, but later were released from custody. The police said they were not in any way concerned with the robbery. The capture of the three men and the girls was the direct result of the arrest last night of Frank J. Desmond after the hold-up of Shaumate's pharmacy. Desmond's companion escaped. Today Desmond told the police he was living at the Continental Hotel. Detectives Miles Jackson and Frank McGrath disguised themselves as plumbers and went to the room in the Continental Hotel. They found the two girls there. A short time after their arrival the telephone bell rang. It was a call from Harry Walters, alias Hammond, who was accused of having aided Desmond in holding up the pharmacy.

Acting under instructions from the detectives, one of the girls answered the telephone and told Walters to come to the room. A short time later Walters, accompanied by two other men, giving the names of Harry Stephens and George Young, entered the room and immediately were taken into custody. According to the police, revolvers and blackjacks were found in their possession. They have been booked on charges of robbery.

In the meantime the police are endeavoring to connect the four with several hold-ups and robberies which took place Saturday night, in one instance the four proprietors of a large market being robbed of several hundreds of dollars and then locked in the ice chest.

According to the two women they left Seattle and went to Los Angeles in the expectation of entering the movies. They said they met the young men down there and accompanied them in an automobile bound for this city. At San Luis Obispo the machine broke down and the girls and their companions continued their trip to this city on the train.

WOMAN SCORED IN MANN ACT CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—When Edward S. Ridgway, former United States radio operator, goes to trial before Federal District Judge Rudkin next Wednesday on a charge of violating the Mann white slave act, he will be defended by Chauncey F. Tramutolo, former assistant United States attorney.

When the case was called before Judge Rudkin today, Tramutolo arose in court and, after denouncing the charge against Ridgway as a "travesty on justice," volunteered to defend Ridgway.

The principal witness for the government in the case will be Mrs. Edna Doppler, 2813 California street, who charges that Ridgway induced her to accompany him East when he was assigned there on government duty. She asserts she accompanied Ridgway East upon his representation he would obtain a divorce from his wife, now living in Los Angeles. She charges that Ridgway has now brought about a reconciliation with his wife.

According to Tramutolo, Ridgway's predicament has been caused by a "jealous, designing" woman. He said he became familiar with the case while he was an assistant United States attorney, and that Ridgway endeavored to dissuade the woman from accompanying him East and made every effort to break off relations with her, but was unable to do so.

The case will come up on December 10. Mrs. Ridgway is reported to be en route here with her young son for the announced purpose of coming to the aid of her husband.

Thieves' Ingenuity Get Them Choice Havanas

Ingenuity is the crowning quality of a burglar duo, who are being hunted today by the Oakland police.

Their operations were reported this morning by Mrs. A. Alaux, 905 Franklin street, the Atlantic House. The complaint of this woman followed the discovery that a hole had been bored through the side of her wall. The hole gave access to the choice cigars at a stand at 512 Franklin street.

It developed, following investigation, that two suspicious characters had entered the room while the occupant was absent and bored the holes and extended their hands through for the cigars.

Professors to Debate League of Nations

Dr. Cardinal Goodwin, professor of American History in Mills college, and John P. Irish, will discuss the proposed covenant of the League of Nations tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Chabot hall. The program, which is designed to offer information on the vital issue, will be presented by Dr. Goodwin who is in favor of its adoption and Irish, who is opposed. The forum is under the auspices of Oakland Federation of Mothers' clubs.

An executive board meeting of the federation is called for 1:30 p. m.

Two Hurt As Auto and Key Train Crash

When an automobile and a Key Route train collided this afternoon at Fortieth and Grove streets, two occupants of the machine were painfully injured. They are Joseph M. Talbot, of Santa Rosa, and George Montgomery, 2129 Ninety-sixth avenue. Also in the automobile was Joseph R. Talbot, son of the Santa Rosa man, residing at 2407 South Atherton street, Berkeley. The injured were treated at the Oakland Emergency hospital. Talbot has contusions of [illegible] back muscles and several lacer[illegible]s, while Montgomery has deep [illegible]rations.

CAPITALIST IS CHARGED WITH REALTY PLOT

Charging that George C. Holbertson, capitalist and realty broker of Redwood City, and president of the Conservative Building and Investment company of San Francisco, has fraudulently used his position as president to secure property worth more than $10,000 for $784, the company in question has brought suit against Holbertson, Katherine E. Holbertson, his wife; the Savings Union Bank and Trust company of San Francisco, the Mutual Building and Loan Asscoition of San Jose, Charles O'Brien and George E. Crafts to have the property restored to the ownership of the company.

BROOKLYN TOWNSHIP TRACT.

The holdings involved consist of thirteen lots in the Ellen Stotts tract in Brooklyn township.

The complaint charges that Holbertson organized the investment company in 1911, became its president and a director and then purchased the property in question from Ben F. Woolner, formerly city attorney of Oakland. Then, it is alleged, defaults in payment occurred through the fact that, although the by-laws call for meetings of the company weekly, none was held for eight months. Foreclosures resulted and on January 14, 1919, it was sold to meet the claims against H. Holbertson purchasing it for $784.

OTHERS UNINFORMED.

It is charged that Holbertson concealed from others in the company the date of the proposed sale or that it was to take place, that there had been defaults in the payments or a foreclosure or that the weekly meetings called for by the by-laws were not being regularly held, all for the purpose of securing the property at far less than its value.

It is declared that the defendants, the Trust company of San Francisco and the Building and Loan association, knew that his relation to the company was one of trust at the time of the sale. These concerns claim an interest in the property.

GRADUATES OF 1869 TO MEET IN H. S. REUNION

With members of its first class in 1869 among numerous others who have been graduated since that time in attendance, the Oakland high school will celebrate Auditorium theater on the evening of December 12. This will be the first reunion of graduates of the school in many years and the attendance promises to be large, according to William Nat Friend, who is in charge of the program. The occasion will call together [illegible] trict who were graduated from the school.

The local high school is the oldest school of the kind in Oakland and one of the oldest in the state, having been founded in 1869. During that time there have been only three principals, the first being J. B. McChesney, who occupied that position for thirty-two years; the second being Dr. James Haven Bond, who was principal from 1951 to 1908, and C. E. Keyes, the present principal, who has been at the head of the school since 1908.

Robert M. Fitzgerald will be chairman of the evening at the reunion and Will C. Wood, state superintendent of schools, will be the principal speaker.

NEW INDUSTRY CHIEFS TO BE BANQUET GUESTS

As a tribute to their enterprise and as a token of appreciation of their efforts in behalf of the city, thirty-three new industries, through thirty-eight of their representatives, will be guests of honor at a luncheon to be given at the Hotel Oakland next Friday by the new industries committee of the chamber of commerce.

These thirty-three are in addition to about twenty-five which were similarly entertained about two months ago and all have selected Oakland, Berkeley or Alameda for their plants in 1919.

Each member of the new industries committee will be host to one or more of the representatives of the new factories and each will personally escort his guest to the luncheon and see that he gets acquainted.

Following the luncheon, the new factory men will be called upon for short talks as to why they chose the mainland of San Francisco bay for their plants.

The industries represented include factories for automobile tires, refrigerators, flour, jams, shirt waists, chemicals, paints, overalls, wool yarns and cocoanut oil.

The only harmonica factory in America will be represented by H. Regan, whose plant is at Ford and Kennedy streets. The Regans say that since the German product has been driven from the market by the war they have more orders than they can fill.

Haight Mothers to Hear Mrs. Calderwood

ALAMEDA, Dec. 1.—The Haight School Mothers' Club will have its regular business meeting Tuesday of this week. Mrs. Florence Calderwood of Oakland, agent for government hygienics, will give the main talk of the afternoon. Until after Christmas holidays the main work of the club will be along the lines of philanthropy. The entertainment committee is arranging for a moving-picture show to be held in about two weeks for the benefit of the new dental clinic.

Supervisors Meet With Harbor Board

The board of supervisors of Alameda county met the harbor committee of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce today to consider the Webster street bridge project. Both the committee and the county board have been investigating all phases of the estuary bridge plans and important progress is expected to be reported at this afternoon's session. Business men are making special effort to overcome present handicaps, asserting that the bridge is a necessity to keep pace with the community's growth.

Mother and Brother of Woman Whose Body Was Found in Trunk Sought Here

Police of the Western cities are on the watch today for a man and a woman sought in connection with the discovery of a body thought to be that of Miss Maud Tabor in a trunk in the cellar of the Tabor mansion in Lawton, Michigan.

The persons whom the authorities are bent on finding are Mrs. Lester Tabor, mother of the woman whose remains are believed to have been revealed, and Walter Tabor, a brother. They are said to have come west.

The body was found by Mrs. Florence Tabor Critchlow, a sister of Miss Maud Tabor, and who separated about two years ago from her husband, a wholesale crockery dealer in San Francisco.

The grewsome nature of the case, full particulars of which it is said have not yet been made known, promise to make it one of the most notorious in criminal records. With its setting of the beautiful Tabor home, the suspicious circumstances leading to the search for the close relatives of the woman believed dead and other facts disclosed, the tragedy is attracting nation-wide attention.

Mrs. Critchlow said she had been told by her brother that her sister had died out West. Her mother, however, refrained from talking about the matter.

DON'T TOUCH SHINGLES.

Because of difficulties with her brother, Mrs. Critchlow said she did not live at the Tabor home at the same time as he. When her mother and brother left home, her mother told her, according to Mrs. Critchlow: "Please don't touch the shingles in the cellar. I want them for kindling."

The coroner's physician reported that the woman found beneath the shingles was about to become a mother. Authorities have learned that Miss Tabor had a sweetheart at the time of her disappearance.

Miss Tabor was a graduate of the University of Michigan and taught languages in several schools. She disappeared three years ago.

1500 SWITCHMEN CALL OFF STRIKE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 1.—As suddenly and unexpectedly as it began Saturday, the strike of 1500 switchmen in the local yards was called off early today.

Switching crews began returning to the yards on schedue time this morning and it was expected terminal conditions soon would be normal again.

The decision to return was reached at a secret meeting which began yesterday and lasted far into the night, when it was understood a proposition sponsored by more conservative members of the unions to end the walkout was put to a vote and carried.

At 1:30 o'clock this morning a delegation of strikers appeared at the office of W. M. Corbett, general manager of the Kansas City Terminal Railway, and announced the men were ready to return to work.

Reasons for the decision were not forthcoming, but it was understood that an announcement at the meeting by G. W. Anderson of Cleveland, a vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, that the strike was unauthorized and that strike benefits would be withheld, had considerable to do with the final action.

The two-day walkout paralyzed freight shipping in the local yards. Passenger car switching was not affected, however, the railroads using emergency crews to move the trains.

EMPLOYEES SEEK WAGE CONFERENCE

Following the action of the City [illegible] in rejecting a recommendation of the Civil Service Board for sweeping increases of salary for municipal employees, members of the Municipal Civil Service Employees' Association this morning asked the Council members to confer with them some day this week on the question.

The action was the outcome of a meeting of the employees called Saturday afternoon when it became known that the Council had adopted the attitude of opposing any further increases in the salaries of city employees at this time and had tabled ordinances introduced by Commissioner of Streets William J. Baccus providing for the increases suggested by the Civil Seervice Board in his departure.

The communications addressed to the commissioners asking for a conference were sent out by J. W. McNiece, secretary of the Municipal Civil Service Employees' Association and senior clerk in the department of streets.

"The employees were certainly not directed by politics," said McNiece this morning in answer to the charge of Commissioner of Public Works Frederick Soderberg that the move was a political one. "We feel that we are entitled to more pay in view of the increasing cost of living. We are going to try and convince the commissioners that our cause is a just one."

According to Commissioner Revenue and Finance W. H. Edwards the employees covered in the revised schedule adopted by the Civil Service Board, have received at least one increase in the past year, and some of theb have received as many as three increases.

Teachers' Exams. to Be Held December 8

The semi-annual teachers' examination for Alameda county schools will be held next Monday, December 8, at the headquarters of the Alameda County Board of Education in the Hall of Records, according to an announcement made today by County Superintendent of Schools George W. Frick.

Applicants may register any time before 9 o'clock next Monday morning. To qualify prospective teachers must pass the examination by an average of 85 per cent or better. The examination includes 21 subjects but applicants have the privilege of taking half of the subjects now and the other half in June.

While at present there is no minimum salary for county teachers, Superintendent Frick states that William Wood, State superintendent of education, has announced his intention of appealing to the next session of the State legislature to pass a law placing a minimum salary of $1200 a year for rural teachers.

BELSH[illegible]W'S WILL IS [illegible]UND IN S. F.

MARTIN[illegible]Z, Dec. 1.—The will of the late C[illegible]arles M. Belshaw, for which search has been made for a week, was placed on file in the superior court here today. It was executed in 19[illegible]8 and left the entire estate to Belshaw's first wife, Marian Estelle Belshaw. As both the first and the second wife of Belshaw died before him, the bequest is practically voided and a legal distribution of the property will follow.

The will was found in a safe deposit box in San Francisco Saturday. John Birmingham, Jr., who has already been appointed special administrator of the estate, is now seeking letters of administration at the request of all the heirs in California, it is announced.

The Belshaw estate is estimated as being worth between $500,000 and $1,000,000, consisting of mining properties and real estate.

How you are saved $5.69 on every 1000 gallons of water

If you supplied the containers and furnished the transportation you could go to a mountain spring or stream and get 1000 gallons of water for the asking.

But the cost of these containers for 1000 gallons in addition to the expressage or hauling cost, would make this water a costly luxury.

1000 gallons of water weighs 8333 pounds. A reliable drayage company would charge you $1.50 a ton to transport this 1000 gallons of water a distance of 5 miles, or a total of $6.00.

Now, note the comparison: We gather, store and transport the water to your home that you may have any quantity you want by simply turning on a faucet. You use 1000 gallons of water and your meter has registered a charge against you of but 31c.

An extensive system of pipe, storage and distribution reservoirs and pumping equipment, makes possible this low cost of the transportation of water—the service rendered you by this company.

LONG DROUGHT BROKEN; MORE RAIN PROMISED

The long dry spell has been broken in earnest. From one end to the other the coast has been dampened since Saturday night. But for a brief interruption in the precipitation on Sunday, a steady precipitation has been reported from practically every Weather Bureau station in California ranging from a trace at several stations to sixtenths of an inch at San Diego.

According to E. A. Beals, district forecaster, the end of the storm is not yet in sight. For all portions of the State rain is predicted for tonight and Tuesday, with light southerly winds. North and east the weather is growing colder, with rain and snow generally through the North Pacific states and some snow in Nevada.

So far as heaviness of precipitation is concerned, San Francisco bay district has been most generously favored. The Oakland rainfall for the past twenty-four hours has been .38 inch with approximately the same at San Francisco and a tenth of an inch more on Mt. Tamalpais. Southward the precipitation has been lighter, though an increased fall is expected there today. Sacramento valley points have had a small amount.

Rural reports from the bay counties as well as the interior show that the rain is generally welcomed. Up to now the season has been practically as dry as that of year before last, while last year's rain record was, in maajority of cases, below normal. Farmers of various crops have been fearful that a third dry season was in prospect.

Although the amount of precipitation so far has been light, it has fallen with practically no run off. Wind indications are that the rain will continue to arrive in small but steady amounts, thus adding to the ground water its whole bulk with no noticeable wastage. The precipitation has not yet been heavy enough materially to effect water supply conditions.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—December was ushered into California with a rainfall that extended generally throughout most of the State and a promise that the precipitation would extend tonight and tomorrow from the Oregon to the Mexican line. The U. S. weather bureau announced that the whole State would be drenched in the next twenty-four hours, but that fair weather would prevail in the Northwest.

In the twenty-four hours ending at 5 a. m. today the precipitation in Sacramento was .10, Eureka .44, Red Bluff .22; Fresno .02, San Luis Obispo .01; San Jose .08; Lindsey .01, Stockton .02, Santa Rosa .20, Chico .07; Colusa .03.

Army Reorganization Is Favored by Baker in His Annual Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—War experience plainly shows the necessity for fundamental re-organization of the Army and of the War Department itself, Secretary Baker declared in his annual report. He has recommended that the emergency organization, reduced to the peacetime size, be made permanent, and approved the general staff bill for a regular establishment "adequate in size to be the nucleus of any great military mobilization the country may be called upon to make," and backed up by a system of universal training.

"In such a policy," Baker said, "the accent is upon the citizen and not the soldier; the officers becoming a permanent corps of experts and the men a body temporarily devoting a portion of their time to military training in order that they may enter civil life with a sense of national service and with superior equipment for success."

"It is difficult to believe," he said, denying any danger of militarism, "that an army could be formed of Americans; educated in our common schools, raised in the free and democratic atmosphere of our institutions, which would still be hostile to those institutions and liberties. The world war has shown quite clearly that armies reflect the spirit of the people from whom they come, rather than create a spirit of their own, so that the size of the army is not so important from the point of view now under consideration as the kind of an army."

SELECTIVE SERVICE LAW

The selective service law was accepted as a fair means of assigning men to military service in time of war, Baker said, but compulsory service in time of peace would be "a poor substitute for the volunteer principle properly applied." Raising a standing army by financial inducement is too costly to contemplate, he added, leaving only the method of "making enlistment in the army an educational opportunity" to furnish the troops.

The recommendation for an increased standing army, he declared, should not be taken to indicate a disinclination toward the prospect of disarmament. The secretary said:

"Those who know the spirit of the American army will not ascribe to it any provocative temper. There is glory left in the career and the sacrifice of the soldier, but the mild and spectacular contests of an earlier age have become a stern and cruel business, and while there is cheerful willingness to encounter the privations and make the sacrifices which war demands, the men of the American army are abreast with enlightened men everywhere in the hope that more humane and rational processes of adjustment will supersede the waste and loss of armed conflict. They are, however, of the belief that so long as it is necessary for us to maintain an army at all we are not justified in having an inefficient army, and [illegible] are to be viewed as setting them apart as men who, by reason of their experience, are qualified to speak upon the provision which should be made for the common good and the common protection should the test of war become unavoidable."

SYSTEM OF SCHOOLS

The plan recommended, Baker said, looks to the establishment of systems of schools teaching the formal branches of education and adding to them the skilled trades, "so that at the end of a term of enlistment the young man entering in his nineteenth year will go back to civil life with the physical set-up which the open, athletic life of the army gives, and with the education and training which will make him more valuable in civil pursuits than he could otherwise have been." Social and recreational opportunities also must be supplied, he said, so that the graduate from the army "will bring back with him the social virtues which result from education of mind and hand acquired in an environment made stimulating by the presence of a high purpose and sense of service, and generous association with his fellows."

"The military policy recommended by the War Department, therefore, involves a new army created with a new spirit, having wide civic usefulness, and of such size and organization as to be an adequate reliance in case of need," the report said.

REVIEWS WAR ACHIEVEMENT

Baker said the operations in France would be dealt with in the special report being prepared by General Pershing. Not even the allied war council, he said, had realized the effect upon Germany of the accelerated movement of troops and supplies from the United States and all plans had been prepared for a vigorous campaign in the spring of 1919.

"Had not the great troop movement of the summer of 1918 been carried out," he said, "the practically continuous battle on the western front from March to November would not have been possible. The saving to the world in thus shortening the war is incalculable alike in life and treasure."

The text of the initial order to General Pershing which is quoted, shows he was instructed to keep the American army "a separate and distinct component of the combined forces, the identity of which must be preserved." The method of cooperation with the allies was left to his discretion and, Baker added, "the authority thus conferred was never in any particular modified or diminished."

The report said:

"There were elements in the problem which might well have caused grave apprehension. The armies of France, Great Britain and Italy had borne for three years the furious and deadly assaults of the great German military machine, the toll levied by battle upon the man power of these nations had been appalling and it was becoming increasingly difficult for them to maintain their divisions at full strength. The submarine peril menaced the supply of munitions of war and of foodstuffs to great civil populations.

"Meanwhile the German armies had crushed long-planned offensives by the allied armies with apparent ease, and by the collapse of Russia were daily being strengthened by divisions of trained soldiers brought from the eastern front until the menace of superior numbers and apparently inexhaustible supplies of the munitions of war haunted the councils of the allied powers.

PLANS CLEARLY CONCEIVED.

"But those who visited General Pershing's headquarters during the war know that from the beginning there was resolution and a clear-sighted knowledge of the size of the task. It would have been idle to plan for a small American army. On the other hand, it required imagination and daring to plan for a large one—to take a million American men to France, separate them from home by 3000 miles of ocean, and subject them to the hazard of the uncertain and diminishing food supplies of Europe. And there still remained the further question: If these difficulties could be overcome, could they be overcome in time?

"General Pershing and his associates gave no room to doubt and accepted no counsel except that of determination. When the critical hour came and the combined energies of the United States and Great Britain did surpass all previous estimates and land 2,000,000 men in France, the arrangements made for their reception and for their maintenance were found adequate; and had the war gone on and the 80-division program been carried out, imagination and daring of these early plans would still have been adequate.

OPPOSES AIR DEPARTMENT.

"It is a wonderful story and exhibits at its best the confidence in their institutions which Americans may justly have."

Baker opposes creation of a department of the air because of the undeveloped state of the industry necessitating "federal regulation," as well as because of military considerations. It would be just as fatal to separate forces from the army, he maintained.

Since June 30, 1918, the report shows, it has been found necessary to use federal troops on sixteen different occasions to preserve law and order. The incidents listed range from Industrial Workers of the World activities in Arizona to recent movements in the coal fields. Baker concludes his report with an appreciation of the services of General Peyton C. March, chief of staff.

FIVE HOTELS ARE SOLD BY LINNARD

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1. — Announcement was made today that D. M. Linnard, head of the Linnard system of hotels and one of the best known hotel magnates in this country, had disposed of his interests in five of the big hotels operated under his name.

These are the Alexandria and California hotels of Los Angeles, the Belvedere hotel at Santa Barbara, the Ambassador at Atlantic City and the Linnard hotel in New York City.

As a result of the transaction S. W. Straus & Company will assume control of these hotels and Linnard will hereafter devote his entire time and energies to the handling of the Palace and Fairmont hotels in San Francisco and the Maryland, Huntington and Green hotels in Pasadena.

The hotels, of which Linnard disposes of, are hereafter to be known as the Ambassador Hotels system, and the names of the hotels with the exception of the Alexandria will be changed to Ambassador.

STATEMENT BY STRAUS

S. W. Straus gave out the following statement:

"A mutual arrangement has been made which, we are sure, will result in the greater success of all the properties involved in the group of hotels known hitherto as the Linnard hotel system. Mr. Linnard and his associates have been instrumental in bringing into existence a very important and successful group of hotels. Two of these properties are 3000 miles away from the others and in order to give the needful amount of attention to them Mr. Linnard has found it necessary to cross the continent many times during the last few months.

"It appears to him and all his associates that as the business and importance of the properties increase, it would be a physical impossibility for him to devote that careful, painstaking attention which he desires to give to the work.

"He has arranged, therefore, to devote his whole time and personal attention to the management to the three Pasadena hotels and to the Palace and Fairmont hotels in San Francisco.

AMBASSADOR SYSTEM

"The other five hotels will compose the Ambassador hotel system. The new arrangement will not in any way interfere with construction work now being done in connection with the new hotels of this group in Los Angeles and New York."

D. M. Linnard, in connection with the deal, gave out the following statement:

"As all of my friends in California as well as in the East know, the share which my associates and I have had in the formation of the Linnard hotel system, has met with the assumption of a tremendous amount of personal work.

"Construction operations have been going on simultaneously in Atlantic City, New York and Los Angeles. It has been necessary, therefore, for me to do an excessive amount of traveling, and, as a result of this situation, I have concluded that in justice to myself and all the interests involved with me, I ought to relieve myself of some of these burdens."

PASTOR SHOCKED BY 'SCANTINESS' OF NEW STYLES

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—The women of New York adopted styles which come from "the most immoral women of Paris," declared Lieutenant B. W. Maynard, the "flying parson," in a sermon last night at the Hanson Place Methodist Episcopal Church in Brooklyn.

The "flying parson" said he had been "shocked by the lack of clothes worn by women in New York." He asserted that many of the women wore dresses "cut so low in the back that one can count every vertebrae from the waist up."

"Let the pure women of America dictate our styles," he pleaded.

RICHMOND WINS CROSSING PLAINT

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Holding against the claim of the Santa Fe Railway that existing grade crossings are sufficient for the section of Richmond south of Ohio street, between Tenth and Twenty-third streets, the State Railroad Commission today granted the applications of the Richmond city council for authority to erect another grade crossing at Sixteenth street. The commission's order directs that the construction expense shall be divided equally between the city of Richmond and the Santa Fe.

"It is necessary in deciding on the construction of a separation of grades such as this one," the commission says, "to look not only at the present need, but also into the future in order that the growth of our cities may be properly supervised.

"Too often such growth is haphazard and a matter of chance which finally causes great inconvenience and sometimes large expenditures to rectify the error. It is undoubtedly true that there is a real need for an additional crossing at Sixteenth street, and it is fortunate that it can so readily be made in the form of a grade separation. This crossing will be a great convenience and benefit to both local and through travel."

FIRST TRAIN STARTS ON S. D.-ARIZONA LINE

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 1.—Train service on the new San Diego and Arizona railway started today between San Diego and El Centro.

On December 15 service will start between San Diego and Yuma, Ariz., and Pullman cars will be operated between San Diego and Chicago via the S. D. & A., Southern Pacific and Rock Island lines.

DAILY MAGAZINE PAGE of the OAKLAND TRIBUNE

Winifred Black Writes about FOLKS AND THINGS

Winifred Black

Twenty - two, and with a burden like this on her mind!

Read it, wives of fifty, and be glad your troubles are over and not coming to you.

Up until six months ago she was happy, poor little Twenty-two, just as happy as she could be, and she used to sing at her work and watch for her husband to come home at night, and she never had a care nor a sorrow.

And now — read what she says about it:

I am 22 years old, a wife and a mother. My husband is 24 years old and only in moderate circumstances. Up until six months ago we always "got along," and he never bothered with any one, not even men.

Nine or ten months ago, a young girl about 20 was employed in his office. Without realizing it he fell in love with this girl, and she reciprocates his love.

I found a letter to him from her, mentioned the fact to him and he told me the truth—that he really loves this girl. Lately I met his flame and was very much attracted to her.

She is not pretty, she is short and talks a great deal. Since then she has been visiting me and the children. She became very fond of the children and brings them presents whenever she visits us. She even sends gifts to them by my husband. Lately he has not said anything to me about her, but when they are in one another's company one need not be told they love one another. A look is enough.

Now, I love my husband dearly and I want him to be happy. Do you think I should divorce him for her? She said she does not want to break up our home and will love silently. Kindly advise

A PERPLEXED WIFE.

IT ISN'T HIDDEN

Now wouldn't you like to shake that girl from the office?

I would. I'd like to box her ears just as hard as she needs to have them boxed—little, vain, selfish, shallow - minded, empty - hearted, conceited creature! I suppose she's as proud of her new conquest as a pug dog is of a new ribbon on his neck.

Poor foolish thing, what kind of a conquest is it to make of a man who would be foolish enough to make such a goose of himself over her?

Of course everyone in the office sees it, every decent woman and every sensible man resents it, and the first thing she knows she will be looking for work somewhere else and the next silly little girl who takes her place will be making eyes at this very man.

The man? Well, I wish the little wife had a good six-foot brother with a broad palm. I think he would come in handy right now. It's bad enough for the man to insult and to humiliate his wife by such "goings-on," but for him to bring this girl to his own home under the same roof with his own children is really too caddish to be even discussed with calmness.

CONSIDER THE MAN

Divorce your husband for this girl? My dear, I wouldn't think of such a thing. She's only an incident. The man himself—if you can stand it to live with such a man, that is your privilege, but if you do, you must maintain your own dignity and your own self-respect.

Do not receive the girl at your home. Do not talk about her to your husband. Don't allow yourself to be made a cloak for this pair of fools and their cruel folly. This particular affair will be over in a few months if you don't fan the flame by opposition and jealousy.

Men are a good deal like little boys, you know. You have to shut your eyes sometimes and pretend not to see their follies. You, yourself, are young and so is he, perhaps you can train him into some common sense and common decency. Put this girl right out of your life just as you would any other undesirable acquaintance.

As to your husband—ah, that is an affair that you must settle for yourself.

Twenty women have been enrolled in the medical college of New York University, for the first time in its history, according to an announcement made by Dean Samuel A. Brown of the medical faculty. These women will have equal privileges with the men, attending the same classes, working in the same laboratories and clinics, and receiving their degrees after completion of the same curriculum of study.

THE LOVE SONG -:- By Juanita Hamel

TO A LITTLE GIRL

Oh, little girl with eyes of brown
And smiles that fairly light the town,
I wonder if you really know
Just why it is we love you so,
And why—with all the little girls
With shining eyes and tangled curls
That throng and dance this big world through—
Our hearts have room for only you.

Since other little girls are gay
And laugh and sing and romp in play,
And all are beautiful to see,
Why should you mean so much to me?
And why should Mother, day and night,
Make you her source of all delight,
And find always in your caress
Her greatest sum of happiness?

Oh, there's a reason good for this.
You laughing, little bright-eyed miss!
In all this town, with all its girls
With shining eyes and sun-kissed curls
If we should search it through and through
We'd find not one so fair as you;
And none, however fair of face,
Within our hearts could take your place.

For one glad day not long ago,
God sent you down to us below
And said that you were out to keep,
To guard awake and watch asleep;
And ever since the day you came
No other child has seemed the same,
No other smiles are quite so fair
As those which happily you wear.

We seem to live from day to day
To hear the things you have to say,
And just because God gave us you,
We prize the little things you do;
Though God has filled this world with flowers,
We like you best because you're ours—
In you our greatest joys we know,
And that is why we love you so.

If I had ever thought Harry Underwood thoroughly calloused, impervious to attack or criticism of his conduct I had my theory proved false when contempt upon him. The color drained from his face, leaving it ghastly for a moment. Then he mechanically lifted his hand to his hat, raised it, bowed formally and turned away.

But in that moment of withering contempt his eyes had met mine—involun[illegible] knew—and in them was a tortured appeal for a more merciful judgment than Lillian's, as passionate, unspoken protest of innocence of this particular deed.

It was only a momentary vision, but it startled me into action. Heedless of Lillian's certain anger, I rushed after him, laid a detaining hand upon his arm.

"I believe you," I whispered hurriedly, "and I will make Lillian see, too."

I spoke far more confidential than I felt, but he apparently took my words at their sound value. His eyes softened, brightened with relief, and he clasped almost convulsively my detaining hand.

"Thank you, lady fair," he answered, a mournful cadence in his voice, which made me catch my breath, and then in a hurried whisper, "I must see you soon. Mighty important news. Watch the Era.

The next moment he was walking rapidly down the corridor and I had turned to Lillian, quaking inwardly, for never had I deliberately gone counter to her plans.

She stood motionless, gazing at me, her lips pressed closely together, her face white save for a bright spot of color in either cheek, her eyes filled with a cold anger which I had seen before, but never directed toward me.

"If you're quite ready," she said icily, "suppose we go home."

She held up a summoning finger to the service chauffeur who had been standing just beyond earshot of us, and in another momonet we were all walking back along the corridor toward the main station.

The distance we traversed seemed endless to me, and neither Lillian nor I uttered a word until we reached the entrance. I fancy she was too angry to speak. I know I was, and the strength of my resentment surprised me.

That Lillian, of all people, should speak to me with that icy contemptuous anger in her voice! Lillian, who had been by closest friend, my almost sister, for so long! How could she? How dared she?

And then, like a lightning flash illuminating the dark corners of my soul, I saw, in an instant, why she dared, why Dicky, my mother-in-law, Cousin Agahta, every one around me dealt with me as if I required guidance of some sort.

THOUGHTS THAT ANGER

It was because I had allowed myself to become a sort of mental doormat, I said bitterly to myself. In my reaction from the strain of that terrible misunderstanding with my husband over my father's identity I had feared jeopardizing my regained happiness by asserting myself as I had done in the first year of my marriage. And insensibly I had acquired a mental habit of partial or total submission to the opinions and wishes of those around me, which I saw now was fast undermining my self-respect, to say nothing of my ideals.

WHAT MADGE SAID.

Anger at myself, more bitter than I had ever felt at any one else surged through me. I shook myself slightly as if by the gesture I could cast off the old skin of meek indecision, and squared by shoulders with the resolution that I would get back to the plane upon which I lived when I first met Dicky, when I was mentally courageous, and when other people deferred to my opinion, not I to theirs.

Of course, I was not so unbalanced as to include Lillian among the people whom I intended to dominate or at least to refuse domination at their hands. Lillian was like a person set apart, besides, she was my superior officer in service. But I felt that at any cost I must prevent her ever speaking to me again in the tone she had just used. My anger was cooling, and I realized that our friendship was too necessary and precious to me to risk its breaking because Lillian's misapprehension of my feelings.

I waited until we were seated in the taxicab before I spoke and it was a distinct effort for me to get out the words.

"Lillian," I said, and my voice was cold, my words slow, emphatic, "I think you owe me an apology."

A Knight of the British Empire (II)

To J. O. B. Homeland

When I finished my letter to you last evening, Jim, it occurred to me that you might like to know a few of the things which Lieutenant Sir Arthur Whitten Brown said the other evening when describing his 16-hour pioneer flight across the Atlantic with Captain John Alcock. So here goes for a few of them:

He said his navigation of the plane came partly through accident and partly through bluff. He happened to be in the factory where the plane was being built and on being asked if he thought he could navigate it across the ocean, replied, "Sure I can!" And he did.

When they were assembling the plane in England preparatory to test flights and its shipment to America for the start, he occupied a hut upon whose walls hung several framed mottoes. After he had fallen asleep one night he was awakened by a crash which, after all, proved not to be a crash. Sitting up in bed and switching on the light he found that one of the mottoes, uninjured by its fall, was resting right side up on a chair at the head of his cot.

The motto bore the words "My Grace Shall Be Sufficient for Thee."

When they sailed for America to undertake the flight there were thirteen in the party. The manufacture of the plane itself was begun on the 13th day of February. The arrival at St. John's, Nova Scotia, was on May 13, and in the whole course of the operation the number 13 seemed to pursue.

To maintain the program Alcock and Brown tried their best to "take off" on the 13th of July, but the weather being unpropitious they were obliged to wait until the 14th. Thus proving that, if conditions and calculations are right, you can take off any old day and get there.

One of the characteristic phrases used by Sir Arthur in his lecture as he described the tedium and weariness of the 16-hour flight through cloud and storm was, at times, a whirling and unreliable compass was, "And so we carried on."

Just fancy, Jim, two young chaps starting out to do the almost unbelievable, and doing it—crossing the Atlantic by land plane in a non-stop flight!

Beauty Talks by LUCREZIA BORI

The ideal proportions, of a woman are a matter of debate, even among artists and sculptors. There is no standard to go by. The Greek sculptors had their conception of the ideal and left us their wonderful marbles to perpetuate them. The Venus de Milo has been regarded as an ideal for the female form. But however exquisite are the proportions of this model, however majestic the sublimity of its loveliness, many artists of today think that the Venus de Milo if realized in the flesh would be a rather large woman. It is said that a more firmly knit and masculine body would be more fitting as an ideal for the modern American athletic girl.

The Venus de Milo is nearer the present conception of the ideal feminine form. The measurements of the Venus de Milo, as compared with the average measurements of the girls attending a famous college, are as follows:

	Venus de Medici	College Girls
Height	5 ft. 3 in.	5 ft. 3.2 in.
Weight		111.1 pounds
Neck	12.2 in.	12.2 in.
Chest, normal	33.6 in.	28.8 in.
Chest, expanded	....	31.4 in.
Waist	27.3 in.	24.6 in.
Hips	36.5 in.	35.2 in.
Thigh	21.1 in.	21.6 in.
Calf	13.8 in.	13.3 in.
Ankle	8.2 in.	8.1 in.
Upper Arm	11.4 in.	10.6 in.
Forearm	10.6 in.	8.6 in.
Wrist	6.5 in.	6.0 in.

A woman can gauge the perfection or the defects of her own figure somewhat by these tables. The college girl's standard is representative of the best type of young American womanhood taken at the time of life when women are supposed to be most beautiful in form. The Venus represents the ideal of the ancients.

TAKE TWO MEASUREMENTS.

You should learn how to take your own measurements. Stand before your mirror with your chest bare and practice breathing with your diaphragm only and with your chest only until you fully understand both phases of natural breathing. Now take a tape and draw it snugly, not tightly, around your body, just beneath the bust.

Force the air out of your lungs and look at the measurements. Write down. Expand your chest to its fullest capacity and hold it so while you again note the tape measurement.

If your expansion is less than two inches you are in need of chest expanding exercises. Four-inch chest expansions are frequently found in women singers and swimmers and others who have had occasion for lung development. A three-inch expansion is, however, sufficient for normal beauty and health.

Your chest expansion can be increased by combining chest expanding exercises with a general course in muscular development. You will be interested in applying the tape measure occasionally and observing your progress.

WORK TO IMPROVE.

Your other measurements may be improved by general exercise, lots of outdoor air and a regular diet. All these things will work wonders in your improvement. Nature is always striving for perfection, but it sometimes takes effort to help her, and nature's laws for beauty have punishments as well as rewards. If you do not take the proper exercise, and if, at the same time, you overeat, the result will show in an imperfect form and in an awkward carriage.

Whatever part of your body is found to be defective in measurement should be specially exercised with motions designed to bring the muscles in line with what conforms to the proper proportions to your height.

3 Years in the Jungles

Most of us who have any idea of the jungles of Africa think of them as abounding in game. One of the reasons is that it isn't interesting to read of vast stretches of rolling country, covered with grasses and with trees, in which nothing happens more momentous than the rising and the setting of the blazing sun, and so writers about African jungles tell only of their hunts. Another reason is because what we see in motion pictures of the jungles naturally are the interesting views of game, not far stretches of uninteresting lands.

In some sections of Africa, however, there is little game. In even the best "game country" there may be no game at all during certain seasons, or what game there is may be scarce. For this reason when travelers are preparing for long marches they give orders many days before and the hunters bring in all the game they can provide.

Then it is that the camp cooks light their fires and prepare to "lay by" food against the long march. Fatal expeditions have taught nearly all African hunters and every native that it would be suicidal to start on a long march without enough food to "see them through." They may be going through the best game country in the world, but they will not venture forth unless provided with food sufficient to last them to the place for which they're making.

It is quite true that caravan leaders and hunters don't burden their porters with an excess of food, but they all carry provisions sufficient to support the lives of their party until they reach their point of certain food supply. Some hardy hunters go forth "short provisioned," and will depend upon what they can shoot on the march to give them the luxury of "full meals."

In preparing the food supply for a march the camp cooks rely upon drying the meat the hunters bring in over the fire. Our illustration shows natives curing antelope meat. Dried and smoked it lasted this expedition through what they firmly believed would be a country of plentiful game, but in which unexpectedly game was very scarce. Without the food some of the numerous carriers undoubtedly would have perished on the way.

Music: Uplift or Diversion, Is Query Syncopated Orchestra in Answer

By ROY HARRISON DANFORTH.

How do you consider music, as an uplift or as a diversion? If the former, then dodge the American Syncopated Orchestra when it comes again: if the latter, then pursue it as far as your purse and your scriptbook allow. Diverting as music assuredly is, more diverting than ordinary jazz, for its jazz is not ordinary nor extraordinary but superextraordinary—which is a good, old circus billboard word worth recoining for the occasion.

It is obvious at first hearing of the orchestra that its members care no more for the printed program than they do for the artistic traditions of their race. They syncopated the program as they syncopated their rhythms. For three or four numbers I tried to follow it, but finding the task impossible except to a contortionist, gave it up at last in despair.

GIVES UP IN DESPAIR

In despair, too, I gave up trying to discover what they thought they were doing to the spirituals. These songs, rooted in original African music itself but renationalized on hundreds of plantations and on moonlight nights along a dozen levees, since then carefully collated and reformed by loving hands, have been an inspiration, and should have been two as worthy musicians as Antonin Dvorak, Coleridge-Taylor, Harry Burleigh, Roland Hayes. If the negro's heart of hearts ought they especially to occupy high place, they are, beyond question, the finest thing he has. Last night these musicians at Ye Liberty made mock of them, tossed them about like a juggler's toys, warped and twisted and caricatured them out of semblance to anything lovely or of worth. They were more respectful toward "Deep River," but it is not possible to sing that and be anything but respectful. "'Tis Me, O Lord," and "Noah Built the Ark" were unpardonable.

But, coming back to jazz, one finds them in a sphere where, certainly, they are beyond competition. They gave the highbrow a miserable time. Of course, he doesn't like jazz; horrible stuff, degrading, pernicious in its influence on the young, etc., etc., and etc. But if that trombone and drum, mounted high on a platform behind the rest of the orchestra, do not shake the alabaster out of his countenance he is beyond anything but drowning. It doesn't make the slightest difference what your opinion about jazz, your shoulder and ankle joints have to be made of Bessemer steel to resist the dynamic urge of these players.

DELICATE MELODIES

It was characteristic of their program that it elbowed a hilarious bit of jazz out of the way for some excursion into delicate melodies. Here, however, the peculiar composition of the orchestra, with its banjos and insistent brass, put an unfair burden upon the strings, all too short themselves in everything but violins. The tone, as for instance in Tyers' "Call of the Woods," lacked body; its sweetness was undeniable, but it was the sweetness of syrup with no bread on which to spread it.

Beyond all of these things, the exhilaration of the orchestra is not to be challenged. It can roll kinks out of the dispositions as an electric vibrator can roll them out of the muscles.

Labor Board Of Arbitration Urged in Sermon

The necessity for the establishment of a federal board for arbitration of disputes between capital and labor, the danger to Christianity of a spread of Japanese power in Asia and a refense of the right of Miss Whitney, alleged syndicalist, to speak before the Civic Center, were three topics of general political interest that gained attention in Oakland pulpits yesterday.

In his sermon delivered last night at the First Congregational church, the Rev. Francis J. Van Horn pointed out how the majority of recent labor strikes have failed. He contends the modern system of strikes and lock-outs is fundamentally wrong and while he would deprive labor of its strike weapon he would also guarantee labor against oppression by lock-out and other devices of employers.

That industrial peace can only be reached through the establishment of a national labor board with power to enforce its decrees, was his conclusion after a discussion of many phases of the capital-labor question. That the establishment of such a board be brought about through popular demand instead of what he characterized as "extreme legislation," he considers best and urged his congregation to exercise their energy in spreading the movement for such a board.

FIRST BAPTIST.

A rap at the criminal syndicalism law in general and in its application to the arrest of Miss Charlotte Anita Whitney specifically was handed down to the congregation of the First Baptist church from the pulpit by the Rev. William Keeney Towner, pastor.

Dr. Towner told his hearers that he has known Miss Whitney personally and has always regarded her as a person of the highest motives and ideals.

"Her motives are as clear as sunlight," he said and continued:

"I know that wherever she is, she is in quest of justice, mercy and truth, and now she is after what we are all after—a larger freedom. We are for progress that will bring a larger democracy. We want more light and air on our big questions. If you have a dangerous thought on your mind the best thing for it is to bring it out and air it."

"I have been looking for some decision from some court in the United States declaring it to be criminal syndicalism for any body of decent citizens to hold a meeting and hear a decent speaker," he concluded. The caption for his sermon was "Call the Police, a Woman Wants to Talk."

REV. PARSONS' SPEAKS.

The first visit of Rev. Edward L. Parsons, bishop coadjutor of California to the Eastbay, was paid to Trinity parish at the morning services yesterday, the twenty-first anniversary of the parish' foundation.

A special music service was held in the evening by the Trinity choir under the direction of Minnie Carter. The program included two anthems, "Let Him Give Thanks," and "Praise God in His Holiness," a soprano and contralto duet by Mrs Carter and Anita Cadding and a duet by Mrs Carter and George Wright. The trio of women's voices, "Lift Thine Eyes," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was also sung.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL.

"Every Name Week" in the campaign of the Protestant Episcopal church for funds for extension of its foreign and home religious service work begins today. Campaign workers will visit homes of all persons on the membership rolls of Eastbay parishes and furnish them with cards on which they may signify their desire to aid the church both with personal service and funds. Pledges for money will be taken for monthly contributions for a period of three years.

It is proposed to raise $42,000,000 throughout the nation by this campaign. Church services will be held daily in all Episcopal churches during this week.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

A revival of the spirit of "wonderful sympathy" in the medicinal and healing professions is seen as a need before further progress in these sciences can be made by the Rev. Frank M. Sibley of the First Presbyterian church of Oakland. There is too much materialism in the healing profession of the modern era, Dr. Sibley asserts, and in his sermon last night urging a closer unity between spiritual and material forces in the healing professions, declared [illegible] had dethroned the spirit of Christ.

"Until something of this spirit of commercialism is taken from modern medicine and surgery," he declared, "little further progress can be made."

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

Assailing the militaristic aggressiveness of the Japanese in the Orient as "Christianity's Greatest Foe" the Rev. Dr. H. H. Guy of Berkeley, twelve years a missionary in the Far East, who occupied the pulpit last night in the First Congregational church, declared that the time has come when the Japanese must be curbed.

"The situation has now reached such a point that the forces of Christianity in the Orient are thwarted at every turn by the Japanese," he asserted. Dr. Guy believes that the spirit of aggression of Japan is now a menace to the civilized nations of the world.

"But the large number of liberal-minded persons in Japan who are opposed to the foreign policy of the ruling powers in Japan" may be considered a hopeful sign, he believes, so that the fight to curb the "Huns of the Orient" may not be so great as it is believed by some.

PLYMOUTH CHURCH.

Mrs John Howland, wife of Dr. John Howland, president of the Union Theological Seminary in Mexico City, will speak before the Women's Club of the Plymouth church in Mayflower hall Thursday afternoon. She will tell of the work of the seminary and her own religious work in the southern republic during their years in Mexico.

The primary department of the Plymouth Sunday school will offer an entertainment at the church consisting of a moving picture and a number of specialties by the children.

PRESBYTERIAN CONFERENCE.

To organize the work of the New Era movement of the Presbyterian church an interchurch conference of Presbyterian pastors of the Central California district will meet in San Francisco December 15, 16 and 17. The following day will be held the San Francisco Pacific coast institute of the Presbyterian movement at which speakers from Eastern cities will be present.

The San Francisco meetings are the last of a series of similar meetings to be held in Pacific coast cities during the first two weeks in December.

PIONEER METHODIST.

Americans must look to their flag and their institutions of righteousness with the same reverence as did the Israelites to the Ark of the Covenant, Harold Govette pastor, told the congregation of the Pioneer Memorial Methodist church in a sermon yesterday morning.

"If the Bolsheviki have their way," the Rev. Govette declared, "they will prostitute our flag beneath their dishallowed feet. But we hold the flag of our country as the most sacred emblem we possess, and we will suffer the loss of all things before we allow an unkind hand to mar its beauty."

Broker Forced to Tell Only Truth Is "Impossible"

With a New York broker pledged by force of dramatic circumstance to tell "Nothing But the Truth," even while present at the functions of a smart social set where through following this simple dictum of one of the commandments one soon becomes relegated to the ranks of the "impossible," the Willie Collier success was put over big on its return [illegible] yesterday afternoon. Cliff Thompson is the one who is in the modern comedy writers "hot water" this week and his efforts to keep cool furnished all the laughs the audience cared for and more.

Cliff Thompson plays opposite Nana Bryant this week and the versatility shown by him in the lesser roles that he has played with the Fulton company combined with his success yesterday in the leading male role should make him a contender for "leading man" honors.

SOCIETY WOMEN INSULTED.

Society women are insulted and business associates quit him when Cliff, the New York broker, starts out on a career of telling the truth.

Nana Bryant in the feminine lead is as charming as ever and puts a new twist on her comedy work that shows a new angle to her versatility. The rest of the Fulton cast is at its best and this presentation of a play of proven success is in many respects equal to that of the original road show company which appeared in Oakland last season.

COMEDY IS CLEAN.

And the play. We like the play because it proves something about modern comedy. And that is that all the modern stage successes are not bedroom farces. Here is a new play that is full of good clean comedy. Its sex interest is love interest and not an appeal to lustful passion. In a recent controversy between dramatic critics of New York, it was cited many times as a comedy of the kind that is funny enough to move Hawthorne's Great Stone Face and is still clean enough to be enjoyed by all.

"Dramatically reactionary" the bedroom authors may term it. But dramatically reconstructive we call it, and one of the few recent stage successes that has a ghost of a chance of being welcomed as a part of the nation's stage literature—E. C.

SWAN AND BROADHURST COMEDY AT YE LIBERTY

No better evidence can be offered for the success of the delightful farce "She Walked in Her Sleep" from the fertile imagination of Mark Swan that George Broadhurst will offer at Ye Liberty Playhouse this evening with Miss Norton and Paul Nicolson, than the fact that it has already been pronounced [illegible] by audiences in New York, where it [illegible] the Playhouse.

Moved to Chicago, the play continued for an unusually long run at the Princess theater and the company was then moved intact to the west. The engagement at Ye Liberty will be for one week only, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. It will be followed by the newest Cohan and Harris success, "A Tailor-Made Man," which is also in for a week's run, commencing Monday evening, December 8.

In the support of Miss Norton and Paul Nicholson in "She Walked in Her Sleep" is a cast of unusual merit including such players as Eugene Desmond, Norman Houston, A. Deen Cole, John M. Price Sullivan, Teresa Dale, Agnes Jepson, Francis Williams and Margaret Phillips.

The plot of the story concerns the adventures of a youthful somnambulist, who walks in her sleep along the ledge of an apartment house sixteen stories from the street level, innocently clasping bridegrooms and making off with a deadly and secret explosive. Agnes Jepson, former member of the Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic plays the title role in the attraction.

"PLEASE GET MARRIED" IS AMERICAN'S FEATURE

She had a marriage license a ceremony—and a man—but she wasn't married. This was the dilemma of Viola Dana, diminutive film comedienne, in the hilarious film that rocked big audiences at the American with laughter yesterday. "Please Get Married." They were finally married all right; all's always well that ends hilariously—but the laughs are the principal thing.

"Please Get Married" is a story of innocents on a honeymoon thinking themselves all properly married until their friends "butt in," and complication after complication pile up the mirth.

The other feature of the big double bill at the American this week is Pauline Frederick, in "The Loves of Letty." This is the film version of the celebrated play by Arthur Pinero, one of the greatest stage successes of the generation, and is perhaps the veritable triumph of Pauline Frederick's film career. It is a story of a girl's love of finery and her temptations, of the test of a woman's soul. Introducing the audience into every walk of life, it runs the gamut from the seats of the mighty to the homes of the poor, and tells the story of the woman who, through bitter disappointment finally wins peace and happiness. John Bowers, Lawson Butt, Willard Louis and Florence Deshon are among the clever artists supporting Miss Frederick.

A social musical score, written by John Wharry Lewis, interprets the play, and the Lewis orchestra offers a specially attractive extra program.

TARZAN ENTERTAINS PANTAGES' AUDIENCE

Tarzan, billed as "the most intelligent animal in the vaudeville world" holds interest as the topline act at Pantages. Tarzan is an ape-like creature with a sense of comedy which has been neatly made much of, and he creates lots of good funning in his adventures with the orchestra members. Tarzan is put through a series of tricks such as ball tossing, bicycling, smoking, pouring liquids from a bottle and drinking from a goblet. His manager, Felix Patty, a jungle and mentally bent Frenchman, adds much excitement by his own smart pantomime and running accompaniment of conversation during the act. Next to Tarzan in point of interest, but differing wholly in type of act, is K. T. Kuma and his company, consisting of a pretty Japanese woman another Japanese girl and the helper. Mr. Kuma is an Oriental magician and wonder worker who offers the superlative degree of excellence in the four of his sensational tricks he presents. Really amazing one is the fine appearing girl—built by placing her body on a table, waving the recumbent figure into the air, and then snatching the silken scarf from off the suspended figure only to display nothing but atmosphere. Mr. Kuma presents two clever cabaret tricks and causes a Japanese maid, clad in the colors of the Allies, to appear from a small flat box of colored scraps. He offers many puzzling feats and the act is further enhanced by the quaintness and rapidity of his work. Belle Oliver is a cheerful man, who is reminiful of Sophie Tucker in some of her songs and gestures. Belle is amusing and is dressed smartly. Her best song is "That's a Fine Way For a Healthy Man to Spend an Evening." It is topical and tuneful and causes much [illegible]. W. L. Whitely, a comedy ventriloquist, who has a flock of friends made in the many years he has been in the vaudeville game, has a clever and interesting turn. A diverting dance novelty is offered by a clever pair, William Wolfe and Helen Patterson. William is a nimble [illegible] like girl with a fine sense of dance and rhythm. The songs are good and their original steps occasion much applause. They stage their offering in a highly artistic way and [illegible] above the average in [illegible]. The second feature is concerning [illegible] of the best of its sort [illegible] and he has a particularly fine [illegible] of playing [illegible]. His imitation of a [illegible] is clever. A [illegible] girl named Jeanette assists.

SENSATIONAL STAGE PLAY APPEARS AT BROADWAY

"The Man Who Stayed at Home" [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] to the [illegible] and the greater [illegible] of the stage drama is cramped in [illegible] intensity in the seven acts of [illegible] Pursuit and the web of the secret service agents during the war [illegible] a pivotal theme of the [illegible].

Corine Chaplin also appears in this same program and a fine one today, in "A Man of Nerve," filled by the Keystone company, which [illegible] release until the present date.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG PLAYS IN FOUR ROLES

Clara Kimball Young gives a remarkable performance, astonishing even those who are familiar with her work, as Gina Ashling in "Eyes of Youth," the present attraction at the Kinema.

That her versatility is almost unlimited is shown by her skillful portrayal of four widely different roles—the temperamental opera singer, [illegible] society woman and the social outcast. Her best moments are the scene in the dressingroom of the opera house in Paris, where she exhibits a large amount of temperament. She also does an exceptional interpretation as the outcast.

Perfect from a technical standpoint, the direction and acting of the photoplay could hardly be improved. The production not only fulfills advance predictions for it, but measures up to the reputation that the play earned behind the footlights.

As the story unfolds, Miss Young received splendid support from the men who have the leading roles in the different episodes. Especially good performances are given by Gareth Hughes in the role of the young brother, William Cortleigh as the Italian impresario, and Vincent Serrano as the Hindu yogi.

ANNE OF GREEN GABLES RIVALS FOR TOM SAWYER

If ever a female Tom Sawyer was created in fiction to vie with Mark Twain's immortal character, it is contained in Mary Miles Minter's portrayal of Anne in "Anne of Green Gables," at the T. and D. theater. The star's work in L. M. Montgomery's story shoves all else aside at that theater this week and is only overshadowed by the fact that Mary herself is to bring her winsome personality to the stage of the T. and D. theater tomorrow in two appearances.

Forgetting for the moment that Mary herself is coming, her Anne is a treat. It is Tom Sawyer all over again in petticoats. She visualizes smiles and throbs and rowdyism in a fashion that is fascinating. Getting herself into the proverbial "peck of trouble" is Anne's forte. The story is a treat to screen fans.—Mary Miles Minter has reached the pinnacle.

E. Phillips Oppenheim has given another of his tense dramas to the screen. It is "The Illustrious Prince," in which Sessue Hayakawa appears. The program in its entirety is again excellence. Signor U. Marcelli's big orchestra assumes an additional concert feast. The latest Chester Outing and a scenic prologue are on the bill.

The "Made in Oakland" exposition will be continued another week with additional exhibits and probably another flood of samples.

DOROTHY GISH PRODUCES LAUGHS AT FRANKLIN

She opens the picture with unusual decorum as a young heiress who disapproves of her aunt's activities with a first-class fake medium. She becomes considerably wrought up when she finds that auntie, who is also her guardian, is planning to confiscate her fortune. In odd moments, and in spite of these trials, she finds time to fall in love with the boy next door a husky, but coddled youth whose mother has been persuaded into believing that he is a chronic invalid. But the affair has not progressed very far when the heroine is clapped into a sanatarium by auntie.

From this point Dorothy gets down to business and uses her energy to keep matters thoroughly stirred up so that there isn't a calm moment until the final flash of the film.

"Turning the Tables" is a typical Gish story and all of the vim and vivacity, all of the original twists for which the little comedienne is famous, have gone into the making of it.

The shorter Franklin features include the Pathe review, the latest Christie comedy, "He Married His Wife" Mutt and Jeff and the News weekly.

OH, HOW SHE CAN DANCE AT THE COLUMBIA

The newest offering of the Columbia theater entitled "Oh, How She Can Dance," proved the lode-stone for a capacity house at the popular Tenth street show shop yesterday afternoon, when Sally Carter, as "Abey Cohen," and Eddie Gilbert, as "Pat Clancy" won new honors through the medium of their respective characterizations and were supported in excellent fashion by Francis Young, Ivy Darien, Gwendolyn Evans and Doris Cosgrove.

A scintillating musical program, containing many hitting hits proved one of the chief attractions of the entertainment and the comedy itself, possessed as it is of a real plot, kept the audience in a continual uproar of merriment from the time the curtain went up until the finale was sung by the entire company. As a musical comedy, "Oh, How She Can Dance" is in a class by itself.

The plot of the story concerned the adventures of "Abey" and "Pat," who have rented an apartment desired by a dashing young widow. Her attempts to have them move by informing them that the place is haunted and then proceeding to prove it, makes for excellent comedy. The musical programme was up to the high standard Francis Young has educated the patrons to expect and featured Doris Cosgrove singing "Might That a Rose." Hazel Beer took the comedy honors with "Everybody Wants the Key to My Cellar," a new [illegible] and dry number.

The other numbers to win approval were "Sweets to the Sweet," by Thelma Crocker, "It Might As Well Be You," by Edna Dillon, "Jack Sennett" by Alma Roberts, and a ballad by Gwendolyn Evans. The show continues until Saturday night, [illegible] matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Variety Bill At the Orpheum Delights Crowd

Acrobatics of mind, body, voice and of digiterial manipulation of musical instrument received more than ordinary capable exemplification at the abilities of those who appeared before the audience assembled to see and hear the opening of this week's bill in the Oakland Orpheum. So many of the acts gained the demonstrative appreciation of the audience that, judging from that standard, it is difficult to select the premier, but even as it has been said to the effect that every one to one's own liking, there is sufficient variety to enable one of most any desire to obtain satisfaction somewhere along the bill.

Eva Shirley and the men who furnish jazz music, and the man who does jazz dancing in her company, had to ask indulgence for not responding to encores, and so did Miss Venita Gould, who gave some of the most perfect impersonations seen in a long time. Once the writer read something written by a noted actress who had witnessed an impersonation of herself. What she said has been forgotten, but it was appreciative of the talent of the impersonator. The appreciation of Miss Gould was emphasized by the manner in which those who had seen the very person she chanced to be impersonating applauded. In one instance she showed that she has considerable ability as a tragedienne as well as ability along lighter lines. She, too, made a final bow before satisfying the desires of the audience.

The act in which Eva Shirley appears furnished one of the instances where ability to play the violin is combined with the ability to do all manner of strange things with one's body, playing the while. Also Al Roth did some wonderfully difficult jazz dancing in a manner that precludes any one trying to impersonate him. Miss Shirley sings from a selection that embraces most of the steps from jazz to grand opera, and sings well. There is an orchestra that has fine jazz ability, and Fid Gordon is the acrobatic violinist.

Sam Green is another acrobatic violinist, but he played a repertoire that proved him capable of more respect for his instrument than is shown by juggling it. Helen Myra shares the applause with Green, and she dances in a lack of costume that gives unobstructed view of a lot of physical charms. Together they make their violins tell a sort of life story of the undulating road of affection.

Franker Wood and Eunice Wyde appear in what is called a satire on life in that strange jungle of New York, Greenwich Village. From reports that have simmered through the distance that spans the continent, it appears not improbable that there is more truth than satire in the act, which earned a lot of laughs.

Erwin and Jane Connelly, in "A Comedy in a Laundry," do acrobatics with the emotions of the audience. They have humorous lines, sedate lines and lines that make for temporary sadness. Combined, the lines tell a story that is as old as are love, hate, chagrin and disappointment, just to cite a few mundane sensations.

Murnel Window has an acrobatic voice, and also does some acrobatic changing of gowns, a party in sight of the audience; that is, part of her always is in view. She imitates the notes of a great variety of birds, sings otherwise and sing-songs some little tales of life.

The opening and closing acts furnished the REAL acrobatics. It seems impossible that there can be developed such coordination as that evidenced by the Casting Wards, and there was many a gasp of suspended breathing as one of them corkscrewed through space only to find security in the grasp of one of the casters. The Wards are high in their line.

Samaroff and Sonia must share with two or three dogs the commendation that is due the other straight acrobatic act. The bill says they are Russian peasants, but that is neither here nor there. The man does some agile dancing and tumbling and so do the dogs. It was the opening act of a fine bill that was adorned by the acts mentioned heretofore and by a Christie Comedy, a Pathe Weekly and Leon Kowalski and his instrumentalists.

Commenting on the strange twists that vaudevillists apply to the ordinary situations in life, the woman who goes to the show with this reviewer became cryptic and said: "Well, one cannot sleep in pajamas and not find them wrinkled in the morning," which also may be vaudeville [illegible].

Plant Destroyed by Fire to Operate Soon

Work will be resumed within three weeks by the Marchant Calculating Machine Company, whose plant at Emeryville was damaged by fire to the extent of $100,000 early Saturday morning, according to Rodney H. Marchant, president of the concern. He said today that after examination of the equipment it was found that most of the machinery was intact, the major damage being done to the machine parts and stock awaiting delivery.

The damaged building will be reroofed at once, according to Marchant, who said that work would be under way this week. It was further announced that there would be no assessment levied on the stockholders, there being sufficient reserve to resume operation without difficulty. It is expected that the factory output of 500 machines a month will be halted only temporarily.

SEEK SON FOUR HOURS WHILE HE ENJOYS SLEEP

ALAMEDA, Dec. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Cooper spent an anxious four hours last night seeking trace of their ten-year-old son, only to find at 2 o'clock this morning that the boy was safe in bed at his grandmother's home in this city. The boy was started homeward from San Francisco at 10 o'clock last night by his grandparents, Mr and Mrs. A. B. Cooper, who put him on a street car at Fifth and Market. He made the trip homeward in safety but was unable to arouse his parents, the electric door bell not ringing and the wind and rain preventing the parents from distinguishing the boy's efforts to rouse them by rapping on door and windows. The boy left a note at the door which he parents did not find until four hours later and proceeded on to the home of his second grandmother nearby where he went to bed.

CONGRESS AGAIN IN SESSION

Congress convenes today with practically the same problems before it that it faced when it convened in special session last May. During the six months it was in session following the conclusion of the armistice nothing of a substantial nature toward the solution of post-war readjustment and reconstruction problems was accomplished. The House worked fairly hard, but none of the measures of consequence it initiated got past the Senate. The upper chamber was engrossed with consideration of the peace treaty. Practically the only bills that were approved by both houses were those carrying deficiency appropriations and extending and continuing war time executive powers.

Among the more urgent legislative projects facing the new Congress are the railroad bill providing for the restoration of the railroads to their owners and regulations for their operation in the future; a merchant marine act establishing a definite and permanent policy with relation to the great fleet of merchant ships which has been built during the war period; a law governing the mineral resources of the country, under which mineral lands, particularly oil and potash deposits, may be leased and developed; the reorganization bill for the regular army; repeal of the so-called luxuries tax and modification of the excess profits tax as a step in the reduction of the cost of living; the federal education bill for the cure of illiteracy, and a bill creating a national budget.

There are other measures which ought to be considered. Readjustment of the import tariff schedule and a reduction of the domestic tax burden which the people are bearing certainly will be taken up at the present session. The existing revenue law was enacted to cover the business of the calendar year of 1919 and to meet the expenses of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920. It will remain in effect until another law is enacted. If it is to be modified business and the people ought to know in what manner as soon as possible, as the modified taxes will be levied on the business of 1920.

Ratification of the peace treaty will continue to consume the time of the senate and the attention of the country until it is disposed of. Formal promulgation of peace is needed more than anything else, and if the Versailles treaty is killed, either through the efforts of its enemies or its friends, no one can say when the country will have technical peace and thus be released from the restriction upon industry and business which the war imposed.

What the fate of the treaty will be may in some measure be indicated in the President's message which tomorrow will be submitted to Congress. The opposition in the Senate depends almost wholly for votes upon the attack against article 10 of the section which constitutes the League of Nations covenant. It is therefore the League of Nations that has blocked the treaty of peace. Had the two propositions been submitted separately the country would now enjoy peace. The effort of the President to drive his League Covenant through the Senate hitched to the peace treaty must share with partisan animosity the responsibility for delay in ratification.

Under such circumstances the President ought to be willing to consider any practical compromise on reservations against the league covenant provisions in order to give the country the peace it fought for and so sorely needs. On some reservations the Senate should also yield, for some are apparently designed merely to embarrass the men who negotiated the peace treaty.

Candidates for the Presidency must announce themselves soon if they expect to get in the early running for delegates to the nominating conventions. The first State primary for the selection of convention delegates is to be held in South Dakota on March 23 and candidates must file their petitions not later than January 1, which is only one month away. The only candidates so far to make positive announcement of their intention to run for the presidency are Messrs. Pomerene, Wood and Lowden. But during December the country may expect to hear from a large number of hopefuls. Twenty-one States choose their delegates to the nominating conventions by the primary system. Thus no candidate can afford to ignore the delegation to be thus selected.

CONGRESS MAY ACT ON MEXICO.

An ultimatum from one government to another is nearly always a serious matter, but experience has shown that it is impossible to determine when the Washington administration is serious in its notes to Mexico. Many times the State Department has despatched billetdoux having all the appearance of importance, but the actual contents of which meant only another surrender or backdown. If evidence was ever produced of the futility of further parley it has been produced during the last seven years in the relations between the United States and Mexico. Yet Washington still seems disposed to listen to Carranza's anti-American spokesmen in Mexico City with regard to the imprisonment of an American consular official upon trumped up charges.

A week ago Secretary of State Lansing demanded the immediate release of Consular Agent Jenkins. The demand has not been complied with. But another American citizen has been murdered.

A few months ago Congress showed a disposition to insist that the Executive Department display more earnestness in extending protection to Americans in Mexico. It conducted an investigation of Mexican conditions. But Congress has so far failed to recommend any positive course, apparently out of a proper deference to the Executive Department in the performance of its constitutional obligation to conduct foreign affairs. The State Department assured Congress it was the intention to take a firmer stand with reference to Mexico and asked to be permitted further time to fulfill its promises.

But the promises are still unfulfilled. It would seem to be incumbent upon Congress to demand that the government perform its duty.

TIME THEY SHOULD GO.

Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman have at last been ordered deported from the territory of the United States. They have been in this country a long time and their whole sojourn has been devoted to revolutionary anarchism. They have defied the laws of the United States and preached defiance. They have preached the murder of government officials and the overthrow of the government. Such is their doctrine, their daily task.

The Goldman woman claims American citizenship. If she ever acquired the formalities of naturalization her daily life has proved her citizenship was fraudently obtained. Daily she has violated her oath of citizenship.

Both these individuals have been in the United States too long. They have been protected time and again by sympathetic federal officials and disloyal officials. They have been defended by men and women in circles of influential respectability.

But the day of tolerating leniency for the enemies of the Republic is passed. The federal authorities cannot be faithful to their duties and permit a convicted alien criminal to remain in this country.

The Oakland Civic Center, which has in the past been a useful organization of women with a community conscience, has let itself in for a lot of unfavorable criticism because of a mistaken and stubborn persistence in the belief that its civic affairs were more important than the public peace of mind. Just why it should have insisted upon discussing the Negro problem at any time, much less in the face of a request from the police to abstain, is not easy to understand. Its officers and the majority of its members cannot be ignorant of the fact that the present agitation about race and social inequality is a hang-over from the campaign of the German military secret agents during the war and that it is now being fostered by Bolshevik agents and other radicals. And just why did the organization insist upon having this subject discussed by one who has connected herself with the defense of I. W. W. members charged with violation of the laws of the State? The Civic Center seems to have made a serious mistake, one that will certainly becloud its standing and mar its usefulness. Right ideals never suffer by avoiding the danger of being confused with criminal motives. And the Negro question, because of the unfortunate contaminations it has suffered during the war, will gain nothing through agitation under present conditions of the public mind.

California is the first State in this country to stop the destruction of harmless snakes. In view of the fact that an aversion to the snake seems to be born in the average human, this action has been criticized in some eastern quarters. But when the East learns that it has been discovered that snakes kill gophers, moles, rats and other destructive vermin, it will probably revise its views and adopt the California innovation. There is a promise that the fear of snakes will grow appreciably less from now on

NOTES and COMMENT

The long delay in electing a president of the University of California may be charged to the lack of homogenity in the Board of Regents. Such a body, some of whose members are ex-officio, and some political, must naturally find it difficult to agree in a matter where the personal equation figures so importantly.

There seems to be no doubt of considerable bodies of foreigners returning to their native lands. Largely they are of the Latin races, who find the deprivation of their wine a sufficient motive to justify them in leaving this country. SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

The platform of the new Labor party, adopted at Chicago, demonstrates that the party, far from representing labor, stands for only one of its most radical factions, and not at all for the majority faction, best represented by the American Federation of Labor. Not half of that platform could pass the American Federation of Labor, even in theory, and much of it has been actually rejected by the federation, by vote. Still less would it be approved by the more conservative part of unorganized labor. It would not be accepted by any responsible Labor party in Western Europe, Australia or New Zealand, the places in which Labor parties are best established. — Fresno Republican.

Lieutenant Frank Bruce, U. S. N., is to have one of the united States destroyers named in his memory. It will be remembered that Lieutenant Bruce, in command of the United States minesweeper Bobolink, was killed by the explosion of a mine in the North Sea. He first gained distinction and promotion in the navy when in defiance of the orders of his superior officers he persisted in rescuing sailors from the stranded Milwaukee off the port of Eureka during a great storm many years ago. Lieutenant Bruce was a member of Napa lodge of Elks and a man with many friends in this community.—Napa Register

WANT TO GO INTO MEXICO.

Mexico is so thoroughly demoralized that it is a tragedy to itself and a menace to the world. The United States cannot permit these conditions to continue. Intervention would be expensive. But there seems no alternative. This country has the same duty to its Southern neighbor that it had toward Cuba. The tropics and semi-tropics have proven incapable of managing their own affairs without outside help. Chronic conditions are a handicap when they cannot throw off [illegible] which the United States owes to itself and to civilization to put an end to the anarchy that lies at its door. Intervention may be postponed. But it must come in the end. The sooner it is proper and the better it will be for all concerned—including the people of Mexico.—Kansas City Star.

APPEAL TO ANCESTRY.

[illegible] Dempsey, whose business [illegible] American personality counts for [illegible], was recently invited to a luncheon by Cincinnati business men and their wives. The horror-stricken scenes related how Mr. Dempsey committed a social faux pas by appearing in evening dress. But perhaps the noted massage artist isn't so far off. At the time of the Chicago world's fair, on the occasion of the visit of the Spanish Infanta, the whole community almost ran for cover when the mayor appeared in the regulation swallow-tail and boiled shirt at 10 o'clock in the morning, and Chicago pictured the howl that would—and did—go up from jealous New York. But it turned out that the mayor was right for his visitors were continental Europeans, where "evening" dress is the correct toggery for morning as well as twilight events of the sort. And Mr. Dempsey's ancestors were kings of Ireland.—Ottawa Evening Citizen.

OUR MERCHANT MARINE.

To the Editor of The Tribune:

Those who have seen your pointed editorial in The TRIBUNE of November 25 may find it worth while to read the following statements, taken from one of the editorials in "Sea Power," which in referring to a "Merchant Marine Policy," says:

"Our foreign rivals with experience in [illegible] as well as in shipbuilding and ship operating, are proceeding to recover their sea power by such means as may be necessary. . . . If we do not bestir ourselves they are likely to arrive before we get started."

"It is for the Congress to say just how our Merchant Marine is to be maintained in rivalry with experienced, resolute and more or less desperate nations. With present shipping laws and practices it will not maintain itself, but will disappear as it disappeared fifty years ago. Moreover, public interest will wane; war zeal has passed and our public is lapsing into the habits and customs of thought and action that governed them five years ago. Now is the time for legislation that will definitely chart the marine policy of the future. It may be too late a year hence, other nations may have captured the trade, or public opinion may have reacted in sheer disgust.

"All thoughtful men are in agreement on the need for action. No doubt there will be much difference of opinion on the action itself, but there can be no agreement, no movement until concrete measures are proposed.

Irwin O. Biffle, one of the air mail pilots who fly between Chicago and Cleveland, received an unexpected lesson in geography one day. He was flying westward when a storm came up. Fog enveloped him, and he was driven by diverse air currents many miles out of his course. Then his engine went wrong, and he was forced to descend. He wasn't quite certain what state he was in. As he neared the ground, however, the skies grew lighter, and he saw a crowd of villagers running toward him through a field. They surrounded him as he reached land. "Where am I?" asked Biffle. "You're in Jerry Hendricks' cow pasture," said one of them.—San Francisco Argonaut.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

How Some of Many "Itches" May Easily Be Remedied

By DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

Psychologically speaking, itching is for the most part a spontaneous sensation, which is a mixture of pleasure and pain. That is to say, it partakes of a sense and of an emotion.

There are some women, especially young ones, and a few men, who "just love to have their backs scratched." When the back of such individuals is scratched it originates a pleasant sensation of itching, which is simultaneously soothed and relieved.

"If you keep that up, I'll be asleep," says the scratched one. Although I've never seen any one thus lulled into slumberland, they assert that such a procedure will send them there.

"Factitious urticaria," or spontaneous hives, is an itchy wheal on the skin, if you put a dent on the skin or press a stick or finger along the epidermis. "Dermatographia" is another name for this same condition, because you can write on the skin and whatever is written will come up as a red hive.

The complex sensation of itching seems to be related to "the liquid nerves," those fluids which reach the tissues from the thyroid, bile, intestinal and other glands.

There appears at times to be some intimate connection between itching and moisture. There are three or four conditions especially between the folds of the skin which itch like torture itself. This itching torments the sufferer until some method to check the moisture is found.

Pruritis is the name of a kind of itching which tortures for years until alcohol is injected into the affected area.

Various and sundry eruptions on the skin, moist or dry, pass muster under the name of eczema. Some of these are caused by impure soaps, by plants, drugs, chemicals, washing powders, irritations and what not. They have only two things in common, mischievous itching and the name "eczema." Some day each of these affections will have an accurate name and an exact treatment.

Hives or urticaria, erythenia multiforme and other sharp and brief outbreaks of itching of the skin over a general surface is traceable frequently to an anaphylactic state, which is a peculiar sensitiveness of some individuals to certaian dusts, flowers, odors, foods, drugs or fluids.

Jaundice or bile in the lymph, blood and issues appears to stir up the itch structures. Copious quantities of water and other measures to thin out this bile, commonly diminishes the abomination.

Parasitic insects, such as lice, mosquitoes and fleas produce itching. Whether the itch is mechanical or from the fluid bitten into the flesh by the mosquito's proboscis remains to be determined.

Relief from itching requires removal of the cause; cessation of eating for a few days, drinking lots of water and the application of either calamine lotion, black wash, white precipitate ointment or sulphur ointment.

Unguents, salves and ointments are to be combined in various ways to fit the different conditions called eczema. Some contain salicylic acid, others have tar in them, still others require resorcin or ichthyol.

The notion in the heads of some persons that "you'd better not put anything on a skin disease to drive it in," is an exploded tradition.

While it is probably true that some treatments merely close the surface of a sore and force the pus and matter inside, yet it is folly to warn against "treating eczema or pemphigus so energetically that it may determine the internal onset of congestions of the gravest kind."

U. S. PROBE OF WHITNEY CASE THREAT OPENS

Federal agents today visited Oakland club women who reported receiving mysterious telephone calls conveying veiled threats in connection with the case of Miss Anita Whitney, arrested on a charge of criminal syndicalism after an address to the Civic Center.

One woman, prominently identified with the movement sprung up within the center for the exclusion of the alleged red element, told the government investigators that she had received repeated calls. These began Saturday, but she did not report them to Inspector Fenton Thompson of the Oakland police loyalty squad until late yesterday.

WOMAN SENDS THREAT

She said that at first the woman's voice on the wire told her: "A step against Anita Whitney is a step against labor." In later calls she declared that the voice warned her: "You'd better watch out what you do against labor,' and 'You know what happens to those who oppose labor."

When she tried to find out who the caller was there was no reply, she asserted.

FRIENDLY TOWARD LABOR

This woman declared that she had only the friendliest feeling toward labor organizations and could conceive of no relation that should exist between labor and syndicalism. She said she was certain that the labor unions had nothing to do with the mysterious calls.

Several women were reported to have received similar calls, which they declared were the result of their opposition to Miss Whitney's speech before the center last Friday.

WOMEN RESENT THREATS

"It seems that we are not even entitled to an opinion," said one of these women today. "Just because we are opposed to the red element coming in when we have our boys back from France and want peace for a change we are bounded and threatened."

Mrs. Lucy Barker 1705 Ninety-sixth avenue, who protested against Miss Whitney's speech to the Civic Center, said several of her friends had received the call, which was interpreted to have a veiled menace.

"In my opinion there is a great difference between syndicalism and organized labor," she said today. "I live in a neighborhood in which members of organized labor predominate and I should hate to think them against me because I am opposed to syndicalism and such revolutionary ideas."

RADICALS ARE OPPOSED

Several members of the Civic Center have expressed strong opinions regarding "cleaning out the radicals" since Friday's session, which voted to permit Miss Whitney to speak and which was followed by her arrest. Among those who favored allowing Miss Whitney to address the center was Mrs. F. C. Law, the president. She said that Miss Whitney should not be condemned unheard.

The telephone calls were all from women, according to the reports received by the police.

They'll Make Soap to Music of "Jazz"

BERKELEY, Dec. 1.—Employees of Peet Bros., one of the largest manufacturing plants in the west, will make soap to "jazz" music in the future.

An orchestra composed of sixteen employees of the soap works was organized last night by Sergeant C. A. Becker of the Berkeley police department. C. C. Newkirk, manager of the plant and former Berkeley councilman, is cornetist of the musical aggregation, while other players have been taken from all departments of the works. It is planned to enlarge the orchestra as talent is secured. All of the expenses of the purchasing of instruments and music will be borne by the management of the soap works. Following the complete organization orchestra members will be given time off from their regular duties to practice their music. Sergeant Becker, organizer of the orchestra, is also leader of the Berkeley Manufacturers' Boys band and Manufacturers' Orchestra.

MISS MYRA HOOPER (left), MISS IRENE MELHUISH (center) and MISS HAZEL LONG found time even on Commencement Day at East Bay Sanitorium to offer Red Cross Christmas Seals for sale. "We're going to get the white plague yet," the young graduates cried when this morning they started in to roll up the $10,000 fund which the Anti-Tuberculosis Society is asked to accumulate in the campaign ending on December 10.

Sale of Stamps Is Started Today

Corps of women attacked the town today in a ten days' drive to sell $10,000 worth of the gay bits of paper with their Santa Claus and holly wreath. Society maids and matrons, club leaders and prominent fraternal officials have pledged themselves to the holiday sale of stickers, not because they look so festive on the season's mail, but because every seal spells something accomplished toward the stamping out of the "white plague" within the United States.

BATTLE ON TUBERCULOSIS.

Tuberculosis is preventable and curable as the tiny Red Cross Christmas seals will prove. Throughout California and the United States the little stickers are being presented to holiday shoppers to accumulate funds to rid the country of the disease from which 150,000 persons in this country die annually. The local drive is under the direction of the Alameda County Society for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

More than 200 little children last year received medical care from this particular society in addition to the large numbers which were maintained in the hospitals. Youngsters from families afflicted with the white plague to the number of sixty were given a vacation of several weeks in the summer camp.

Banks, department stores, the postoffice and other central downtown stations will accommodate booths where the corps of workers will offer the red and white stickers beginning this morning. More than 4000 letters have been sent throughout the county, making a personal appeal for assistance in the campaign to stamp out the disease. The Oakland Traction Company has purchased $50 worth of stickers for use in the Christmas mails.

Miss Elizabeth Burnham today opened a Red Cross seal booth in the University of California library where students are being offered an opportunity "to shop at home." Miss Burnham has undertaken to direct a drive through all the sorority houses in Berkeley.

Mrs. E. L. M. Tarr-Thompson executive secretary of the California Tuberculosis Association, was in Oakland today assisting the local headquarters in getting its campaign well under way.

"Caltex" The Modern Bifocal

"Caltex" Onepiece Bifocals are produced by entirely different methods than any other bifocal now manufactured. They are optically and scientifically correct and made from a single piece of glass eliminating the many defects of old style bifocals. A larger reading portion permitting the use of the lenses to their very margins is an important feature of "Caltex" double-vision lenses. They are so invisible that the bifocal feature is not noticeable. If you are not wearing "Caltex" you are not wearing the newest bifocals.

SKILLED SHIP WORKERS HERE FROM SEATTLE

Shipyard workers, said to be an advance force, arrived today from Seattle on the steamer Governor. Most of those already here are said to be skilled men.

Officials of the California Metal Trades' Association said they had no part in bringing the workers from the north, as the time they promised local men to return to their jobs will not elapse until Wednesday. The exodus from Puget Sound is said to have resulted from the virtual closing of the big Skinner-Eddy plant at Seattle.

Approximately 10,000 workers were said to be at their posts in the seven large shipyards of the bay district with the opening today of the second week of operation under "open shop" rules.

Fred C. Metcalf, secretary of the Employers' Association, said that by the end of the week the yards would be running to normal capacity. Already, he declared, 130 of the 150 metal trades plants of the association are in operation.

Officers of the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council and affiliated unions asserted today that the shipyards still lacked skilled men and would be forced to close soon. They said that union men from the north, particularly if belonging to the skilled trades, would not accept employment in "open shops."

Advance Payments Urged To Reduce Milk Prices, In Report to Housewives

Dr. Ruth Northington, chairman of the committee which was appointed a week ago to confer with the Alameda County Milk Dealers' association, in regard to some scheme which would reduce the cost of milk from fourteen to thirteen cents a quart, offered the report to the Oakland Housewives' League this [illegible] chambers of the city hall.

The plan involved a pay-in-advance, daily or weekly schedule which would operate in a saving to the milk dealers in doing away with collectors and a part of the clerical force to the benefit of the consumers. The plan is already in operation in several local dairies.

Mrs. Annette Adams, United States district attorney, was the speaker of the program, presenting to the Oakland women the laws which govern food and the regulation of its costs. The league is devoting its efforts to the task of reducing insofar as is possible the prices on food necessities to the homekeeper.

A constitution and by laws was formally presented by the board of directors for adoption. Preliminary announcements of the movement to federate the Housewives' Leagues already organized in the bay cities was made. The purpose of the union will be to crystallize the efforts of the women.

Alameda has called a mass meeting for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock when steps will be taken toward the organization of a Housewives' League in that city. The conference to which all women citizens of Alameda are invited, will be held in Haight school.

THIEVES GET RICH HAUL OF SILVERWARE

J. J. Miller, 3528 Gray street, was robbed by a burglar last night of $600 worth of jewelry and silverware. The police have taken photographs of fingerprints on the window through which the burglar entered. Footprints were also left on the carpet by the thief's muddy shoes.

The home of Carl Rawitzer, 2015 Crosby street, was entered and one lady's watch, a diamond lavaliere valued at $200, a lady's ring, four stickpins, two strings of pearls valued at $200 and $30 in currency was taken. The entire loss is estimated at $600. The thief entered through a rear door with a pass key.

CONGRESS AGAIN IN SESSION

Congress convenes today with practically the same problems before it that it faced when it convened in special session last May. During the six months it was in session following the conclusion of the armistice nothing of a substantial nature toward the solution of post-war readjustment and reconstruction problems was accomplished. The House worked fairly hard, but none of the measures of consequence it initiated got past the Senate. The upper chamber was engrossed with consideration of the peace treaty. Practically the only bills that were approved by both houses were those carrying deficiency appropriations and extending and continuing war time executive powers.

Among the more urgent legislative projects facing the new Congress are the railroad bill providing for the restoration of the railroads to their owners and regulations for their operation in the future; a merchant marine act establishing a definite and permanent policy with relation to the great fleet of merchant ships which has been built during the war period; a law governing the mineral resources of the country, under which mineral lands, particularly oil and potash deposits, may be leased and developed; the reorganization bill for the regular army; repeal of the so-called luxuries tax and modification of the excess profits tax as a step in the reduction of the cost of living; the federal education bill for the cure of illiteracy, and a bill creating a national budget.

There are other measures which ought to be considered. Readjustment of the import tariff schedule and a reduction of the domestic tax burden which the people are bearing certainly will be taken up at the present session. The existing revenue law was enacted to cover the business of the calendar year of 1919 and to meet the expenses of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920. It will remain in effect until another law is enacted. If it is to be modified business and the people ought to know in what manner as soon as possible, as the modified taxes will be levied on the business of 1920.

Ratification of the peace treaty will continue to consume the time of the Senate and the attention of the country until it is disposed of. Formal promulgation of peace is needed more than anything else, and if the Versailles treaty is killed, either through the efforts of its enemies or its friends, no one can say when the country will have technical peace and thus be released from the restriction upon industry and business which the war imposed.

What the fate of the treaty will be may in some measure be indicated in the President's message which tomorrow will be submitted to Congress. The opposition in the Senate depends almost wholly for vitality upon the attack against article 10 of the section which constitutes the League of Nations covenant. It is therefore the League of Nations that has blocked the treaty of peace. Had the two propositions been submitted separately the country would now enjoy peace. The effort of the President to drive his League Covenant through the Senate hitched to the peace treaty has shown with partisan animosity the responsibility to delay in ratification.

Under such circumstances the President ought to be willing to consider any practical compromise on reservations against the League covenant provisions in order to give the country the peace it fought for and so sorely needs. On some reservations the Senate should also yield, for some are apparently designed merely to embarrass the men who negotiated the peace treaty.

Candidates for the Presidency must announce themselves soon if they expect to get in the early running for delegates to the nominating conventions. The first State primary for the selection of convention delegates is to be held in South Dakota on March 23 and candidates must file their petitions not later than January 1, which is only one month away. The only candidates so far to make positive announcement of their intention to run for the presidency are Messrs. Pomerene, Wood and Lowden. But during December the country may expect to hear from a large number of hopefuls. Twenty-one States choose their delegates to the nominating conventions by the primary system. Thus no candidate can afford to ignore the delegation to be thus selected.

CONGRESS MAY ACT ON MEXICO.

An ultimatum from one government to another is nearly always a serious matter, but experience has shown that it is impossible to determine when the Washington administration is serious in its notes to Mexico. Many times the State Department has despatched billetdoux having all the appearance of importance, but the actual contents of which meant only another surrender or backdown. If evidence was ever produced of the futility of further parley it has been produced during the last seven years in the relations between the United States and Mexico. Yet Washington still seems disposed to listen to Carranza's anti-American spokesmen in Mexico City with regard to the imprisonment of an American consular official upon trumped up charges.

A week ago Secretary of State Lansing demanded the immediate release of Consular Agent Jenkins. The demand has not been complied with. But another American citizen has been murdered.

A few months ago Congress showed a disposition to insist that the Executive Department display more earnestness in extending protection to Americans in Mexico. It conducted an investigation of Mexican conditions. But Congress has so far failed to recommend any positive course, apparently out of a proper deference to the Executive Department in the performance of its constitutional obligation to conduct foreign affairs. The State Department assured Congress it was the intention to take a firmer stand with reference to Mexico and asked to be permitted further time to fulfill its promises.

But the promises are still unfulfilled. It would seem to be incumbent upon Congress to demand that the government perform its duty.

TIME THEY SHOULD GO.

Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman have at last been ordered deported from the territory of the United States. They have been in this country a long time and their whole sojourn has been devoted to revolutionary anarchism. They have defied the laws of the United States and preached defiance. They have preached the murder of government officials and the overthrow of the government. Such is their doctrine, their daily task.

The Goldman woman claims American citizenship. If she ever acquired the formalities of naturalization her daily life has proved her citizenship was fraudently obtained. Daily she has violated her oath of citizenship.

Both these individuals have been in the United States too long. They have been protected time and again by sympathetic federal officials and disloyal officials. They have been defended by men and women in circles of influential respectability.

But the day of tolerating leniency for the enemies of the Republic is passed. The federal authorities cannot be faithful to their duties and permit a convicted alien criminal to remain in this country.

The Oakland Civic Center, which has in the past been a useful organization of women with a community conscience, has let itself in for a lot of unfavorable criticism because of a mistaken and stubborn persistence in the stand that its own affairs were more important than the public peace of mind. Just why it should have insisted upon discussing the Negro problem at any time, much less in the face of a request from the police to abstain, is not easy to understand. Its officers and the majority of its members cannot be ignorant of the fact that the present agitation about race and social inequality is a hang-over from the campaign of the German military secret agents during the war and that it is now being fostered by Bolshevik agents and other radicals. And just why did the organization insist upon having this subject discussed by one who has connected herself with the defense of I. W. W. members charged with violation of the laws of the State? The Civic Center seems to have made a serious mistake, one that will certainly becloud its standing and mar its usefulness. Right ideals never suffer by avoiding the danger of being confused with criminal motives. And the Negro question, because of the unfortunate contaminations it has suffered during the war, will gain nothing through agitation under present conditions of the public mind.

California is the first State in this country to stop the destruction of harmless snakes. In view of the fact that an aversion to the snake seems to be born in the average human, this action has been criticized in some eastern quarters. But when the East learns that it has been discovered that snakes kill gophers, moles, rats and other destructive vermin, it will probably revise its views and adopt the California innovation. There is a promise that the fear of snakes will grow appreciably less from now on

The long delay in electing a president of the University of California may be charged to the lack of homogenity in the Board of Regents. Such a body, some of whose members are ex-officio, and some political, must naturally find it difficult to agree in a matter where the personal equation figures so importantly.

There seems to be no doubt of considerable bodies of foreigners returning to their native lands. Largely they are of the Latin races, who find the deprivation of their wine a sufficient motive to justify them in leaving this country. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction urges that teachers be paid at least $1200 a year. If they were to get that they would come within $25 a month of equalling the street sweepers of San Francisco county, but they would fall $50 behind if the sweepers get the proposed raise to $6 a day.

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

The platform of the new Labor party, adopted at Chicago, demonstrates that the party, far from representing labor, stands for only one of its most radical factions, and not at all for the majority faction, best represented by the American Federation of Labor. Not half of that platform could pass the American Federation of Labor, even in theory, and much of it has been actually rejected by the federation, by vote. Still less would it be approved by the more conservative part of unorganized labor. It would not be accepted by any responsible Labor party in Western Europe, Australia or New Zealand, the places in which Labor parties are best established.—Fresno Republican.

WANT TO GO INTO MEXICO.

Mexico is so thoroughly demoralized that it is a tragedy to itself and a menace to the world. The United States cannot permit these conditions to continue. Intervention would be expensive. But there seems no alternative. This country has the same duty to its Southern neighbor that it had toward Cuba. The tropics and semi-tropics have proved incapable of managing their own affairs without outside help. Our own conditions are a handicap when they cannot throw off.

It is a duty which the United States owes to itself and to civilization to put an end to the anarchy that lies at its door. Intervention may be postponed. But it must come in the end. The sooner it is undertaken the better it will be for all concerned—including the people of Mexico.—Kansas City Star.

APPEAL TO ANCESTRY.

Jack Dempsey, whose business is not American personality counts for much, was recently invited to a luncheon by Cincinnati business men and their wives. The horror-stricken scribe related how Mr. Dempsey committed a social faux pas by appearing in evening dress. But perhaps the noted massage artist isn't to blame. At the time of the Chicago world's fair, on the occasion of the visit of the Spanish Infanta, the whole community almost ran for cover when the mayor appeared in the regulation swallow-tail and boiled shirt at 10 o'clock in the morning, and Chicago pictured the howl that would—and did—go up from jealous New York. But it turned out that the mayor was right for his visitors were continental Europeans, where "evening" dress is the correct toggery for morning as well as twilight events of the sort. And Mr. Dempsey's ancestors were kings of Ireland.—Ottawa Evening Citizen.

We have been in favor of giving Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts the first place on most of the presidential tickets that have been going around, but somebody now comes along with a Coolidge and Sproul ticket, and on that we think Governor Coolidge ought to be in second place. Massachusetts can give a pretty large Republican majority for the right man, but Pennsylvania can give a larger one. Give us a chance and we will show you once more.—Philadelphia Press

OUR MERCHANT MARINE.

To the Editor of The Tribune:

Those who have seen your pointed editorial in The TRIBUNE of November 25 may find it worth while to read the following statements, taken from one of the editorials in "Sea Power," which in referring to a "Merchant Marine Policy," says:

"Our foreign rivals with experience in governmental policy as well as in shipbuilding and ship operating, are proceeding to recover their sea power by such means as may be necessary. . . . If we do not bestir ourselves they are likely to arrive before we get started."

It is for the Congress to say just how our Merchant Marine is to be maintained in rivalry with experienced, resolute and more or less desperate nations. With present shipping laws and practices it will not maintain itself, but will disappear as it disappeared fifty years ago. Moreover, public interest will wane; war zeal has passed and our public is lapsing into the habits and customs of thought and action that governed them five years ago. Now is the time for legislation that will definitely chart the marine policy of the future. It may be too late a year hence; other nations may have captured the trade, or public opinion may have reacted in sheer disgust.

"All thoughtful men are in agreement on the need for action. No doubt there will be much difference of opinion on the action itself, but there can be no agreement, no movement until concrete measures are proposed.

Irwin O. Biffle, one of the air mail pilots who fly between Chicago and Cleveland, received an unexpected lesson in geography one day. He was flying westward when a storm came up. Fog enveloped him, and he was driven by diverse air currents many miles out of his course. Then his engine went wrong, and he was forced to descend. He wasn't quite certain what state he was in. As he neared the ground, however, the skies grew lighter, and he saw a crowd of villagers running toward him through a field. They surrounded him as he reached land. "Where am I?" asked Biffle. "You're in Jerry Hendricks' cow pasture," said one of them.—San Francisco Argonaut.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

How Some of Many "Itches" May Easily Be Remedied

By DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D.
(Johns Hopkins University.)

Psychologically speaking, itching is for the most part a spontaneous sensation, which is a mixture of pleasure and pain. That is to say, it partakes of a sense and of an emotion.

There are some women, especially young ones, and a few men, who "just love to have their backs scratched." When the back of such individuals is scratched it originates a pleasant sensation of itching, which is simultaneously soothed and relieved.

"If you keep that up, I'll be asleep," says the scratched one. Although I've never seen any one thus lulled into slumberland, they assert that such a procedure will send them there.

"Factitious urticaria," or spontaneous hives, is an itchy wheal on the skin, if you put a dent on the skin or press a stick or finger along the epidermis. "Dermatographia" is another name for this same condition, because you can write on the skin and whatever is written will come up as a red hive.

The complex sensation of itching seems to be related to "the liquid nerves," those fluids which reach the tissues from the thyroid, bile, intestinal and other glands.

There appears at times to be some intimate connection between itching and moisture. There are three or four conditions especially between the folds of the skin which itch like torture itself. This itching torments the sufferer until some method to check the moisture is found.

Pruritis is the name of a kind of itching which tortures for years until alcohol is injected into the affected area.

Various and sundry eruptions on the skin, moist or dry, pass muster under the name of eczema. Some of these are caused by impure soaps, by plants, drugs, chemicals, washing powders, irritations and what not. They have only two things in common, mischievous itching and the name "eczema." Some day each of these affections will have an accurate name and an exact treatment.

Meanwhile the cure is generally obtainable only by a search for the discovery and the removal of the internal—food—or external source.

Hives or urticaria, erythenia multiforme and other sharp and brief outbreaks of itching of the skin over a general surface is traceable frequently to an anaphylactic state, which is a peculiar sensitiveness of some individuals to certain dusts, flowers, odors, foods, drugs or fluids.

Jaundice or bile in the lymph, blood and issues appears to stir up the itch structures. Copious quantities of water and other measures to thin out this pile, commonly diminishes the abomination.

Parasitic insects, such as lice, mosquitoes and fleas produce itching. Whether the itch is mechanical or from the fluid bitten into the flesh by the mosquito's proboscis remains to be determined.

Relief from itching requires removal of the cause; cessation of eating for a few days, drinking lots of water and the application of either calamine lotion, black wash, white precipitate ointment or sulphur ointment.

Unguents, salves and ointments are to be combined in various ways to fit the different conditions called eczema. Some contain salicylic acid, others have tar in them, still others require resorcin or ichthyol.

The notion in the heads of some persons that "you'd better not put anything on a skin disease to drive it in," is an exploded tradition.

While it is probably true that some treatments merely close the surface of a sore and force the pus and matter inside, yet it is folly to warn against "treating eczema or pemphigus so energetically that it may determine the internal onset of congestions of the gravest kind."

U. S. PROBE OF WHITNEY CASE THREAT OPENS

Federal agents today visited Oakland club women who reported receiving mysterious telephone calls conveying veiled threats in connection with the case of Miss Anita Whitney, arrested on a charge of criminal syndicalism after an address to the Civic Center.

One woman, prominently identified with the movement sprung up within the center for the exclusion of the alleged red element, told the government investigators that she had received repeated calls These began Saturday, but she did not report them to Inspector Fenton Thompson of the Oakland police loyalty squad until late yesterday.

WOMAN SENDS THREAT

She said that at first the woman's voice on the wire told her: "A step against Anita Whitney is a step against labor." In later calls she declared that the voice warned her: "You'd better watch out what you do against labor," and "You know what happens to those who oppose labor."

When she tried to find out who the caller was there was no reply, she asserted

FRIENDLY TOWARD LABOR

This woman declared that she had only the friendliest feeling toward labor organizations and could conceive of no relation that should exist between labor and syndicalism. She said she was certain that the labor unions had nothing to do with the mysterious calls.

Several women were reported to have received similar calls, which they declared were the result of their opposition to Miss Whitney's speech before the center last Friday

WOMEN RESENT THREATS

"It seems that we are not even entitled to an opinion," said one of these women today. "Just because we are opposed to the red element coming in when we have our boys back from France and want peace for a change we are hounded and threatened"

Mrs. Lucy Barker, 1705 Ninety-sixth avenue, who protested against Miss Whitney's speech to the Civic Center, said several of her friends had received the call, which was interpreted to have a veiled menace

"In my opinion there is a great difference between syndicalism and organized labor," she said today. I live in a neighborhood in which members of organized labor predominate and I should hate to think them against me because I am opposed to syndicalism and such revolutionary ideas"

RADICALS ARE OPPOSED

Several members of the Civic Center have expressed strong opinions regarding "cleaning out the radicals" since Friday's session, which voted to permit Miss Whitney to speak and which was followed by her arrest. Among those who favored allowing Miss Whitney to address the center was Mrs. F. C. Law the president She said that Miss Whitney should not be condemned unheard.

The telephone calls were all from women, according to the reports received by the police.

They'll Make Soap to Music of "Jazz"

BERKELEY, Dec. 1.—Employees of Peet Bros., one of the largest manufacturing plants in the west will make soap to "jazz" music in the future.

An orchestra composed of sixteen employees of the soap works was organized last night by Sergeant C. A. Becker of the Berkeley police department. C. C. Newkirk, manager of the plant and former Berkeley councilman, is cornetist of the musical aggregation, while other players have been taken from all departments of the works. It is planned to enlarge the orchestra as talent is secured. All of the expenses of the purchasing of instruments and music will be borne by the management of the soap works. Following the complete organization orchestra members will be given time off from their regular duties to practice their music. Sergeant Becker, organizer of the orchestra, is also leader of the Berkeley Manufacturers' Boys band and Manufacturers' Orchestra.

Red Cross Begins Christmas Seal Sale

MISS MYRA HOOPER (left). MISS IRENE MELHUISH (center) and MISS HAZEL LONG found time even on Commencement Day at East Bay Sanitorium to offer Red Cross Christmas Seals for sale. "We're going to get the white plague yet," the young graduates cried when this morning they started in to roll up the $10,000 fund which the Anti-Tuberculosis Society is asked to accumulate in the campaign ending on December 10.

Sale of Stamps Is Started Today

The Red Cross Christmas seal is already here.

Corps of women attacked the town today in a ten days' drive to sell $10,000 worth of the gay bits of paper with their Santa Claus and holly wreath. Society maids and matrons, club leaders and prominent fraternal officials have pledged themselves to the holiday sale of stickers, not because they look so festive on the season's mail, but because every seal spells something accomplished toward the stamping out of the "white plague" within the United States.

BATTLE ON TUBERCULOSIS.

Tuberculosis is preventable and curable as the tiny Red Cross Christmas seals will prove. Throughout California and the United States the little stickers are being presented to holiday shoppers to accumulate funds to rid the country of the disease from which 150,000 persons in this country die annually. The local drive is under the direction of the Alameda County Society for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

More than 200 little children last year received medical care from this particular society in addition to the nine patients which were maintained in the hospitals. Youngsters from families afflicted with the white plague to the number of sixty were given a vacation of several weeks in the summer camp

Banks, department stores, the postoffice and other central downtown stations will accommodate booths where the corps of workers will offer the red and white stickers beginning this morning. More than 4000 letters have been sent throughout the county, making a personal appeal for assistance in the campaign to stamp out the disease. The Oakland Traction Company has purchased $50 worth of stickers for use in the Christmas mails

Miss Elizabeth Burnham today opened a Red Cross seal booth in the University of California library where students are being offered an opportunity "to shop at home." Miss Burnham has undertaken to direct a drive through all the sorority houses in Berkeley

Mrs. E. F. M. Tate-Thompson executive secretary of the California Tuberculosis Association, was in Oakland today, assisting the local headquarters in getting its campaign well under way

SKILLED SHIP WORKERS HERE FROM SEATTLE

Shipyard workers said to be an advance force, arrived today from Seattle on the steamer Governor. Most of those already here are said to be skilled men.

Officials of the California Metal Trades' Association said they had no part in bringing the workers from the north, as the time they promised local men to return to their jobs will not elapse until Wednesday. The exodus from Puget Sound is said to have resulted from the virtual closing of the big Skinner-Eddy plant at Seattle.

Approximately 10,000 workers were said to be at their posts in the seven large shipyards of the bay district with the opening today of the second week of operation under "open shop" rules.

Fred C. Metcalf, secretary of the Employers Association, said that by the end of the week the yards would be running to normal capacity. Already, he declared, 120 of the 150 metal trades plants of the association are in operation.

Officers of the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council and affiliated unions asserted today that the shipyards still lacked skilled men and would be forced to close soon. They said that union men from the north, particularly those belonging to the skilled trades would not accept employment in "open shops."

Advance Payments Urged To Reduce Milk Prices, In Report to Housewives

Dr. Ruth Northington, chairman of the committee which was appointed a week ago to confer with the Alameda County Milk Dealers' Association in regard to some scheme which would reduce the cost of milk from fourteen to thirteen cents a quart, offered the report to the Oakland Housewives' League this afternoon, meeting in the council

The plan favored a pay-in-advance, daily or weekly schedule which would operate in a saving to the milk dealers in doing away with collectors and a part of the clerical force to the benefit of the consumers. The plan is already in operation in several local dairies

Mrs. Annette Adams United States district attorney, was the speaker of the program, presenting to the Oakland women the laws which govern food and the regulation of its costs. The league is devoting its efforts to the task of reducing insofar as is possible the prices on food necessities to the homekeeper

A constitution and by laws was formally presented by the board of directors for adoption. Preliminary announcements of the movement to federate the Housewives' Leagues already organized in the bay cities was made. The purpose of the union will be to crystallize the efforts of the women.

Alameda has called a mass meeting for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock when steps will be taken toward the organization of a Housewives' League in that city. The conference to which all women citizens of Alameda are invited, will be held in Haight school.

THIEVES GET RICH HAUL OF SILVERWARE

J. J. Miller, 3328 Gray street, was robbed by a burglar last night of $600 worth of jewelry and silverware. The police have taken photographs of fingerprints on the window through which the burglar entered. Footprints were also left on the carpet by the thief's muddy shoes.

The home of Carl Rawitcer, 2015 Crosby street, was entered and one lady's watch, a diamond lavallere valued at $200, a lady's ring, four stickpins, two strings of pearls valued at $200 and $30 in currency was taken. The entire loss is estimated at $600. The thief entered through a rear door with a pass key.

MIKE O'DOWD WILL BE HERE TONIGHT: MAY BOX ORTEGA

Local Fans Insist That a Decision Be Given When Champion Meets Four-Rounders

By BOB SHAND

Mike O'Dowd, middleweight champion of the world is due here tonight. Mike is coming beat on business and the Ortegas and Murphys and McCormicks are awaiting his arrival with more than ordinary interest. O'Dowd says that he wants to meet the best middleweights on the Coast and infers that he will not bar any man near his weight. This listens fair enough, but what the fans would like to know is, "Will Mike stand for decisions being rendered in his fights on the Coast?" Decisionless battles were never very popular in this vicinity and they are altogether taboo since Benny Leonard worked the old stuff to a frazzle on his recent visit to the coast.

In recent years only one champion consented to box to a decision here and that was poor old Ted Lewis, the welterweight king and Ted got the beating of his life for his temerity. Battling Ortega was the gent who administered the walloping and only the Kid's friend, Tim Griffin, prevented the Battler from wearing the crown.

Leonard Hurt the Game

O'Dowd is the acknowledged middleweight champion. A lot of people didn't believe it's until Mike defeated Mike Gibbons the other evening, but all the titles in the world will not draw crowds to fight shows here unless the cash customers are assured of seeing a regular fight that is on the up and up with the decision and title at stake. Leonard picked his own opponents and then picked his own referee. This looked strong enough but Benny went even further and refused to stand for a decision by either judges or his hand-picked third referee. The excuse was that Leonard was tied up to a $150,000 contract which would not permit him to box to a decision. It's funny but the contract was never heard of until Benny got panned for playing the sure-thing game and incidentally it was promptly forgotten when he got away from the west. The contract as supposed to call for the world's real. Since that time Leonard has toured all the way from New York to Brooklyn boxing the same old gang managed by the same old clique.

Fans Want a Decision

Perhaps O'Dowd will prove a different kind of an athlete, the fans here hope so but if he wants to pull the no-decision stuff and select his own officials then the cash customers can get action by seeing him in the gymnasium or taking a slant at him strolling down the street. That is as satisfactory as seeing him box an exhibition in the ring. Since O'Dowd hammered poor old Jeff Clark into submission he has never really scored a fight over the limit to figure that any man's manager is one of the new school financiers who [illegible] here he is going to [illegible] to try and sprint [illegible] going for local fans [illegible] honest-to-goodness battle to finish [illegible] away an evening watching some fighter go through [illegible] That's the opinion of [illegible] It is also very likely [illegible] of the San Francisco [illegible] the boys across the [illegible] for buying the [illegible] ex on the time.

Ortega Offered Match

Tommy Simpson, [illegible] Ortega, has been [illegible] Mike O'Dowd in San Francisco and Simpson has told the promoters that he would expect to the value of a [illegible] for the good middle [illegible] posed show [illegible] and Simpson [illegible] start [illegible] and [illegible] after [illegible] man over the dreaded four-round route. The O'Dowd people have probably heard the experiences of other eastern boxers who tried the four-round hurdle and failed. It is the toughest game in the world according to some well known performers who can knock 'em silly in the east but who could not get by in the home of the little four-rounders. Roy McCormick and Spud Murphy are willing to take a chance with Mike but Ortega is the champion of them all and the one fighter in the west that the fans would back to relieve Mr. O'Dowd of his crown.

Larue Watches Morris

Guess, who was an interested and interesting spectator at the West Oakland training camp yesterday when Carl Morris was hammering his sparring partners around the ring? None other than Willie Larue. Bill said he was just motoring past and thought he would come in out of the rain. He shook hands with Carl and then grabbed himself a ringside seat and took a couple of more squints at the immense bulk of the man who knocked Big Bear out of the ring on that memorable afternoon at the Auditorium. Bill did say he was sorry for Gunboat Smith, whom Mr. Morris strangles at the Auditorium Wednesday night, but he wanted to know what chance a little [illegible]

Gus Smith had in the long run [illegible] Morris. Some boxer and [illegible] Willie has his own opinion. Morris strips much heavier than he looks in his street clothes and he is going to tower over Smith as he towered over Larue. Carl says he has got all the [illegible] out of his system and is ready to clean up all the aspiring candidates for the four-round championship but as long as there is a chance of a heavyweight being knocked out the cash customers are going to donate.

Simpson is Shrewd Guy

St. Paul Team Midwest Champs At Bowling

OMAHA, Dec. 1.—The St. Francis hotel five of St. Paul, Minn., stands champion of the Midwest Bowling association at the close of tournament here last night. This team's score of 2946 made on the second night of the tournament stood up as high mark throughout; although many of the best teams of the country opposed it.

The F. G. Smith Arcades of Milwaukee finished in second place with 2865 while the Utica Clothiers of Des Moines, shooting in the final squad tonight, jumped into third place with 2850.

In a match game prior to their appearance in the tournament the Utica Clothiers shot 2984, which would have given them first place is made in the tournament.

The Burrell Bettines were the only team of all the Chicago crack fives to land within the first ten, where the teams of three St. Paul fives, two Milwaukee teams and one each from Minneapolis, Des Moines, Omaha and Fort Dodge, Ia., are recorded.

Wealthy Men Are Behind Movement to Organize a Third Major Ball League

By SAM CRANE.
Written for the International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The amount of financial backing that can be produced by the wealthy capitalists who have been named as being behind the new baseball league has set to hard thinking even those people who are pessimistic in regard to the scheme.

Until such men of affairs named as being interested in organizing the new league are heard from there will be many doubtful ones, but still the mere rumor itself was enough to startle baseball fandom and to make everyone sit up and take notice.

It is not an unreasonable plan, nor is it visionary to think that men like Harry Sinclair, the oil magnate; Commander J. K. L. Ross, Price McKinney and Edsel Ford might become interested in baseball and be willing and possibly anxious to back a new league.

Baseball was never more financially successful than during the past season. Big money was made by most of the major league clubs and none failed to show a balance on the right side of the ledger. That naturally attracted capitalists and capital. The fact, too, that the boom in baseball this year will be permanent is firmly impressed in the minds of the club owners and the splendidly big attendance at football contests this fall, even in this city, that is comparatively neutral to the college game, and also the immense crowds that were attracted to all other outdoor sports, is strong evidence of this being an era of sports and that the popularity of them will be lasting. This feeling has, of course, had a big influence in inducing investments in baseball.

CONDITIONS RIGHT.

That the Federal league was not a success as an outlaw baseball organization will have little effect in restraining capitalists of the wealth of the above named gentlemen in investing in the new league. The Federal league was formed under the most adverse conditions and the backers of that organization did not represent anywhere near the amount of money that Sinclair Ross, McKinney and Ford do. Those gentlemen represent about a billion dollars.

The time is ripe for a new league. That has been made possible by the friction caused in the American league by President Johnson's dictatorial methods that have antagonized beyond any possibility of a compromise the club owners of teams in the three biggest and most important cities in the organization. The clash has been brought to a climax by Johnson's defiant attitude in refusing to sit on any committee of which Colonel Jacob Ruppert might be a member. That was the last straw to the owner of the Yankees, and vastly strengthened the element that is against Johnson and his methods, which have been a thorn to Ruppert, Huston, Comiskey and Frazee.

There is no doubt in the writer's mind of the American league being on the verge of disruption. And that an upheaval in baseball that will result in the organization of a new big league along the lines mentioned seems almost certain. But I also believe that the clubowners of the new organization will see the benefits and necessity of organized baseball to fortify their investment and to add strength and permanency to the national game.

The club that Colonels Ruppert and Huston will own will without doubt play on the Polo Grounds next year, but after that they will build a new ball park of their own.

Legal action may be taken to prevent the proposed new league from getting into organized baseball for a year or so, but eventually the American league will be obliged to drop by the wayside and possibly the old parent baseball body, the National league, may be seriously handicapped in several cities.

CONDITIONS RIGHT.

That the Federal league was not a success as an outlaw baseball organization will have little effect in restraining capitalists of the wealth of the above named gentlemen in investing in the new league. The Federal league was formed under the most adverse conditions and the backers of that organization did not represent anywhere near the amount of money that Sinclair Ross, McKinney and Ford do. Those gentlemen represent about a billion dollars.

The time is ripe for a new league. That has been made possible by the friction caused in the American league by President Johnson's dictatorial methods that have antagonized beyond any possibility of a compromise the club owners of teams in the three biggest and most important cities in the organization. The clash has been brought to a climax by Johnson's defiant attitude in refusing to sit on any committee of which Colonel Jacob Ruppert might be a member. That was the last straw to the owner of the Yankees, and vastly strengthened the element that is against Johnson and his methods, which have been a thorn to Ruppert, Huston, Comiskey and Frazee.

There is no doubt in the writer's mind of the American league being on the verge of disruption. And that an upheaval in baseball that will result in the organization of a new big league along the lines mentioned seems almost certain. But I also believe that the clubowners of the new organization will see the benefits and necessity of organized baseball to fortify their investment and to add strength and permanency to the national game.

The club that Colonels Ruppert and Huston will own will without doubt play on the Polo Grounds next year, but after that they will build a new ball park of their own.

Legal action may be taken to prevent the proposed new league from getting into organized baseball for a year or so, but eventually the American league will be obliged to drop by the wayside and possibly the old parent baseball body, the National league, may be seriously handicapped in several cities.

Jingle Jabs

By TAD.

Fight fans, as a rule, pick Jim Jeffries when they talk of the toughest guy Jack Dempsey could have met. Last night at an uptown soda store a bunch of ring followers got into an argument about the pair. One, a great Jeffries admirer, said that Dempsey could not have hurt Jeff and that after eight or nine rounds he would have tired and have been a cinch for the boiler-maker.

He said that if hitters like Sharkey, Choynski and Fitzsimmons couldn't fraze Jeff what chance would Dempsey have had?

The Dempsey man came right back with an answer. He insisted that Jeffries was not a puncher, and mentioned that Choynski, Ruhlin and Sharkey all went the limit with him and were not mussed up much. He added that the only men Jeff ever knocked out were Corbett, Jackson, Goddard and Fitz, when all were past their prime. He couldn't stop Bob Armstrong in ten rounds and had a tough time of it with every young man he ever met.

The Dempsey man then went on to show that every man that Dempsey met was dropped for the count excepting Billy Miske and Meehan.

He figured that if Dempsey could stop Morris, Smith, Brennan, Willard and Levinsky in jig time he'd certainly do the same to Jeffries, who was one of the easiest of the heavies to hit.

It's a hard thing to figure today. Jeff was a marvel in build and weighed about 218 pounds in fighting trim. He stood over six feet and was as strong as a pair of bulls. Dempsey stands over six feet but tips the beam at only around 190 in ring costume. He can hit, though, but whether he could have mixed with the big "bear" Jeffries and lasted a while we can't say.

THE GREATEST FIGHTER HE EVER SAW.

Dear Tad:

No apology intended, as I've only glimpsed a dozen fights in my life, but I've read of a lot. But to the fighter—that boy was old Leaches Cross. He combined everything that a fighter needs. Here's my dope:

1. He always drew a crowd; half the gang came to see him knocked out; the other half to see him win. As a boxoffice attraction he WAS THERE!

3. He could go the distance, and wasn't afraid of that twenty-round stuff. Look at his record and his go with Dick Hyland.

4. He had science, his footwork was the works. Talking about science—stalling—that's a science of its own! And Leaches could stall, man, he'd look as though canvas would be his resting place any moment—when suddenly he came to life! Oh! Mommer! That ol' left would shoot out like a 75 and bloore, the house was in an uproar! Thrills—he sure made many! The fans that were present at his fights—none will ever forget him. He was my idea of some fighter. ERT.

CANADA CAL'S CHIRPS.

If you want to buy something in America the dealer must hear the clink of your coin. In Russia he must hear the rumble of your ruble.

As the fellow said when he tried a glass of near beer. "A miss is as good as a 'smile'!"

The man who has had his flivver stolen can claim he has been de-automobilized.

JIM CORBETT A TRAPSHOT.

That James J. Corbett was a "bear" as a clay target shooter is something that few of the present-day sportsmen are aware. Such, however, is a fact. Years ago when Richard K. Fox lived at Elmhurst, Long Island, he offered a trophy for a trapshooting event for those who were actively engaged in athletics at that period. "Gentleman Jim" shot good enough to bring home the trophy.

This incident about Corbett brings to mind the day that John L. Sullivan tried his skill at the clays at a gun club on the Pacific Coast. John L. had watched the shooters smash the tar hawks and figured he could do something in that line himself. He soon connected with a gun and took his place at the traps. He pointed right on the first one or the target got in the way of his head and it was pulverized. Then "John L's" real ability was shown for he missed 24 in succession. That was his first and last experience at the traps.

THOUSANDS OF NEW SHOOTERS.

Thousands of men and women, boys and girls, are shooting at the traps, on the rifle range and in the field, who never shot before, and it will only be a matter of a few years when America will again be recognized as a nation of shooters. The wholesome desire to live in the great outdoors—and live longer—appeals more and more each year. It is an established fact that those who give a regular amount of time to play can keep up with their business a great deal better and do a lot more work in a shorter period of time. It is a note-worthy fact that 8 per cent of the men who participated in the registered trapshooting tournaments of 1919 were physicians. If the sport is good enough for physicians it is good enough for others. Trapshooting [illegible] to be found in practically every city and one of these days we hope to be able to tell you that there is a rifle range near every town and city in the country.

Jack Kearns Denies Dempsey is Matched

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1. — Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, today denied Dempsey had been lined up to box the winner of the Joe Beckett-Georges Carpentier bout in London next June, as was reported in press despatches from London today.

"I received a cable from Promoter Cochran yesterday asking me if Dempsey would meet the winner of the Beckett-Carpentier bout, but I have not replied to the message. I am going to wait until Beckett and Carpentier fight it out Thursday before taking any steps to accept a match with the winner.

"American promoters will be in the field for such a match and will be given consideration. Any announcement that we have agreed to a match is premature."

Local Water Polo Team Wins Hard Game From Sutros

The Sutro Aquatics were defeated in their own tank by the water polo team from the Oakland Athletic club, but their defeat does not give the local team any cause to be boastful. The transbay team gave the O. A. C. a much harder contest than expected, the score being 5 to 0.

August Brewick, at forward, played a fine game for Oakland, while Armstrong, playing goal for the same team, looked very good in his new position. The lineups and scores:

Sutros	Position	Oakland
Lassiter	forward	Grazer
Love	forward	Brevick
Chope	forward	O'Connell
Schoenfeld	back	Butler
Wallach	back	H. Miller
Peterson	back	Howell
Wiseman	goal	F. Armstrong

All Seats Sold for Big London Scrap

LONDON, Dec. 1. — Joe Beckett and Georges Carpentier, who are to fight 20 rounds here Thursday night for the heavyweight championship of Europe and the right to meet Jack Dempsey for the world's crown, have ceased strenuous training. Only light exercise to keep them in trim will be carried out in the coming days before the fight. Beckett continues to be the favorite. He will have between 15 and 17 pounds weight advantage over the Frenchman.

With the exception of a few for $125, every seat in the stadium has been sold. The house will run close to $100,000.

SHOOTING FROM THE AIR.

During the Westy Hogans shoot at Atlantic City N. J., several leading amateur trapshots and Mrs. Topperwein, professional, tried trapshooting from aeroplanes. The shooter occupied the space usually occupied by the observer and shot at small balloons on which birds were painted. This kind of shooting no doubt is spectacular and may be a lot of fun, but it will never become popular with the masses.

TRAPSHOOTERS TO HOLD ANNUAL MEET TOMORROW

By WALTER P. CARNEY.

The United States will be represented by a trapshooting team in the Olympic games in Belgium next summer.

Where the Grand American Handicap trapshooting tournament will be held in 1920, and when.

Whether the United States and Canada should be divided into state or sectional zones to give better management are some of the things that will come up for consideration at the joint meeting of executive committee of the American Trapshooting Association and the Amateur Committee on Rules in New York tomorrow. And these questions and a thousand others will have to be answered at that time, for provision must be made early for the season of 1920.

We can say right off the bat that the United States will be represented in the Olympic games by a team of trapshooters and that the expenses of the team will be borne by the trapshooters of the United States. How this expense will be apportioned I have no knowledge, nor have I knowledge at this time as to how the team will be selected, but I see no reason why the highest ten men in the 1919 averages should not be selected. The high ten will be just about the best combination in the country and the high five will be just about the best team in the world. Three of the first five will be Mark Arie, Woolfolk Henderson and Frank Troeh. No one surely will question the ability of this trio.

Four cities want the Grand American Handicap tournament, Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo and Atlantic City, other I've known as the playground of the world. Secretary McLinn was delegated to visit the last three named cities and report his findings. If we had enough money to gamble we would lay a wager on one of the Ohio cities.

The amateur trapshooters have asked for many things and they feel that they should pay for some of the benefits. They want the rules of trapshooting revised and brought up to the minute; they want them strict and they want them observed; they want the shoots managed by amateurs, aided by professionals; they want a standard trap house, a standard load, better referees, and better management. They expect to help pay for some of these things. Whether the cost should be put on the shooters who participate in registered tournament events only, or on all shooters, is a matter to be discussed. Some are inclined to the opinion that each shooter should pay a half cent on every registered target, while others assert that the only fair way is to add a dollar to the dues of each and every member of every trapshooting and gun club, and that one-half of the money go to the State association and the other half go to the national body of amateurs.

Then the American Trapshooting Association has an idea to block off the nation in zones, place a manager in every zone who will have charge of trapshooting in that district, keep all the averages of club and registered shoots, furnish them to clubs who desire information on shooters, eliminate conflicting tournaments and attend every tournament and see that it is managed properly. This seems a good scheme, but some of the amateurs think that the State associations can be revamped and that this work can be intrusted to the State associations.

No matter what is done, trapshooting will benefit. More progress was made at the meeting this year than in thirty years. It is now up to the combined bodies to "dig in" and make up for lost time.

E. R. Galvin of Wilmington, Del., is the president of the American Trapshooting Association for 1920; F. W. Olin of East Alton, Ill., vice-president, and Thomas A. Davis of New York, treasurer.

While trying to go along side of a dock at Astoria yesterday the Shipping Board's new steamer Nishmaha ran into and damaged the stern of the ship Reuce, which was unloading canned salmon at the Kenney Cannery dock. The ship and also the warehouse were badly damaged. A survey of the vessel will be held today by Captain McNaught of the Marine Underwriters. The damage will amount to thousands of dollars. The Nishmaha was loaded with flour for Europe, and on her maiden voyage, when the accident happened. She was under command of Captain Brust, and was launched at Portland on July 21 of this year. The [illegible] ton craft, which arrived from Chignik Bay, Alaska on October 4 with salmon. Last year a cannery ship was sunk at Seattle with 50,000 cases of salmon on board, by a Japanese steamer ramming her, and is still submerged.

With a cargo of 6405 bales of hemp from Manila and 1000 cases of canned pineapple from Honolulu, the Shipping Board's steamer West Keene arrived in port, after a good passage of thirty-one days. She will unload her cargo at Oakland. This is the second large hemp shipment brought here within a month.

It has been decided by the Rolph company to tow the barkentine Hesperian to Alameda, where most of her cargo will be unloaded, and then the vessel will be towed to Eureka where she was built a year ago, to be repaired. She was run into a week ago by a government steamer while at anchor off Goat Island and her stern was badly damaged. She has a cargo of 1,600,000 feet of lumber from Columbia river for South Africa.

Six steam schooners loaded with 3,677,000 feet of lumber arrived in this port during the past twenty-four hours, with several other craft to follow within a few days. The weather along the coast is in favor of the lumber craft as they are coming from the north, but below the Golden Gate the wind is from the south, with steady rain, unsettled weather along the California, Oregon and Washington coast is what is predicted by masters of vessels arriving here.

The steamer Pasadena which arrived from Albion yesterday with 300,000 feet of lumber, will, after her cargo is out go on the drydock of Hanlon. The Pasadena is under command of Captain Beck, and is the only steam schooner owned and operated on this coast by the Southern Pacific company. She will have a general overhauling.

Under command of Captain E. G. Ahlstrom of Berkeley the T. P. H. Whitelaw wrecker, Greenwood, returned from Monterey where she has been overhauling the moorings of the Associated Oil company.

After several years of service with the Red Salmon Canning company as master of different craft, Captain [illegible] last vessel of the company was the bark Pactolus, which arrived here from Nushagak, Alaska, on August 21, with 20 000 cases of canned salmon. Wester is well known here having been master of vessels of the Alaska fleet for the past twenty-five years. He was master of sealing and otter hunting vessels many years ago, and made his home in Oakland, but now has been appointed master of one of the new four-masted barkentines which is being completed in a northern port. She will be known as the Forest Dream, and is chartered to load lumber at Gray's Harbor for Sydney, Australia. Captain Wester will take his wife and children with him on this voyage, and their Oakland home will be closed until his return. More than thirty-five years ago Wester came to this coast on the ship Three Brothers, and deserted with another sailor. Both were compelled to swim ashore. Wester made the beach but his comrade drowned before he could be rescued by the officers of the vessel. Since that time Wester has remained on this coast and has followed the sea, being one of the lucky mariners of the Pacific coast.

JUDGE TURNS DOWN 44-HOUR WEEK DEMAND

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Judge Samuel Alschuler, federal arbitrator in the stockyards wage hearing, today handed down a decision awarding a moderate increase in pay to 120,000 employees of packing plants in Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver, Milwaukee and East St. Louis. Judge Alschuler declined to grant the demand for a 44-hour week, declaring that maximum production at the packing plant is necessary at this time. He also refused the demands for double pay for overtime employment and refused the demand for an 8-hour day for special watchmen and police not employed at the plants.

BONUS GRANTED TO YARD MEN

He granted a bonus of 7½ per cent on wages up to $20 a week to yard employees; mechanical tradesmen—carpenters, painters, electricians, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers and others were granted an increase of 2½ per cent. Helpers in the latter class were granted an 8 per cent. The wage increases are retroactive, going back to September 1. This back pay will reach a total of $500,000, it was estimated.

The demand of Kansas City teamsters and chauffeurs for an eight-hour day was refused as was the demand for elimination of piecework in the department.

GRANT DEDICATES TEMPLE OF LAIE

LAIE, Island of Oahu, T. H., Nov. 30.—A magnificent Mormon Temple was dedicated here today by Heber J. Grant, president of the mother church in Salt Lake City, four years after the site was consecrated by the late President Joseph F. Smith and sixty-nine years after the first Mormon missionaries made this their Hawaiian headquarters.

Today's dedication marked the conclusion of four days of ceremonies, to attend which President Grant made a special trip from Utah.

TEMPLE NEAR HONOLULU

Before the temple stands a semi-circular wall ten feet high, while a series of terraces stretches from the entrance of the grounds to the temple door. Each terrace is three feet higher than the next below, [illegible] within the temple square, where provision is made for fish, water fowl and flowering plants in four cement ponds. The grounds are surrounded by a wall of native stone.

E. Wesley Smith, son of the late president of the Mormon church, is the president of the Hawaiian Mission. He is a native of Hawaii, having been born at Laie thirty-three years ago while his father was conducting missionary work upon the island of Oahu. He worked for three years as a missionary among the Hawaiians and also spent five years as a missionary in California.

WADDOPE IS PRESIDENT

William M. Waddope is president of the temple and Duncan McAllister, for many yeears chief recorder in the temple at Salt Lake City, will be chief recorder of the Laie temple. Elder Robert Flunket, a young Hawaiian will assist Elder McAllister in this work.

The Mormon church has houses of worship in all the principal settlements of the Hawaiian group.

Manufacturers of State Issue Statement Dealing With Policy Toward Labor

Recognizing the third party interest in industrial strife—the interest of the general public — the California Manufacturers' Association today issued a "Declaration of Principles" that in its opening paragraph takes into consideration the interests of the public in all dealings between the employee and employer.

This "Declaration of Principles" follows as one of the results of the Diablo conference, held at the Mt. Diablo Country Club by the association on November 14, 15 and 16.

ISSUED BY MILLAR

John R. Millar, president of the California Cotton Mills Company of Oakland and president of the California Manufacturers' Association, in making public the "Declaration of Principles," said:

"The principles defining the attitude of the association in employment relations represent the views of leaders in diverse industries of the state and of qualified experts in this field.

"This association is the first, as far as we know, that has recognized, in such a statement, the indubitable right of the great American public."

DECLARES PRINCIPLES

The "Declaration of Principles" follows:

"1. Fair dealing between employee and employer with due regard to the interests of the public, is the fundamental and basic principle on which relations between each other should rest.

"2. We are not opposed to labor organizations as such, but we are unalterably opposed to any acts on the part of such organizations which endanger the best interests of employees, employers, or the public.

"3. We believe that organizations of labor should be required to form under, and be responsible to, the law of the land, in like manner and measure as is required of employers.

"4. No person should be refused employment or in any way discriminated against on account of membership or non-membership in any labor organization responsible in itself and loyal to the government of the United States, and there should be no discrimination against or interference with any loyal employee who is not a member of a labor organization by members of such organizations.

"5. With due regard to contracts, it is the right of the employee to leave his employment, and it is the right of the employer to discharge any employee.

REACH MUTUAL AGREEMENTS

"6. Employers must be free to engage their employees at mutually satisfactory wages which conform to the public welfare without interference or dictation on the part of individuals of organizations not directly parties to such contract.

"7. With due regard to the interests of the public and the welfare of the employee, employers must be unhampered in the management of their business, in determining the amount and quality of their product, and in the use of any methods or systems of pay which are just and equitable.

"8. In the interests of the general public and of employees and employers of the country, no limitation should be placed upon the opportunities of any person to learn any trade to which he or she may be adapted.

"9. We are strenuously opposed to strikes, sympathetic strikes, lockouts, black lists, boycotts and kindred abuses, and favor an equitable adjustment of all contentions between employees and employers by an amicable method that will preserve the rights of all parties.

MAY CONTRACT COLLECTIVELY.

"10. Employees have the right to contract for their services in a collective capacity, but any contract that contains a stipulation that employment should be denied to men not a party to the contract, we oppose as an invasion of the constitutional rights of workmen, and as against public policy. This association is unalterably opposed to the closed shop and believes that the doors of every industrial enterprise should be open to every loyal workman, irrespective of his membership or non-membership in any responsible labor organization.

Industrial NEWS EAST AND WEST Shipping DAY'S EVENTS IN WORLD OF Finance

$300,000 TAX DELINQUENCY ANTICIPATED

The prediction of County Tax Collector M. J. Kelly that the delinquency in the payment of county taxes will be greater this year than last year, received further confirmation when it was announced that at the beginning of today's business, since when no total has been taken, there remained approximately $1,000,000 of the amount expected to be paid in before the delinquency period begins.

Last year's delinquency on the first installment was slightly more than $128,000. It is stated that usually there is paid in on the last day over the counter about $200,000. The amount that comes in by mail on the last day or received subsequent thereto but mailed on the last day of grace amounts ordinarily to about $500,000. Thus there would be left delinquent in the neighborhood of $300,000, or more than double last year's amount. But it is pointed out that since the total tax levy is greater than last year, the total levy for the year being $5,577,795.28, as against slightly more than $4,600,000 last year. The payments are heavier and the receipts of the last day and by mail may be expected to be greater than last year.

Today is the last day for payment before taxes become delinquent. Kelly's office will remain open until 6 o'clock this afternoon to receive tax payments.

The total amount due in the first installment is $3,223,172. The figures show that at the time of the latest balance this morning there had been paid in $2,644,514.89. But a minor portion of this is for second-installment taxes, some paying both installments together, and it was expected, if the normal rate of payment is maintained that about $4,000,000 would be paid in before the delinquent penalty is attached. This penalty is 15 per cent of the amount due.

Of the amount thus far received $1,159,183.37 has been paid since Kelly assumed office one week ago today. The balance, $1,485,331.52, was paid to the late ex-Collector J. B. Barber between the first Monday in October, when taxes became due and payable, and November 24, when Kelly was appointed.

The difference between early and late payments is shown by the fact that during October only $414,979.50 was received by the tax collector, while during November there was paid in $2,379,602.30, of which $1,220,418.93 was received by Collector Barber.

$150,000,000 REVENUE TAKEN IN 1ST. DISTRICT

When the books in the office of Collector of Internal Revenue Justus S. Wardell are closed on December 31, it is estimated that more than $150,000,000 will have been collected in the First California District during the calendar year 1919. Chief Deputy John L. Flynn stated that more than $100,000,000 will be credited to income and profits tax collections.

Monday, December 15, is the due date for the fourth quarterly installment payments of the 1918 income and profits taxes. Thousands of statements are being mailed to taxpayers in the district who have outstanding installment accounts. Penalty and interest will be asserted after the above due date, it was announced.

Carrying out the provisions of the revenue act of 1918, complete lists of individuals who filed income tax returns have been sent to 1500 postoffices in Northern California and 200 in Nevada, to be posted for public inspection. No mark or sign whatever is placed on the lists to indicate the kind of return filed by the taxpayer.

In the middle of the Nevada desert lives Larry Hogo, an 82-year-old, one-legged hermit, who is operating over fifty mining claims. His partner, Christine Cornelius, 60 years old, on the left, supplies money for running the claims. Besides Hogo in the photograph is "Rawhide Jack" Davis, famous Nevada prospector and mining man. Hogo lives in North Tonopah, six miles from Tonopah, across desert country. Hogo was engaged in running slaves into the Southern States from the Congo before the Civil War. FEW ARRESTS MADE FOR 126 AUTO MISHAPS

Out of 126 automobile accidents during October and November, in Oakland, arrests were made in but sixteen cases, according to the reports of the central police station. In sixty days fifty pedestrians were run down and a very few persons detained for investigation. There were forty-seven cases of automobile collisions, mostly with slight injury, and only an occasional arrest or fixing of responsibility.

STREETS DANGEROUS.

According to Sergeant J. F. Fahy, in charge of the traffic squad, he has only three men for duty part of the day, the rest of the time the traffic having to take care of itself. He says that his office is the recipient of innumerable complaints because the congested condition of the downtown intersections after the traffic officers go off duty makes it hazardous for pedestrians to cross the streets.

There are 26,000 automobiles in Alameda county, he points out, each of which makes the trip through the city's center many times a day on an average. The traction company's records show that the number of people traveling on street cars each month exceeds 6,000,000, practically all of whom come downtown and congest the streets. He points out that although Oakland's growth has been phenomenal, with an enormous increase of automobiles, the traffic squad has remained the same.

Attention is called to the fact that the number traveling by trains from and to Oakland stations is the enormous total of 4,000,000 monthly with no traffic officers at the principal stations.

The general public, not using automobiles, it is said, do not know the traffic signals, and guess at the direction a machine is going at a turn, and that only the superior dodging efficiency of the people, as well as the improved control of the machine prevents many more accidents.

NO CONVICTIONS.

Within the past two months there have been an increased number of deaths resulting from such accidents, and the records show no convictions of anyone for their responsibility.

There was the case of the easterner who, driving at a speed that attracted the attention of everyone on the street, plunged over the end of Broadway into the estuary, killing his two women companions. It was admitted that he had been drinking. The record shows that he was dismissed.

A woman and her daughter were killed outright after stepping down from a street car and passing behind it to cross the street. The driver of the car was arrested. The coroner's jury found that he was exceeding the speed limit. He was released on his own recognizance, and then dismissed.

A fourteen-year-old boy was driving a truck that killed a woman who was crossing the street with her little child. The boy had no operator's license. He was turned over to the juvenile department. No one responsible for his being in charge of the machine was arrested.

PROSECUTION USELESS.

Captain of Inspectors Walter J. Petersen makes the assertion that "A rich man can go down into the street and kill people with his automobile and on the theory of accident, with no criminal intent, go free."

Captain Petersen says the prosecuting attorney has to be forced to issue a complaint in the case of speeding and so-called accident, that they declare it is useless to prosecute.

District Attorney Ezra W. Decoto admits that only one conviction on a manslaughter charge growing out of so-called accidents has been obtained in his memory of the office, even when it is proved that the driver was intoxicated. He denies that the prosecuting attorney is unwilling to issue complaints, and says the police department can secure a complaint whenever they will swear to it.

Decoto says that when the word accident is used it is implied that there is no criminal intent, and that criminal intent in connection with so-called accidents is the most difficult of proof. He says that for example, an engineer who causes a fatal accident by overlooking signals or orders may be prosecuted for involuntary manslaughter, and that the same principle applies in the case of a driver of a car who contributes to a fatal accident while exceeding the speed limit. But the absence of proof of malicious intent to harm makes the charge an easy one to defend. Civil suit for damages he says, is the best remedy.

REPORTS BRIEF.

Because of the failure to secure prosecutions the police are no longer making arrests unless the case is notoriously flagrant and even when fatalities occur when the machine is speeding, offenders have lately been dismissed without being held to answer. Even in such cases the offender has in late instances not been prosecuted for the lesser offense of speeding.

Concern as to the outcome of the matter prompted a study of the accident records on file in the police department. The reports are brief frequently lacking in detail. An instance is that of a man taken to the receiving hospital. The report of the officer investigating the case says the man, who was rendered unconscious, ran into the rear of the truck, according to the driver. The report says the man will be able to talk in the morning. There is nothing further given.
